Appendix D—Statement of Dean Galvin at the second Hooding Ceremony, Law Quadrangle, Saturday, May 19, 1973.

I. General Statement

In May, 1973, the School of Law completed its forty-eighth academic year. At that time degrees were formally conferred on those who had completed their degree requirements in August 1972, December 1972, and May 1973. The following tabular analysis reflects comparative data with respect to degrees conferred or certificates granted during the period 1964-1973:

	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969	1970	1971	1972	1973
Bachelor of Laws	113	107	128	125	8
Juris Doctor					126	145	133	145	134	156
Master of Comparative Law	15	12	19	23	24	19	15	19	15	18
Master of Laws	1	4	4	7	3	8	10	24	15	16
Doctor of the Science of Law					2		1			1
Certificate in Comparative Law	4	1		4			4	2
Totals	133	124	151	159	163	172	163	190	164	191

Appendix A contains detailed information regarding the 1973 recipients of degrees or certificates, honors and awards, and student activities and organizations for the year 1972-73.

During the year three tax supported institutions, The University of Texas at Dallas, North Texas State University at Denton, and Texas A & M University at College Station, applied to the Coordinating Board for Higher Education of Texas for the establishment of new law schools. The Coordinating Board appointed an advisory group to make specific recommendations concerning the matter, and the advisory group in turn appointed a task force of all the law school deans from the public and private schools of Texas along with representatives of the bar to provide information and discussion on the subject. After a number of hearings, the advisory group recommended against the establishment of any new law school, and this recommendation was adopted by the Coordinating Board.

The experience was helpful to us in that it made us reexamine and reassess our own position in legal education. If, on the one hand, we believe that we should offer quality legal education to the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex and the larger community beyond, then we should contemplate being less restrictive in admissions policies in order that legal education would be available to the larger numbers of those desiring it. If, on the other hand, we believe that our function is to be much more selective in admissions, then we could support the establishment of a tax supported institution while retaining to ourselves a role of being a small, highly selective private school.

We chose the former course. We have a magnificent plant, a great library, ample classroom space, and administrative offices capable of serving efficiently a student population of 1000-1200. It would be inefficient and wasteful to adopt a policy of extreme elitism and utilize this plant for the benefit of only a few. Therefore, by maintaining standards of admission like those prevailing in the state institutions we can serve a quality pool of applicants in facilities which can well accommodate them. We gave these assurances to the Coordinating Board and, in addition, proposed to the University of Texas System that we enter into an arrangement to provide legal education on a contract basis for any Texas resident who was admissible to a tax supported law school in the State but who wanted to matriculate at S.M.U. We have had no acceptance of this offer.

We are performing several roles effectively. First, there is a large number of non-residents from schools out of the state who want to chart their professional careers in the Southwest area and who come to us for this purpose. Second, there is a large number of Texas residents whom we can serve effectively by training them on their own ground. Both these groups are served well by us and, we hope, will continue to be so served.

In Texas and the Southwest the opportunities for lawyers are varied and numerous, and the challenges to the legal profession are exciting. We shall serve our region with distinction if we make available quality legal education to qualified applicants and provide an excellent educational program blending legal theory with its practical application.

II. Faculty

Appendix B sets out in detail faculty bibliographies and activities for the year 1972-73. Changes in assignment, leaves, and part-time faculty for the period under review were as follows:

III. Degree Programs

The School of Law conducted the following major programs during the year 1972-73:

(A) The three-year Juris Doctor program. The requirements are 90 hours of required and elective courses.

(B) The general graduate program for part-time and full-time students leading to the degree of Master of Laws. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A thesis may be submitted for as many as 12 hours of credit.

(C) The graduate program in international and comparative law leading to the degree of Master of Comparative Law. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A Certificate in Comparative Law may in the discretion of the faculty be awarded to those students in the international and comparative law program who fail in some particular respect to meet all the grade and hour requirements for the Master of Comparative Law degree.

(D) The graduate program in research and writing leading to the degree of Doctor of Science of Law. The requirements are prescribed for the candidate by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies.

IV. Curriculum

The curriculum in effect for the summer session 1972 consisted of 9 sections of courses and seminars; during the regular session 146 sections of courses and seminars were offered. Under the program for the Juris Doctor degree, the student had to complete 46 hours of required courses and 44 hours of electives, including at least one course involving international and comparative law or jurisprudence, a planning course, and a seminar in which a substantial paper is required.

During the year new offerings included Appellate Practice offered by Professor Surratt; Complex Federal Litigation, offered by Mr. Patrick E. Higginbotham; No-Fault Insurance, offered by Professor O'Connell; Products Liability, offered by Mr. John H. McElhaney; Real Estate Development, offered by Professor Larson; Taxation of Estates, Gifts & Trusts, offered by Professor Pelletier; Texas Pre-Trial Procedure I, offered by Mr. David R. Noteware; and Texas Trial & Appellate Procedure, offered by Mr. J. T. Suggs.

V. Recruiting and Enrollment

The following comparative statistics for the School of Law show registrations in the fall semesters, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, and 1972:

Colleges and universities represented	40		73		61		69	77	69	67	68	86	104

During the year the number of women students numbered 54, students from abroad, 18, and minority students (Black, Chicano, and American Indian), 18. As reflected in the tabulation, the first-year class entering in the fall, 1972, represented 28 states. Their undergraduate work was done in 104 different colleges and universities—23 Texas schools and 81 out-of-state schools.

The tuition during the regular session was $2,040 for the two semesters.

During the year we continued, as in prior years, an intensive program of recruiting in colleges and universities throughout the country. This has resulted in an increasing number of well-qualified applicants. Visits were made to 74 colleges and universities in the following states: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin.

VI. Underwood Law Library

During the fiscal year 1972-73, 7,108 volumes were added to the Underwood Law Library collection, bringing the total number of volumes to 182,525. The collection includes more titles on securities, investments, taxation, accounting, corporate mergers, banking, criminology, medico-legal jurisprudence, psychiatry, civil rights, human relations and other relative subjects. Emphasis has been placed on State Administrative agency materials, especially State Attorney-General Opinions. Several digests and encyclopedias for neighboring states have been added. A concerted effort has been made to acquire available materials on space and sea law, and continued acquisitions have been made in the field of international, commercial and taxation law. During the year $218,495.10 was expended on library operation.

Mr. James P. Murphy, a graduate of University of Maine School of Law and School of Library Science was employed as Reference Librarian. The library staff consists of eleven full-time people, five of whom are professional librarians.

The Library is now open until midnight. It serves a large metropolitan area and has increased its inter-library loans. Four Dennison copying machines and a 2400 Xerox machine have been installed and are in constant use. The conference room serves many small group meetings of organizations both on and off campus. This magnificent facility serves as a major research center and is a distinct enhancement to the School's reputation.

VII. Alumni Relations, Law School Fund, Student Aid

Mr. John H. McElhaney of the Class of 1958 was President, and Mr. James A. Williams, Class of 1952, was Chairman, of the Board of Directors of the Law Alumni Association. Mr. James H. Wallenstein of the Class of 1967 was Chairman of the 1972-73 Law School Fund.

Gifts to the Law School from alumni and non-alumni totalled $170,871. All unrestricted contributions have been used to provide financial assistance to students in the form of tuition grants. Other gifts were used, according to the instructions of the donors, for the support of the Law Library, Legal Clinic, faculty research, and a law lectureship fund. Alumni gifts totalled $58,214 with 22% of alumni participating. The average alumni gift was $87.00. These figures compare with alumni gifts of $47,900 during the year 1972-73, when 21% of alumni made gifts averaging $78.03. Non-alumni gifts totalled $112,657. The faculty of the School of Law also contributed generously to the Fund.

The total expended on student financial assistance was $173,170.20.

On July 6, 1972, the Alumni Association sponsored a breakfast at the State Bar Convention in Houston.

On October 28, 1972, an Alumni Breakfast was held at Lawyers Inn as part of the University Homecoming activities. Members of the Class of 1948, observing the 25th anniversary of their graduation, were honored guests.

On November 11, 1972, the Alumni Association sponsored a brunch at Lawyers Inn honoring alumni who are members of the Judiciary.

On November 14, 1972, Alumni President McElhaney, Dean Galvin and Assistant Dean Dycus met with Houston area alumni at a dinner hosted by Mr. Jessie B. Heath, Jr. of the Class of 1966.

On November 30, 1972, those contributing amounts of $100 or more to the 1971-72 Law School Fund were honored at the annual Century Club Dinner in the Umphrey Lee Student Center. The President of Southern Methodist University, Dr. Paul Hardin, was the featured speaker.

VIII. Publications

The Southwestern Law Journal published again during the year the Annual Survey of Texas Law, which was well received. The Journal of Air Law and Commerce sponsored a Symposium held March 21-23 on Current Trends in Airport Liability and General Aviation. This program exemplified the same high standards of the previous years' similar conferences. Professors Scott Morris and Howard Taubenfeld were faculty advisers to the Southwestern Law Journal and Journal of Air Law and Commerce, respectively.

Other publications during the year included The Brief of the School of Law, and The Adversary, a student newspaper published bi-weekly during the academic year.

IX. Legal Clinic

The Legal Clinic has continued to expand its program to provide greater opportunities for students to develop practical skills and an understanding of professional responsibility while rendering competent legal services to members of the low-income community.

The course is divided into two semesters for a total credit of four hours. Legal Clinic A, the two-hour first semester course, introduces the student to the clinic with instruction on how to draft and file pleadings and other instruments, how to conduct a professional interview and how to practice at the courthouse.

Conducted by Professor Walter W. Steele, Jr. and Maxine T. McConnell, Legal Clinic A is devoted entirely to classroom instruction. Lectures and discussions cover such varied subjects as divorce, post-conviction relief, child support, landlord-tenant relationships, adoption, guardianship and special custody. Students also learn about city court practice, law office management and peace bonds. The entire Clinic A course is aimed at preparing the student for practical work in Clinic B and after graduation.

The Legal Clinic B semester is devoted to the actual handling of clients' cases under the supervision of the Director. All students enrolled in Legal Clinic B are licensed under the Student Practice Rule.

During the period from June 1, 1972 through May 31, 1973, 52 Legal Clinic B students interviewed 480 individuals seeking legal assistance. Files were opened for 367 clients, and 310 of these cases were disposed of during the year. Of the 138 court appearances made, 42 involved contested cases. In addition to divorce and family related matters, legal problems involving employment, landlord-tenant, social security benefits, consumer abuses and representation of defendants in personal injury suits were handled. Five suits were filed in Federal Courts and one case was appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

X. Placement

Director of Placement, Mrs. Lillian Blair, offered students a thorough program of placement. Students desiring to take advantage of this service were counseled in the preparation of attractive individual brochures. Interviews took place during the months of September, 1972, through April, 1973, and representatives of interviewing firms came from every section of the country. There were 513 separately scheduled student interviews. A tally as of September 1, 1973 of the seniors graduating in May reflects the following facts concerning placement:

Law Firms	69
Corporate Legal Counsel	14
Military Service	4
State and Federal Government Agencies	18
Judicial Clerkships	3
Other Legal Activities	15
Uncommitted or Not Reported	33
Total	156

XI. Continuing Legal Education

The School of Law and the Practising Law Institute of New York City co-sponsored nine continuing legal education programs during the fiscal year. The total attendance at these programs exceeded 400. These programs are designed to bring in-depth programs on a variety of selected relevant subjects to lawyers in this area of the country. Each program is designed to deal with a specific specialized area that is currently a problem to lawyers. These programs feature representatives of law school faculties and skilled practitioners from around the country. The courses presented this year were: Corporate Counsel Seminar; Third Annual How To Go Public Seminar; Financing Health Care; Products Liability; Current Corporate Tax Developments; Prisoners' Rights; Third Annual Employee Benefits (Houston); Equal Employment Opportunity Compliance, and Real Estate Syndications.

XII. Other Events of the Year

On Thursday, March 29, the School of Law received the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of Texas, the Judges of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the members of the Law School Board of Visitors, the Law School Committee of the Board of Trustees, and the Board of Directors of the Law Alumni Association for a day of informal discussions with faculty and students.

On Saturday, May 19, the School of Law had its second formal ceremony of hooding the Juris Doctor candidates on the steps of the Underwood Law Library, followed by a reception in Lawyers Inn. This occasion also honored Mr. J. Cleo Thompson upon the conferral by the Board of Trustees of the University of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

XIII. Conclusion

I express my sincerest appreciation to the University administration and to the members of the bench and bar and other friends who have assisted the School so significantly.

Appendix C sets out the names of the Law School Committee of the Board of Trustees, the Board of Visitors, and the officers and directors of the Law Alumni Association.

Respectfully submitted,
Charles O'Neill Galvin
Dean

Appendix D

Mr. President, Members of the faculty, Candidates for the various degrees, Parents, Spouses, Relatives, Distinguished Guests, Friends All.

I welcome you here on this happy day and extend to the degree candidates on behalf of the entire Law School and University family the warmest congratulations and good wishes from us all.

During the period of final examinations just concluded law students observe various rites and rituals. Some go unshaven for the entire period; others wear a special tattered T-shirt or faded dungarees which, like Linus's blanket, have a peculiar quality of security; others use a particular writing pen or wear a special charm for good luck.

To the cynics who cast doubt on these rubrics and fetishes you can now say with smugness, "Well, I made it, didn't I."

The first Law School class of Southern Methodist University graduated in the spring of 1928 with a total of 8 members. This forty-sixth class has 156 candidates for the Juris Doctor degree, 14 candidates for the Master of Comparative Law Degree, 25 candidates for the Master of Laws degree, and one candidate for the Doctor of the Science of Law degree. These figures include those who completed the requirements for their respective degrees in August 1972, December 1972, and May 1973, all of whose names are listed on the official commencement program for this ceremony and the program which will be given you at the General University Commencement tomorrow.

This is the second annual formal Hooding Ceremony for the Juris Doctor candidates and the large numbers participating today attest to the significance of this joyful occasion. The presence here of the president and representatives of the various governing bodies of the Law School and of the University do us all great honor.

We especially welcome to our group today the newest full time member of the law faculty and president of the University, Dr. Paul Hardin. An honor graduate of the Law School of Duke University, he served on the editorial board of the Duke Law Journal, was elected to the order of the Coif, practiced law in Birmingham, Alabama, returned to join the Law Faculty of Duke, later became president of Wofford College in Spartanburg, South Carolina and now has completed his first year as president of Southern Methodist University. Next year he will teach a section of torts in the first year program in the Law School. This is the first time that he has been presented formally to the larger Law School community, and it is my great pleasure to recognize him at this time, President Paul Hardin.

When this Law School opened in the Fall of 1925, lawyers in the Dallas area were generous with their time and resources in providing a good working Law Library. One of those who worked diligently on this project is here today. A graduate of Georgetown Law School he has long practiced law in Dallas and has been a civic and professional leader of distinction. His interest in legal education has never diminished. For some years he has been Chairman of the Hatton W. Sumners Foundation which annually grants funds to approximately 15 law students covering their tuition, board, room, books, travel to and from home, and an expense stipend, one of the most generous fellowship programs in legal education in all of the United States.

Recently the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University voted to confer upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. This will be done formally tomorrow by President Hardin. Today it is my pleasure to recognize him as a member of the class of 1973—perhaps the most senior in age, but certainly the youngest in heart and spirit. Will you greet please Mr. J. Cleo Thompson.

Those early efforts to develop here a good library have been rewarded a hundred fold. I am advised by Miss Turbeville, our Law Librarian, that this magnificent building behind me now houses the second largest private collection west of the Mississippi. Only Stanford University Law Library is larger.

Every member of this class of 1973 is deserving of congratulations for his or her accomplishments. You have been screened and tested and interviewed and examined over so many years that you are all due high praise for your survival to this hour. All are honored, but for some students there has been that extra effort, that special work for which they are particularly recognized. If you will consult your programs, you will see there identified members of the class who have won special prizes and awards, together with the names of the donor individuals and donor organizations who have made these prizes and awards possible. To the winners go our special congratulations and to the donors our gratitude for their support of quality and excellence in professional education.

Yesterday afternoon the faculty of the School of Law met to approve the degree candidates for presentation to the President and last night formally inducted the top 10% of the senior class into the Order of the Coif. The new members of Coif are listed on the program, and you can also recognize each of them by the special white linen circular coif which each one wears on his or her cap.

We have a first in Coif honors this year.

Evelyn and Fred Biery met the first day of their first year in Law School. They subsequently married, have taken most of their courses together, were inducted into Coif together and have a cumulative average for 3 years of work of 1/10 of one percentage point difference.

Male chauvinistic pride precludes my telling you which one is the higher.

The faculty also designated one member of the class to receive his degree of Juris Doctor Magna Cum Laude and five members of the class to receive their degrees of Juris Doctor Cum Laude. Their names are listed in the program and you can identify each of them by the special red and blue talisman which each one wears on his or her right sleeve.

Mr. Donald Prescott Fay, Magna Cum Laude, is designated as the Standard Bearer for the class of 1973.

Thanks and appreciation go out from the graduates and from the School today to many, many people who have made this event possible. Parents, Parents-in-law, Uncles, Aunts, Grandparents, Brothers and Sisters, all have contributed not only in many cases with their resources but also of equal importance with their encouragement, their support, and their concern. To you we extend our grateful thanks.

Law firms, alumni, trustees, members of the Board of Visitors, and friends of the School have contributed generously so that quality private education, and especially quality private professional education can survive. To you we extend our grateful thanks.

Especially do I want to pay tribute to spouses—husbands and wives of law students. The law student wives are our ushers today and their performance of this role on this occasion is symbolic of their continued unflagging, unfailing commitment to this enterprise from the first day of registration in the first year to this final hour of achievement.

Each year Mrs. Galvin and I meet with the law wives for their special awards luncheon when they present P H T (putting hubby through) certificates to the wives of the outgoing graduates. These women have talents and credentials and careers of their own that would do credit to anyone's Who's Who. They work in a variety of skilled and responsible positions, manage homes, look after children, and provide that needed encouragement and comfort for their care worn and beleaguered husbands. To you we extend our grateful thanks.

To the husbands of our women students, a small but stalwart and growing band you, too, have our admiration for putting up with all of it. Your pride today is a special one and the envy of many.

Finally, our thanks go to the faculty, the staff, and the librarians who have worked with such great dedication this year. With a large student body and a relatively small faculty and staff, we have asked much from everyone and all have responded in the finest spirit of professionalism.

An occasion like this calls for some statement about the law, its application and its meaning in a civilized society. Never again will so many of you of the class of 1973 be together in such numbers as you are today. This then is the time to consider from whence we've come and where we go. Reflecting upon this it seemed to me that the best statement of what it's all about is not in what I might compose but in the life story of one of the members of this class of 1973. For his experience has been so unusual, so unique, and so singular that with his consent I would like to share with you a brief summary of the principal events of his life.

Emanuel Rosenberg was born in Bardejov, Czechoslovakia in 1921. Czechoslovakia was then a democracy with ideals as closely identified with those of the United States as any country in Western Europe. This was a tribute to its two national heroes, the two Masaryks, Thomas and Ian, father and son, who served the country as President and Foreign Minister, respectively, and who were devoted students of American democratic principles and American institutions.

In 1938 Emanuel looked forward to his progress in his country from the gymnasium to the University of Prague, where he intended to study government.

But it was not to be. In that year Czechoslovakia was compromised in the Munich Pact which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain assured the world would guarantee "Peace in our Time."

How far away those days seem now, and yet it has been only within the last 30 days that the Federal Republic of West Germany and Czechoslovakia have declared the Munich Pact null and void and have finally reestablished full diplomatic exchange and trade relationships.

As a result of the Munich Pact Czechoslovakia fell under the domination of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich and there began the despicable harassment and persecution of its Jews. Emanuel was denied the opportunity of pursuing his education and was instead consigned to a labor camp to work for the puppet state.

In September of 1939 World War II began, and the lights went out over Europe as the long night of fear and tyranny settled over every land.

In 1944 the Russian army repulsed the German invaders on the eastern front, and a contingent of the retreating German forces fell back on the helpless town of Bardejov. It was a morning at the end of October, 1944, the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles, and Emanuel's father had gone to the synagogue for services. While the services were in progress the Nazi jackals surrounded the temple, took into custody all who were inside and sent them off to a camp to be cruelly executed.

Emanuel's mother and youngest brother, Aaron, remained at home and were captured. Two other brothers, one of whom is here today, were sent off to the surrounding forest to hide. But eventually all were captured—the mother and his 3 brothers—and all were sent to the concentration camp at Auschwitz.

Previous to this period, his sister had been spirited away to a Catholic family in the village of Devinska Nova Ves near Bratislava in Slovakia where she was protected and sheltered by this family throughout the war.

Meanwhile, Emanuel himself had been working in a labor camp and had joined in September of 1944 the underground movement for a free and independent Czechoslovakia. On the 28th of October of 1944 the Nazis captured the entire underground group, executed their two generals as the others were made to watch by crushing them between two blocks. The remainder of the group were all transported to Auschwitz where Emanuel's mother and brothers had already been sent.

All here who know or remember anything about those times of horror recognize such names as Auschwitz, Belsen, Buchenwald, Dachau and Treblinka as places which will forever be remembered as the archetypes of the worst brutality, bestiality, and depravity of which only the human species seems to be capable and which develop as a cancer in a society when law and reason and decency and due process take flight from the hearts of men and the lives of nations.

At Auschwitz Emanuel's mother and his little brother, Aaron, 7 years of age, were executed in the gas chamber. Because Emanuel was a strong and able bodied young man, he was eventually taken from Auschwitz to work in a labor force building emergency air fields for the German Luftwaffe at Plattling, Bavaria.

Following the end of the war in 1945 he returned to his native Bardejov. Because one of Hitler's deputies, another Rosenberg, had been the architect of the vicious Nuremberg Laws for the extermination of the Jews and political dissenters, Emanuel legally changed his name to Emanuel Rohan, the name by which you identify him in the program.

Back in Bardejov Mr. Rohan championed the cause of the revival of democratic institutions in Czechoslovakia. He entered the University of Prague where he became a student of government and was elected the President of the Student Friends of the United States. But this was not for long. The scourge of tyranny again swept across that unfortunate country and it fell into communist hands and slipped behind the iron curtain.

Because of his outspoken sentiments for the United States and the West, Mr. Rohan was again imprisoned, and later put on probation with a requirement that he report twice daily to the local police.

His sister, who, as I mentioned earlier, had been sheltered during the war, returned home. One day she was accosted by two Russian soldiers. While struggling with them a Russian officer came by, sent the men on their way and then himself threatened to assault her. She struggled free and ran and the officer shot at her but fortunately missed. She feigned injury, fell and lay motionless until he had gone.

Through the sacrifice of relatives, Mr. Rohan, his brothers and sister escaped the country and Mr. Rohan made his way to Austin, Texas.

One of those relatives is here today, an aunt, Mrs. Oscar Tannerbaum, who with her husband, sacrificed to provide passage and a home for him.

In Austin he began his college education at the University of Texas. He knew little English when he arrived in this country but with enormous energy he developed such a command of the language as to excel in his University work. After a semester he came to Dallas and SMU where Mr. Leonard Nystrom, Admissions Officer of the University, sympathizing with his predicament, gave him a scholarship. He thereafter finished 3½ years of college work at S.M.U. with high honors, making only one grade below A and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1952.

He joined his brothers in a successful manufacturing business making a contribution to the economic welfare of the Dallas community.

In 1968 he entered Law School and is here today having completed all the work for the Juris Doctor degree in the December class. He has already taken the Bar examination, has been admitted to the Texas Bar, and just within the past several weeks was admitted as a member of the Dallas Bar Association.

No one better than he appreciates the meaning of the rule of law in a civilized society; no one better than he understands what happens when a nation loses its moral base and principles of decency, no one better than he comprehends the vigilance which free men must jealously maintain to guard their liberties. His law degree and his entry into the legal profession to work with legal institutions in this democracy have a special meaning for him for which the rest of us can only grope in uncertainty for most of our lives.

Law and reason, decency and due process, mutual respect and mutual trust are not mere words of rhetoric to him but are concrete realities without which, as he so well knows, a society cannot survive.

Mr. Rohan is joined here today by family and friends, some of whom also experienced the terrors of persecution.

It's been a long journey from that day in October 1944, at Bardejov, from the concentration camp at Auschwitz, from the labor camp at Plattling, and from the Communist prison in post war Czechoslovakia. I'm sure as you notice each day the tattoo mark on your forearm, put there by your German captors at Auschwitz, you are reminded many times of that long journey.

As I reflected on these remarks I could not help but recall the story in the book of Exodus when the people of old were delivered out of the house of Pharaoh the tyrant, out of Egypt the land of bondage, into the promised land. The trials of their journey are not unlike your own and those of other refugees and let us hope that here today is indeed the promised land.

Words of David the psalmist seem appropriate:

"Raise me up when I am most afraid, I put my trust in you;
in God, whose word I praise,
In God I put my trust, fearing nothing. What can men do to me?

All day long they twist what I say, all they think of is how to harm me, they conspire, lurk, spy on my movements, determined to take my life.

In God I put my trust, fearing nothing; what can man do to me?

We congratulate you and wish you well, and we thank you, for your story invokes in all of us a greater respect for the rule of law and impresses upon us all the seriousness of our role as lawyers and as citizens in this great nation.

And now the Hooding Ceremony will begin.

Professors A. J. Thomas and William J. Flittie will hood the candidates for the Juris Doctor degree.

Miss Carol Margaret Barger, outgoing President of the Student

Bar Association and a member of the class of 1973 will present the Juris Doctor candidates.

We have here today alumni whose sons or sisters are graduating. They are with the stage party and will participate in the ceremony. They are:

Miss Barger will call on the particular alumnus to join his Juris Doctor candidate when he is introduced.

Will the candidates please come forward.

(The candidates for the Juris Doctor degree were then hooded).

We have here at the Law School each year lawyers, judges, and prosecutors from the far East, the Middle East, South America, and Europe who are engaged in a program of study leading to the Master of Comparative Law Degree.

Professor A. J. Thomas, Chairman, Committee on Graduate Legal Studies, will present these candidates.

(The candidates for the Master of Comparative Law Degree were then presented).

We have here at the Law School each year a number of students in full time study and a number of practicing lawyers in part time study for the Master of Laws degree.

Professor A. J. Thomas will present these candidates.

(The candidates for the Master of Laws Degree were then presented).

This ceremony is now concluded. Will you please remain seated until the stage party and the degree candidates have recessed to Lawyers Inn.

You are all most welcome to the reception which immediately follows in Lawyers Inn. All the buildings in this quadrangle will remain open for several hours. Please make yourself at home.

Thank you all for being with us. And don't forget the Baccalaureate service in the morning at 10:00 a.m. and the Commencement exercises at 1:30 p.m. and the handing out of the diplomas here at Underwood Library at 3:30-4:30 p.m.
