I. General Statement

In May, 1972, the School of Law completed its forty-seventh academic year. At that time degrees were conferred or certificates were granted to those who had completed the requirements for same in August 1971, December 1971, and May 1972. The following tabular analysis reflects comparative data with respect to degrees conferred or certificates granted during the period 1964-1972:

Appendix A contains detailed information regarding the 1972 recipients of degrees or certificates, honors and awards, and student activities and organizations for the year 1971-1972.

The University continued to cope with the problem of rising costs matched against limited resources. The Law School's situation was not as critical because of increased enrollments and correspondingly increased tuition revenues. Both the central administration of the University and the Law School must continue to seek greater permanent endowment to maintain the quality and richness of the program.

During the year Dr. Willis M. Tate announced his intention to leave the post of the presidency. He was appointed Chancellor and President until a successor could be found. In the fall of 1971 a selection committee composed of trustees, administrators, faculty, students, and alumni began the search for Dr. Tate's successor. In the spring of 1972 the Committee unanimously recommended to the trustees that they offer the position to Dr. Paul Hardin, who accepted and became the sixth President of SMU effective for the academic year 1972-1973. Dr. Hardin received his Bachelor of Arts degree with honors in 1952.
from Duke University and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received his Juris Doctor degree with honors in 1954 from Duke University and was elected to the Order of the Coif. He served on the Duke Law Journal. After practice in Alabama, he returned to Duke to become a member of the Law School Faculty and later became President of Wofford College in Spartanburg, South Carolina, the post he held prior to his coming to SMU.

He is a distinguished lawyer, teacher, and scholar. The Law School welcomes him not only as the new President but upon recommendation of the faculty, dean, and trustees he also holds the appointment of Professor of Law.

II. Faculty

Appendix B sets out in detail faculty bibliographies and activities for the year 1971-1972. Changes in assignments, leaves, and part-time faculty for the period under review were as follows:

Assistant Dean Roy R. Anderson, Jr., was appointed to the rank of Associate Dean and Assistant Professor effective for the academic year 1972-1973.

Professor Harvey L. Davis was on leave during the year working on model consumer protection legislation.

Professor John L. FitzGerald was on sabbatical leave during the fall semester 1971. He did research as visiting scholar at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies of the University of London; he also delivered lectures on the fairness doctrine in broadcasting at the University of Athens, Greece, and to the Collaborators of the Hellenic Institute of International and Foreign Law. He gave lectures at the School of Law at the Catholic University of Louvain, in Belgium. During the year he worked on a comparative study of the delegation of legislative powers to administrative agencies in England, Germany, Austria, Greece, France and Belgium.

Professor Arthur L. Harding was on sabbatical leave during the fall semester 1971 and retired from the faculty at the end of the academic year. He was appointed Emeritus Professor of Law (See Appendix D).

Professor Pelletier resigned his position as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs to resume full time teaching as Associate Professor.
Professor Eugene L. Smith resigned from the faculty effective January 1, 1972, to accept an appointment as Professor of Law at Texas Technological University in Lubbock.

Visiting Assistant Professor Victor Zonana from New York University School of Law was in residence during the summer session of 1971. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Science from Hofstra College and Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws degrees from New York University. He taught Income Taxation.

Visiting Professor Graham C. Lilly from the University of Virginia School of Law was in residence during the summer session of 1971. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Science from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Bachelor of Laws from the University of Virginia. He taught Evidence.

The following part-time lecturers taught seminars or courses during this period:

Adjunct Professor Henry D. Akin, Workmen’s Compensation; Assistant Dean Roy R. Anderson, Jr., Insurance; Edward A. Copley, Jr., Esq., together with Herbert S. Kendrick, Esq., Tax Procedure and Litigation; James R. Craig, Esq., Taxation and Fiscal Policy; Thomas L. Crisman, Esq., Intellectual Property; David Crump, Esq., Introduction to Procedure II; William L. Garrett, Esq., Ethics and Law; Adjunct Professor Robert S. Glen, Law and Psychiatry (With Professor Steele); David M. Kendall, Jr., Esq., Personal Injury Litigation; Jack Kinnebrew, Esq., Legal Accounting; Donald J. Malouf, Esq., Taxation of Deferred Compensation Plans; John Martin, Esq., Civil Rights; John H. McElhaney, Esq., Air Law; David C. Musslewhite, Esq., Practice Court; Neil J. O’Brien, Esq., Corporate Reorganization; Dr. George J. Race, Medico-Legal Problems; Robert L. Ramsey, Esq., Air Law; George E. Ray, Esq., Professional Corporations; D. Carl Richards, Esq., Patent Law; Frank J. Scurlock, Esq., Land Litigation; Stanley C. Simon, Esq., Taxation of Business Entities, and Contemporary Tax Problems; J. T. Suggs, Esq., Texas Practice; W. Stephen Swayne, Esq., Federal Oil and Gas Taxation; Elmore Whitehurst, Esq., Bankruptcy; James A. Williams, Esq., Texas Practice; Helmut O. Wolff, Non-Labor Arbitration.

Five student instructors in Research Methods/Legal Writing were employed to work under the direction of Professor Bromberg in the first-year program of legal writing and research. These student instructors were Philippe J. Bodin, Bachelor of Arts, Stanford University, and Bachelor of Laws, University of Virginia; Denis A. Downey, Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws, University of Saskatchewan; Master of Laws, Southern Methodist University; Michael C. McClintock, Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor, University of Tulsa; Master of Laws, Southern Methodist University; Ellen K. Solender, Bachelor of Arts, Oberlin College, and Juris Doctor, Southern Methodist University; Mary Ellen White, Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor, Southern Methodist University.

III. Degree Programs

The School of Law conducted the following major programs during the year 1971-1972:

(A) The three-year Juris Doctor program. The requirements are 90 hours of required and elective courses.

(B) The general graduate program for part-time and full-time students leading to the degree of Master of Laws. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A thesis may be submitted for as many as 12 hours of credit.

(C) The graduate program in international and comparative law leading to the degree of Master of Comparative Law. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A Certificate in Comparative Law may in the discretion of the faculty be awarded to those students in the international and comparative law program who fail in some particular respect to meet all the grade and hour requirements for the Master of Comparative Law degree.

(D) The graduate program in research and writing leading to the degree of Doctor of Science of Law. The requirements are prescribed for the candidate by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies.

IV. Curriculum

The curriculum in effect for the summer session 1971 consisted of 10 sections of courses and seminars; during the regular session 114 sections of courses and seminars were offered. Under the program for the Juris Doctor degree, the student had to complete 46 hours of required courses and 44 hours of electives, including at least one course involving international and comparative law or jurisprudence, a planning course, and a seminar in which a substantial paper is required.

During the year new offerings included Judicial Administration, offered by Professor Kennedy; Juvenile Delinquency, offered by Professor Steele; Participating Credit Program in which a student can apply outside work in law firms and public agencies as academic credit.

During the year the number of women students numbered 40, students from abroad, 25, and minority students (Black, Chicano, and American Indian), 11. As reflected in the tabulation, the class entering in the fall, 1971, represented 31 states and 3 foreign countries; their undergraduate work was done in 86 different colleges and universities—21 Texas schools and 65 out-of-state schools.

The tuition during the regular session was $2,000 for the two semesters.

During the year we continued, as in prior years, an intensive program of recruiting in colleges and universities throughout the country. This has resulted in an increasing number of well-qualified applicants. Visits were made to 61 colleges and universities in the following states: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin.

VI. Underwood Law Library

During the fiscal year 1971-1972, 6,245 volumes were added to the Underwood Law Library Collection, bringing the total number of volumes to 175,410. The collection includes more titles on securities, investments, taxation, accounting, corporate mergers, banking, criminology, medico-legal jurisprudence, psychiatry, civil rights, human relations and other relative subjects. Emphasis has been placed on State Administrative agency material, especially State Attorney-General Opinions. Several digests and encyclopedias for neighboring states have been added. A concerted effort has been made to acquire available materials on space and sea law, and continued acquisitions have been made in the field of international, commercial and taxation law. During the year $186,236.89 was expended on library operation.

Mrs. Ruth Synett Crozier, head of the catalog department, retired in May, 1972, after many years of faithful service. (See Appendix D). Mrs. Nancy McGown, assistant cataloger, was promoted to fill this vacancy and Miss Jeannette Fries, a recent library school graduate with law library experience, was employed in the catalog department.

The Library is now open until midnight. It serves a large metropolitan area and has increased its inter-library loans. Four Dennison copying machines have been installed and are in constant use. The conference room serves many small group meetings of organizations both on and off campus. This magnificent facility serves as a major research center and is a distinct enhancement to the School’s reputation.

VII. Alumni Relations, Law School Fund, Student Aid

James A. Williams, Esq., President, and Jerry N. Jordan, Esq., and James H. Wallenstein, Esq., Vice Presidents, served as officers of the Law Alumni Association. A. Hardcastle, Jr. was chairman of the annual Law School Fund drive for the year.

Total gifts and scholarships from alumni and non-alumni totaled $166,315.68. These contributions have been used for financial assistance to students in various ways: loans, tuition grants, research assistants, expenses of moot court, law journals, Student Bar Association, and the like. Alumni gifts totaled $47,364.73 with 21 percent of alumni participating. The average alumni gift was $78.03. These figures compare with alumni gifts of $46,430.20 and 20 percent of alumni participating with an average gift of $86.14 during the year 1970-1971. Non-alumni gifts totaled $118,950.95 compared with gifts of $83,136.37 last year. The faculty of the School of Law also contributed generously to the Fund.

The total expended on student financial assistance was $165,531.31.

On October 23, 1971, a brunch was held at Lawyers Inn honoring alumni members of the judiciary, after which the group went together to a football game.

On October 30, an alumni breakfast in Lawyers Inn was well attended by faculty, students and alumni alike. The breakfast was held as a part of the Homecoming activities.

On November 3, 1971, those contributing named scholarships and amounts of $100 or more for the 1970-1971 Law School Fund were honored at a Century Club dinner at the Umphrey Lee Student Center.
On November 17, 1971, Dean Galvin, Professor McKnight, and Mr. Anderson met with the Houston area alumni.

On March 18, 1972, a class reunion brunch for classes of '32, '37, '42, '47, '52, '57, '62, '67 and senior law students was held at Lawyers Inn.

VIII. Publications

The Southwestern Law Journal published again during the year the Annual Survey of Texas Law, which was well received. The Journal of Air Law and Commerce sponsored a Symposium on Federal Practice in Aviation which was held March 8-10, 1972. This program exemplified the same high standards of the previous years' similar conferences. Professors Scott Morris and Taubenfeld were faculty advisers to the Southwestern Law Journal and Journal of Air Law and Commerce, respectively.

Other publications during the year included The Brief of the School of Law, The Adversary, a student newspaper published bi-weekly during the academic year, and the Law School Yearbook.

IX. Legal Clinic

Under the supervision of Mrs. Maxine T. McConnell, Director, and Professor Walter W. Steele, Jr., Faculty Supervisor, the Legal Clinic curriculum has been expanded to provide greater opportunities for students to develop practical skills and an understanding of professional responsibility.

The course is divided into two semesters for a total credit of four hours. Legal Clinic A, the two-hour first semester course, introduces the student to the clinic with instruction on how to draft and file pleadings and other instruments, how to conduct a professional interview, and how to practice at the courthouse. In addition, classroom lectures on techniques of practice in specific areas of the law are given by practicing lawyers and judges. Students in Legal Clinic B become associated with the Legal Clinic law office where, under the supervision of the director, they interview clients, establish an attorney-client relationship and take all necessary action to resolve a client's problem.

From June 1, 1970, to May 31, 1972, Clinic B students represented 571 clients with a wide range of legal problems involving divorce and family matters, consumer, employment, landlordtenant and post-conviction relief cases. Two hundred court appearances were made including three in Federal Courts and one before the Court of Appeals, Ninth District. Appearances were made in behalf of clients before four Administrative boards. Three Federal Court cases were appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

Continued expansion of the program is planned to meet the goals of providing opportunities for students to learn practical skills while rendering competent legal services to members of the low-income community.

X. Placement

Director of Placement, Mrs. Lillian Blair, offered students a thorough program of placement. Students desiring to take advantage of this service were counseled in the preparation of attractive individual brochures. Interviews took place during the months of September, 1971, through April, 1972, and representatives of interviewing firms came from every section of the country. There were 315 separately scheduled student interviews. A tally as of September 1, 1972, of the seniors graduating in May reflects the following facts concerning placement:

XI. Continuing Legal Education

The School of Law and the Practising Law Institute of New York City co-sponsored eight continuing legal education programs during the fiscal year. Total attendance at these programs exceeded 318. The purpose of these programs has been to bring in-depth programming on a variety of selected topics to lawyers in this area of the country. Each program has been of a specialty nature on current topical problems presented by outstanding experts from all over the country. The courses presented were: Franchise Litigation Legislation Combination (New York); Joint Ventures in Real Estate; Secured Transactions and Commercial Paper; Representing Family & Closely Held Corporation; Estate Planning and Will Drafting; Truth in Lending Problems; Third Annual Estate Planning Institute; Commercial Real Estate Leases (Houston).

XII. Other Events of the Year

The Student Bar Association hosted a series of distinguished speakers during the year. On April 6, 1972, the School received the Supreme Court of Texas and Board of Visitors for a day of informal discussions with faculty and students.

On May 20, the School of Law had its first formal ceremony of hooding the Juris Doctor candidates on the steps of the Underwood Law Library, followed by a reception in Lawyers Inn. This occasion also honored two retiring members of the Law School family, Professor Arthur L. Harding and Mrs. Ruth Synett Crozier. (See Appendix D)

XIII. Conclusion

As this report is written the University of Texas at Dallas, North Texas State University at Denton, and Texas A&M University at College Station all have pending applications before the Coordinating Board of the State of Texas for the establishment of new law schools.

Another matter of continuing concern are the negotiations with the Southwestern Legal Foundation for the establishment of a partnership relationship between the Law School and Foundation for the constructive, ongoing operations of the Legal Center.

I express my sincerest appreciation to the University administration and to the members of the bench and bar and other friends who have assisted the School so significantly.

Appendix C sets out the names of the Law School Committee of the Board of Trustees, the Board of Visitors, and the officers and directors of the Law Alumni Association.

Respectfully submitted,
Charles O'Neil Galvin
Dean

Appendix D
Statement of Dean Charles O. Galvin at First Hooding Ceremony, Law Quadrangle, Saturday, May 20, 1972, 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Provost, members of the faculty and staff, candidates for the various degrees, parents, spouses, relatives, friends.

This is a happy and joyful occasion and on behalf of the entire Law School faculty and staff I extend to all the candidates for degrees our warmest congratulations. You go from here into your professional careers with the best wishes for success and happiness from all of us. This has been a long period of study and preparation and we are confident that in your future work you will render great service to the community and to the profession and reflect great credit upon yourselves and this Law School.

We are all envious of you as you embark upon your careers, for never were the challenges greater to members of the legal profession than they are in these times. Never were the opportunities so abundant as they are today to improve our national life in all the ways that lawyers can. If democratic government is to succeed in accordance with those ideals to which we have subscribed since the founding of this country, it will do so through legal institutions that play a major role in the preservation and strengthening of a free society.

You, as lawyers, in whatever capacity and in whatever role you find yourself in the years ahead, will be an important contribution in determining the success or failure of what Europeans still call the American experiment. In counseling, in advising, in planning, in resolving conflicts through negotiations, arbitration, and litigation, in law reform, in the improvement of the administration of the courts, the civil and criminal justice systems, the work of governmental agencies, in a host of ways you will determine whether or not the lives of millions of people in a complex national environment can in fact be ordered under a system of law—a system which permits maximum personal freedom but requires maximum responsibility from each person to the total community. In addition to your contribution to our national welfare you will have more and more opportunities for contributing to peace in the world through public and private international arrangements, so that you may through legal institutions see that day when the dark night of tyranny, oppression, and poverty will be brought to an end for more and more of this earth's people.

However much the stress and strain to which you may be subjected, always observe those critical, objective lawyer-like techniques of analysis which we hope you have learned in your sojourn with us. In these times when emotionalism runs high in so many quarters, a clear statement of the facts and a calm evaluation of the issues can oftentimes be the most significant contribution anyone can make to public debate.

You go with our best wishes and our confidence in the contribution that you will make. We hope that you will return often. You will always be welcome.

On this day we honor all of those who are degree candidates because all have worked diligently for the degree which will be awarded them tomorrow. They have been examined and registered and promoted and counseled and screened for so many years they are all deserving of honor. However, there are certain members of this class who deserve special mention for meritorious achievement. In this connection, may I call your attention to the dedication program. There you will see those who are specially honored and those who have earned particular awards.

May I also call your attention to those who will be graduating with honors at the graduation ceremony tomorrow. You may identify them by the special red and blue talisman which each one wears on the sleeve of his academic gown. Those who have been elected to the Order of the Coif and whom we had the pleasure of honoring just a few evenings ago are identified by the special white coif which each one wears on the top of his mortar board.

Others who are receiving special awards for particular accomplishments are designated in the program and we express our appreciation to the donors of those awards who are also identified. These are law firms and lawyers and other individuals and companies who have made available cash prizes or books or subscriptions to those students who have gained recognition by particular achievements as they are described in the program. We thank the donors for their interest in legal education and we congratulate the winners of those awards.

This is a time of nostalgia because never again will so many members of the class of 1972 be gathered together. There will be, of course, many occasions when you will be in contact with one another, in legal matters, in work in professional societies, in work in our alumni association. There will be events which will bring you back to the School but never will so many of you be gathered together with the company of your families as you are here today. This is, therefore, an appropriate time to express our sincere appreciation to two members of the Law School family who also leave with you today and for whose long years of service at this institution we are deeply grateful.

Ruth Synnott Crozier, Cataloguer for the Law Library, is a native of Hemphill, Texas. Her father, J. H. Synnott, was a prominent Dallas attorney. She was graduated from North Dallas High School and obtained her Bachelor of Arts degree from S.M.U. in 1928. While here, she was a member of Kappa Delta sorority, Zeta Phi Eta, speech honorary, the local French honorary, and Mortar Board.

Not wishing to teach, she went into the business world. She worked for General Motors Acceptance Corporation in Dallas and New York for twelve years. Meanwhile, she married George Crozier of Dallas and soon quit work to have their only son, Keith.

While Keith was in high school, Ruth decided to start a new career. While working in the Highland Park Junior High School library, she decided to become a professional librarian, earned her Master of Library Science degree from Texas Woman's University, and was elected to Beta Phi Mu, Library Science honorary.

She came to S.M.U. as Catalog Librarian in 1961. While here, she earned her certificate as a Professional Law Librarian and was listed in Who's Who in Library Science and in Who's Who of American Women. Her main ambition was to classify the law library by subject, and she is very happy that nearly all the books for which schedules have been completed by the Library of Congress will be classified as to subject before she leaves.

She and George have three granddaughters. Don't ask her about her three granddaughters or she will brag endlessly about how cute and smart they are!

Ruth Synott Crozier, you go with our best wishes for a long and happy retirement.

Arthur Leon Harding, Professor of Law, was born in Fayetteville, Arkansas, in a family who had distinguished themselves in education. His father was for many years the President of the University of Arkansas. Professor Harding attended the University of Arkansas and received his Bachelor of Arts degree there with a major in the subject of chemistry. He graduated with honors and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Chapter of the University of Arkansas. He went on to the University of Michigan where he received his Juris Doctor degree with honors, and from there was selected for the Order of the Coif. While at the University of Michigan Professor Harding met and married a lady law student, a rarity in those days, and she was also an honor student. Mrs. Mary Harding has been active in the affairs of University women and the Law School. For many years she has taught bridge to law students' wives, so if you get up a foursome with any of these ladies, don't be surprised if you find yourself going set, doubled, and vulnerable more times than you otherwise might expect.

Professor Harding first began his teaching at Southern Methodist University as an Instructor in the fall of 1927. He had, of course, already obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree, his Juris Doctor degree and he was then only 21 years old. He was granted a leave of absence in 1931 and 32, during which time he held the appointment as Brandeis Fellow at Harvard Law School from which he obtained the degree of the Doctor of Science of Law. He returned to Southern Methodist University for one year and then was appointed a Professor of Law at the University of Idaho for the years 1933 to 1940. During World War II he served in the War Department General Staff in the Office of Headquarters, the Army Ground Forces and returned to the academic world following World War II with the rank of Colonel. He has been continuously a member of this faculty since that time.

Thus, he commenced his teaching career in the fall semester of 1927, some 45 years ago. There are those in legal education who say that if you once learn the techniques of analysis of the cases in Contracts, you can almost coast through the rest of law school. There are countless hundreds and hundreds of lawyers, judges, senior partners of law firms, corporate counsel in major industry who learned their Contract law from Professor Harding. In fact he has counted 51 sections he has taught in the 45 year period. In each of those sections there were those trembling, quavering neophytes who wondered on that first 8 o'clock Contracts class of that first Monday of that first week of that first year in law school, will I be the one that the “Colonel” will call on? And I am sure that anyone who had that distinction remembers that occasion even to this day and will remember it for the rest of his life.

Professor Harding and his Library Committee worked diligently with the architect in the planning of this beautiful building from which this ceremony is taking place. He gave it his own personal loving care. There was never a day from the time excavation began until the key was turned in the front door that he did not carefully make the rounds of the four corners of the property to be sure that workmen were about their business and that the structure was proceeding upward as required by the architect’s plans and specifications. He assures me that it is one of the best constructed buildings anywhere and I take his word as dogma. When archaeologists dig up this library several thousand years from now, they will most surely find it intact, complete, and I am sure that some students would say, probably with the air-conditioning still running.

Last week at the regular spring meeting of the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University, the rank of Emeritus Professor of Law was officially conferred upon him and he will hold this rank for the rest of his life.

Professor Arthur Leon Harding, you go with our best wishes for a long and happy retirement.
There are many others that deserve thanks here today, but one group that I have special affection for is our group of law student wives. On Saturday, May 6, in the absence of my wife, Peggy, it was my pleasure to meet with the law student wives and to present to them the diplomas, PHT, Putting Hubby Through, which the wives are awarded for their self-sacrifice, their encouragement and understanding during these very trying years of vigorous and intensive law study. As more and more women students undertake the study of law, we will have the opportunity to honor their husbands as we honor the wives. There is one husband here today, Mr. Ronald Aland, whose wife, Linda, graduates with this class. May I ask, therefore, that all of the degree candidates extend your greetings to your spouses who have been so forebearing and understanding during these three years.

This entire event and all that we are doing here and everything that we achieve could not be possible if it were not for the love and care and the support and encouragement of parents and they, of course, are those who cherish this day as much as anyone.

I know that you will join me in extending your thanks to your parents.

And last, let us thank all of the mothers-in-law and fathers-in-law, the uncles, the aunts, the grandmothers and grandfathers, brothers and sisters and children, nieces and nephews, those who are related in any way by blood or by marriage to the degree candidates.

Now will you proceed forward for the hooding ceremony. Mr. John Pitts, a member of the senior law class and the outgoing President of the Student Bar Association, will announce your name and the hooding will be done by Professors Flittie and Thomas. (The hooding ceremony then took place)

This official hooding ceremony is now closed. Will you please remain in your seats until the stage party and the degree candidates have recessed to Lawyers Inn to the east of us and there we will all take great pleasure in receiving the degree candidates, their parents, relatives, friends, and benefactors.

Thank you all for being with us on this happy day.
