SCHOOL OF LAW

Justice, Sir, is the great interest of man on earth. It is the ligament which holds the civilized beings and civilized nations together.
Wherever her temple stands,
and so long as it is duly honored,
there is a foundation for social security, general happiness
and the improvement and progress of our race.

*Daniel Webster, Funeral Oration
for Mr. Justice Story, September 12, 1845.*

Justice, though due to the accused,
is due to the accuser also.
The concept of fairness must not be strained
till it is narrowed to a filament.
We are to keep the Balance true.

Cardozo, J., Snyder v. Massachusetts
291 U.S. 97, 122 (1934).

Man's capacity for justice
makes democracy possible,
but man's inclination to injustice
makes democracy necessary.

*The Children of Light and

The Journal of Air Law and Commerce, founded at Northwestern University in 1930, has been published at Southern Methodist University since 1961. The quarterly Journal is the foremost scholarly English language publication dealing exclusively with the legal and economic problems of aviation and space. The Journal has a worldwide circulation with subscribers in every state and more than fifty foreign countries. Originally edited by lawyers and economists, at Southern Methodist University the Journal has become a student law review.

In the summer of 1967 the Journal sponsored a Symposium on the Warsaw Convention. The speakers were foremost authorities in the field of aviation. The membership of this conference was composed of many persons from the United States and from foreign countries.

The operation and management of the Journal is vested in a Board of Editors composed of senior students. Second year students selected on the basis of scholarship may become candidates for editorial positions. The Board is chosen from the candidates who exhibit high capacities for legal research and writing. Invitations to write for the Journal are extended to first year students at the end of the fall and spring semesters on the basis of scholarship.

THE ORDER OF THE COIF

The Order of the Coif, a national law school scholastic honor society, was established at SMU in 1967. Not more than ten per cent of each graduating class may be elected to membership by vote of the faculty. From 1935 to 1966, the Order of the Woolsack was the School of Law's honor society and had the same standards for election as The Order of the Coif.

The Legal Clinic provides the law student with a challenging opportunity to participate in the actual practice of law. It serves the Law School as a teaching device by which students, working under faculty supervision in a law office environment, are able to fulfill the roll and professional responsibilities of an attorney in private practice. The Clinic performs a valuable community service by handling actual cases for persons who cannot afford an attorney's fee, and in the process the students are exposed to some of the most dynamic and critical problems which face our society.

The Clinic is staffed each semester by forty student attorneys who process more than 1200 cases a year. This case volume exceeds that of almost all law school operated clinics and compares very favorably with Legal Aid offices in many cities across the country. Office consultations and civil and criminal trial court appearances make up a majority of the cases handled through the Clinic.

Working under the guidance of the Director and Associate Director the student attorneys conduct client interviews, advise clients as to possible courses of action, draft pleadings and other legal documents and participate in court proceedings. The student attorney gains trial experience by being required to conduct at least one divorce trial and to participate in actual trials in the justice of the peace courts and in the Irving Teen Age Traffic Court program. The students also have an opportunity to participate with the Director in the trial of some serious criminal cases, to make local jail visits, to answer correspondence from inmates of various prisons, particularly the State Penitentiary at Huntsville, and to participate in the unusual program of legal counselling at the Federal Correctional Institution at Seagoville.

The Student Bar Association consists of officers and representatives elected by the student body, with meetings open to any member of the law school. The Student Bar acts as a liaison in coordinating the interests of the students and the administration. In addition, the Student Bar, through various committees, conducts a forum for public and professional speakers; sponsors two major social functions a year; maintains an active program for foreign students; and has sponsored publication of this year-book.

THE SOUTHWESTERN LEGAL FOUNDATION

The Southwestern Legal Center is composed of the Southern Methodist University School of Law and The Southwestern Legal Foundation. While the primary purpose of the Law School is the preparation of students for the practice of law, The Southwestern Legal Foundation is an educational institution designed to provide continuing education for practicing attorneys and business executives.

In the academic year 1966-1967, the Foundation conducted 25 programs in various fields. Approximately 5,000 participants attended, coming from all the United States and many other nations. These programs were conducted under the auspices of the four educational centers of the Foundation, namely; The Continuing Legal Education Center; The International and Comparative Law Center; The International Oil and Gas Educational Center, and The Southwestern Law Enforcement Institute.

The programs are scheduled as institutes and symposia of two to three days in duration; short courses of one to two weeks in duration; schools of four weeks in duration; and academies of seven to eight weeks in duration.

An invited group of distinguished citizens in all professional and business fields comprise the Research Fellows of The Foundation, who work with all the educational centers and are responsible through their original support for the establishment of some of The Foundation's most successful programs.

Each year The Foundation awards scholarships for some of its own noncredit programs and makes grants for accredited study in the Southern Methodist University Law School to both undergraduate and graduate students. The latter group includes foreign nationals who are pursuing advanced law studies.

Augmented annually by eight to ten volumes, The Foundation's publications number more than 70 volumes, largely made up of institute and symposia proceedings. Oil and Gas Reporter, a monthly service, is one of The Foundation's oldest continuing programs.

The Foundation was chartered in 1947 as an educational and civic organization of businessmen, judges, lawyers, educators, government officials, and business groups, its stated purpose being "to establish and operate legal institutes and any other related activities for the benefit of the Legal Profession, the Public, and the Government; to conduct institutes, research, and forums of International Law and Relations . . ."

Robert G. Storey

Since the beginning of the Foundation, Robert G. Storey has been the President. He is Dean Emeritus of the Southern Methodist University Law School. Andrew R. Cecil is Executive Vice President and General Director.

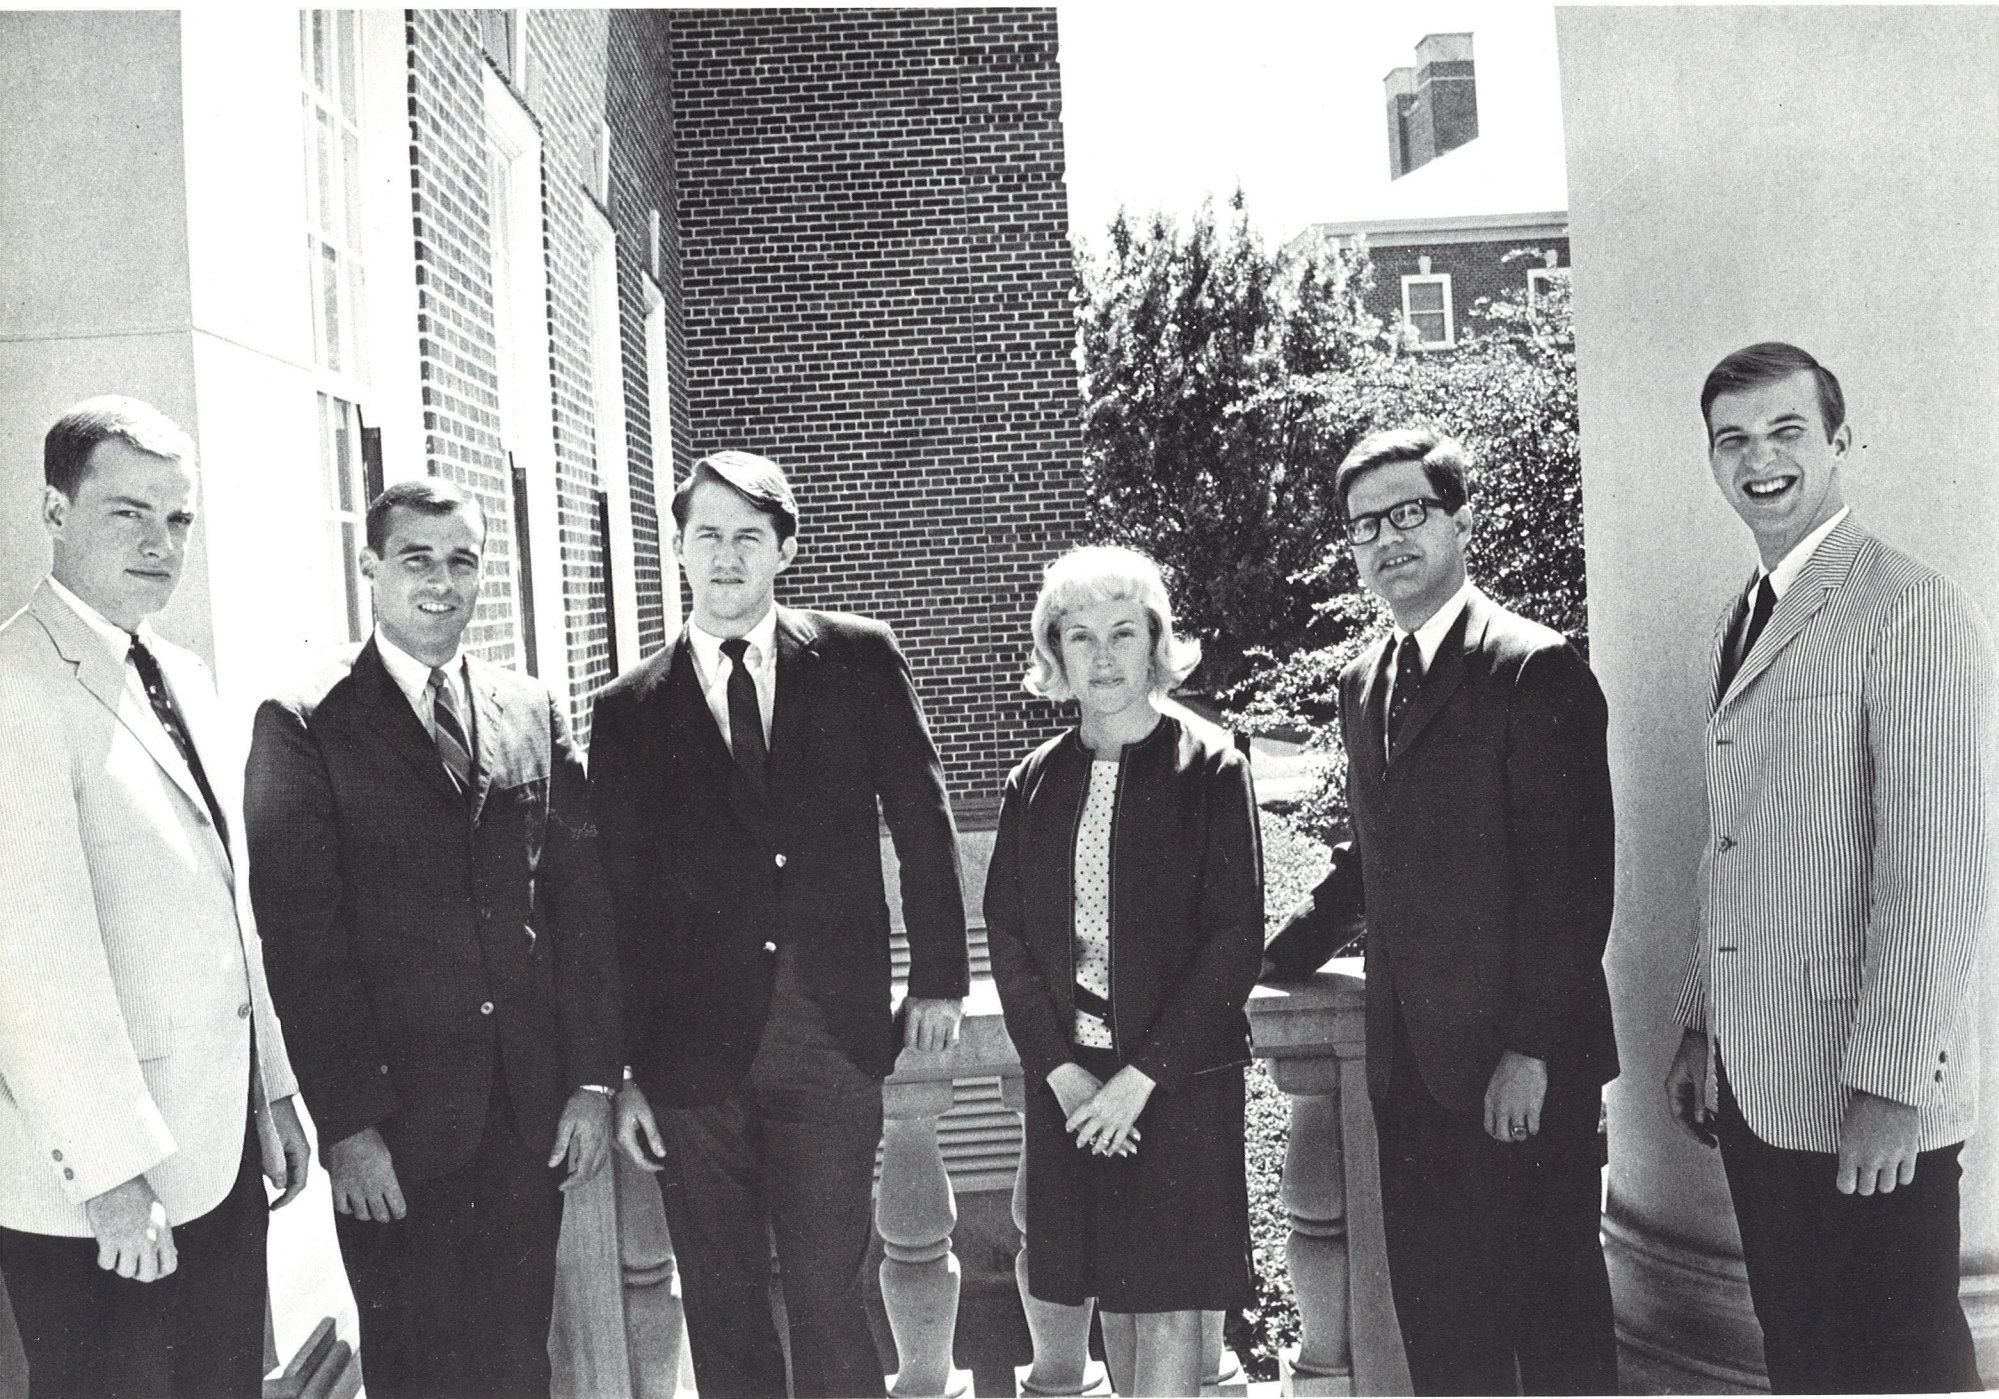

Other members of the Administrative Staff include: Sam H. Acheson, Consultant to the Executive Vice President; Beulah T. Luther, Assistant Secretary and Controller; Leonard Sublett, Administrative Assistant and Registrar; Virginia S. Cameron, Director of Publications; Armine C. LAW WEEK

To celebrate National Law Week there are many events planned for the SMU Legal Community. The Bar-risters choose this time to announce their new members. Under the auspices of the Student Bar a golf tournament is held with student, faculty, judicial, and lawyer participants. During this week the Moot Court competition is held among the first year students. A highlight of the week is the Mock trial with the comical portrayal of the professor. Climaxing the week is the awards banquet and dance.

VOTE FOR A MAN WHO:

1. Is not afraid of Virginia Wolfe
2. Loves the flag and motherhood.
3. Thinks that life would be much simpler if all the bad guys wore black hats.
4. Realizes when he has made a mistake because his wife tells him about it.
5. Loans people money to get sworus on the basis that it is a home improvement loan.
6. Thinks John Birch is a type of tree.
7. Wouldn't eat his hat for any damn filter cigarette.
8. Thinks reform must come from the bottom, as no man with four aces ever demands a refund.
9. Thinks that trying to understand law is somewhat like trying to follow the plot in a bowl of alphabet soup.
10. Would work diligently if elected Student Bar Treasurer.
