Charles O. Galun

Dean of the School of Law

It is my pleasure again this year to extend the very best wishes of the Law School faculty and administration to all of the students for whom this book is prepared.

Wherever our students practice, and whatever contribution they make to the profession and the communities in which they serve, this book records the initial stages of entry into that professional life. It goes to you with our best wishes.

The Journal of Air Law and Commerce, founded at Northwestern University in 1930, has been published at SMU since 1961. The Journal has a worldwide circulation with subscribers in every state and more than fifty foreign countries. Originally edited by lawyers and economists, at SMU the Journal has become a student law review. The operation and management of the Journal is vested in a Board of Editors composed of senior students.

Legal Aid Clinic

The Legal Clinic provides the law student with a challenging opportunity to participate in the actual practice of law. It serves the Law School as a teaching device by which students, working under faculty supervision in a law office environment, are able to fulfill the role and professional responsibilities of an attorney in private practice. Working under the guidance of the faculty, the student attorneys conduct client interviews, advise clients as to possible courses of action, draft pleadings and other legal documents and participate in court proceedings.

The Advocates is composed of all the students residing in Lawyers Inn. The officers of The Advocates are responsible for scheduling social, sport, and educational programs of interest for the residents.

Robert G. Storey, President, receives award for his leadership during the Foundation's Twenty Years from Andrew R. Cecil, Executive Vice President.

The Southwestern Legal Foundation

The Southwestern Legal Center is composed of the Southern Methodist University School of Law and The Southwestern Legal Foundation. The Southwestern Legal Foundation is an educational institution designed to provide continuing education for practicing attorneys and business executives.

In the academic year 1967-1968, The Foundation conducted 26 programs in various fields, with participants coming from all the United States and many other nations. These programs are conducted under the auspices of the five educational centers of the Foundation, namely, the Counting Legal Education Center; the International and Comparative Law Center, the International Oil and Gas Educational Center; the Southwestern Law Enforcement Center, and the Municipal Legal Studies Center.

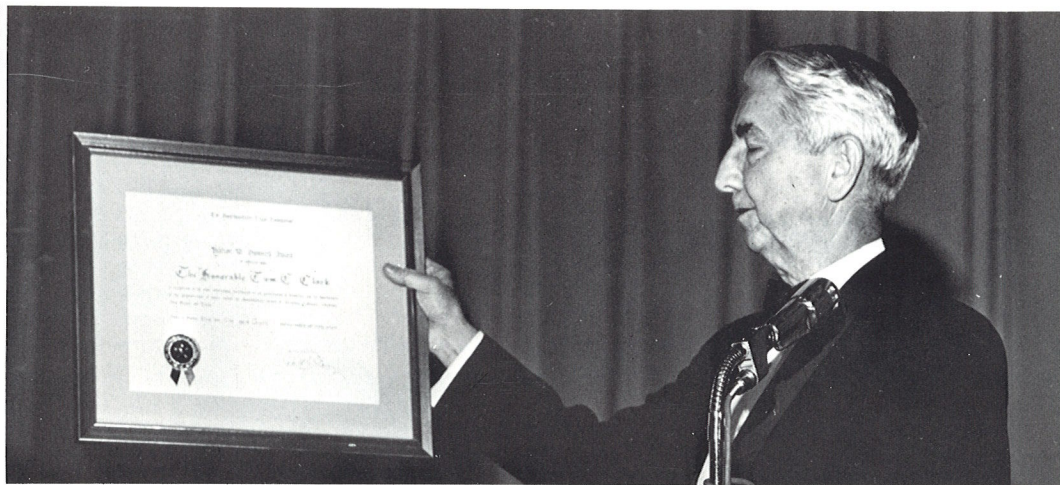

The programs are scheduled as institutes and symposia of two to three days in duration; short courses of one to two weeks in duration; schools of four weeks in duration; and academies of seven to twelve weeks in duration.

An invited group of distinguished citizens in all professional and business fields comprise the Research Fellows of The Foundation, who work with all the educational centers and are responsible through their original support for the establishment of some of The Foundation's most successful programs.

Each year The Foundation awards scholarships and fellowships for its own programs and makes grants for accredited study in the Southern Methodist University Law School to both undergraduate and graduate students. The latter group includes foreign nationals who are pursuing advanced law studies.

Augmented annually by eight to ten volumes, The Foundation's publications number more than 70 volumes, largely made up of institute and symposia proceedings. Oil and Gas Reporter, a monthly service, is one of The Foundation's oldest periodical publications in the field of continuing education.

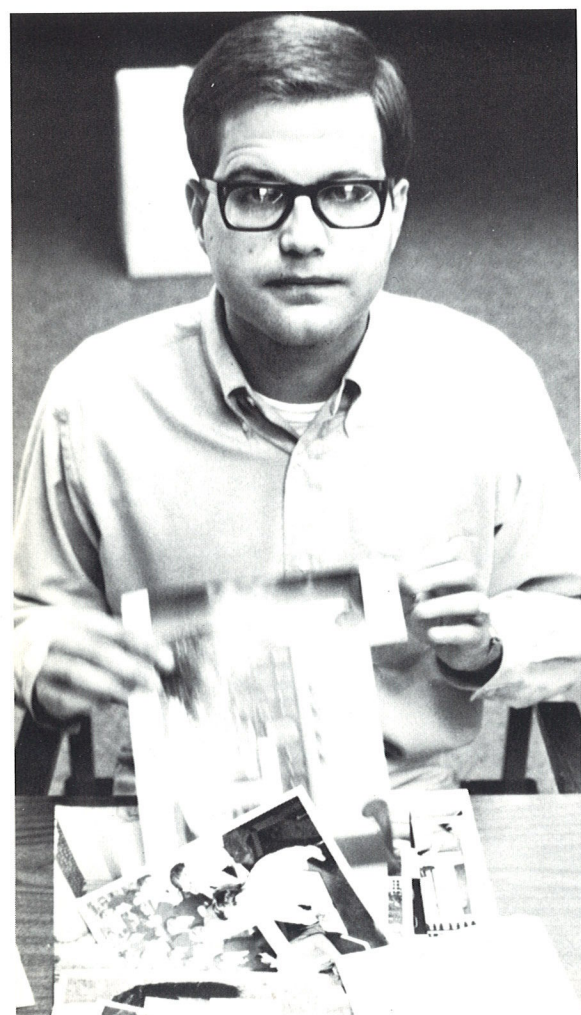

The Foundation was chartered in 1947 as an educational and civic organization of businessmen, judges, lawyers, educators, and government officials, its stated purpose being "to establish and operate legal institutes and any other related activities for the benefit of the Legal Profession, the Public, and the Government; to conduct institutes, research, and forums of International Law and Relations . . ."

Since the beginning of The Foundation, Robert G. Storey has been the President. He is Dean Emeritus of the Southern Methodist University Law School. William A. Blakley is Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and J. Erik Jonsson is Chairman of the Executive and Planning Committee of the Board. Andrew R. Cecil is Executive Vice President and General Director.

Partial view of Foundation publications.

Mr. Justice Tom Clark accepts the Foundation's Great Leaders Award at the 20th anniversary celebration.

14 Foundation Trustees are pictured with their statues of Justice at a presentation honoring their 20 years of service to the Foundation.

Redesignation of Bachelor of Laws Degrees as Juris Doctor

On November 10, 1967, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the award of the Juris Doctor degree instead of the Bachelor of Laws degree for the school of Law. In addition, prior graduates of the School of Law, who at the time of receipt of their Bachelor of Laws degrees held an undergraduate bachelor's degree, were offered the option of exchanging their Bachelor of Laws diplomas for diplomas evidencing award of the Juris Doctor degree.
