I. General Statement

In May, 1976, the School of Law completed its fifty-first academic year. At that time degrees were formally conferred on those who had completed their degree requirements in August, 1975, December, 1975, and May, 1976. The following tabular analysis reflects comparative data with respect to degrees conferred or certificates granted during the period 1966-1976.

The survival of private education has become the crisis of the 1970's. I stated in my report for last year that this University, like other private schools, is experiencing the crunch caused by rapidly rising costs matched against inadequate revenues. As this report is written, a major capital campaign is in preparation. Trustees, alumni, faculty, students, and friends will be called upon to make a commitment to the continuation of a respected institution and its various schools, divisions, and departments.

The Law School is one of the largest in the country and holds a position of national eminence in legal education. The continuation of this status will require resources to attract and hold an able and competent faculty of scholar-teachers, students capable of meeting the challenge of a rigorous professional educational program, and a library without peer in its assistance to scholars, teachers, and practitioners.

And there you have it. A law school is made up of scholar-teachers, students, and books. All cost money—far more than tuition revenue can sustain. A private law school has a special independence of estimable value. It can accommodate its program to the rapidly changing needs of the legal profession and can offer opportunities for investigation and research into new legal frontiers. This independence may be lost unless alumni and friends rally to its support.

II. Faculty

We are particularly proud of SMU's law faculty, an indispensable base for an excellent professional program. The law faculty is a diverse group of men and women with differences of views on a host of issues; indeed, it is a rare proposition that comes before a faculty meeting without challenge or a divided vote. Yet it is fair to say that no group is more consistently united in a common dedication to quality and excellence in professional education than is the faculty of the School of Law at SMU. I present them to you with a brief summary of their teaching and scholarly pursuits during the year. A more detailed statement concerning faculty activities appears in Appendix B.

PROFESSORS OF LAW

Professor Robert L. Bogomolny is a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws from Harvard University. He taught crimes, family law, constitutional criminal procedure, and a seminar on privacy in the American system. During the year he edited the volume, Human Experimentation, a collection of papers delivered at a conference at the Law School in the spring of 1975. He also published a paper on the right to nondisclosure in the Human Rights Journal.

Professor Alan R. Bromberg is a Bachelor of Arts from Harvard University and a Bachelor of Laws from Yale University. During the year he taught business associations and securities regulation. He completed a major supplement to his book, Securities Law Fraud, co-authored a manual for research methods and legal writing, prepared a model partnership agreement with comments for a new casebook, published several other articles, and delivered papers on various aspects of securities transactions.
Professor Harvey L. Davis is a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Akron and a Bachelor of Laws from Southern Methodist University. During the year Professor Davis was on sabbatical leave in Australia doing work on a comparison of our commercial code dealing with negotiable instruments and the Australian system.

Professor William J. Flittie is a Bachelor of Science of Law from the University of Minnesota and a Bachelor of Laws from Columbia University. He taught oil and gas, contracts, and anti-trust law and has continued to keep up to date the annual pocket parts to Summers, Oil and Gas. He also served as consultant to the Texas Council for Organized Crime Prevention.

Professor John E. Kennedy is a Bachelor of Philosophy and Bachelor of Laws from the University of Notre Dame and a Master of Laws and Doctor of the Science of Law from Yale University. Besides his teaching in the areas of procedure and admiralty he published a survey article in the Texas Tech Law Review on opinions of the Fifth Circuit on procedure and revised portions of Moore's Federal Practice. He also served as the Law School representative to the Association of American Law Schools.
Professor Lennart V. Larson is a Bachelor of Science and Juris Doctor from the University of Washington and a Doctor of the Science of Law from the University of Michigan. He taught property, wills, trusts, and real estate development law. As a member of the Board of Trustees of the University Retirement Plan he was primarily responsible for effecting the necessary changes in arrangements to comply with the complex provisions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA).

Professor James W. McElhaney is a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws from Duke University. His principal assignment has been teaching evidence and trial tactics, and during the year he also taught conflict of laws.

Professor Joseph W. McKnight is a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Texas at Austin, a Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Civil Law, and Master of Arts from Oxford University, and a Master of Laws from Columbia University. He taught creditors' rights, Texas matrimonial property and wills and estate administration. In cooperation with Myron M. Sheinfeld of the Houston Bar Association and William P. Rochelle of the Dallas Bar Association, Professor McKnight and Professor David Epstein of the University of Texas Law School offered a seminar in advanced bankruptcy law to students at SMU and the University of Texas. Professor McKnight delivered several papers and has continued to publish in the area of family law and marital property rights.
Professor Charles J. Morris is a Bachelor of Arts from Temple University and a Bachelor of Laws from Columbia University. He teaches in the field of labor law. During the year he delivered papers on and published articles about labor law, including an article on the National Labor Relations Board in the Labor Law Journal, a survey of labor law in the Texas Tech Law Review, and an article on public employee bargaining in the Houston Law Review.

Professor Joe Scott Morris is a Bachelor of Arts from Rice University, a Bachelor of Laws from Southern Methodist University, and a Master of Laws from Harvard University. He teaches in the fields of taxation, environmental law, and real estate planning. During the year he worked on a book on real estate planning and published an article on this subject in the Southwestern Law Journal.

Associate Dean for Clinical Education and Professor Walter W. Steele, Jr. is a Bachelor of Laws from Southern Methodist University and a Master of Laws from the University of Texas at Austin. He taught crimes, counseling, and the Code of Professional Responsibility. During the year he worked on videotape materials on the Texas juvenile justice system and published papers on the right to die in the Criminal Law Bulletin and in the Oklahoma Law Review.
Professor Howard J. Taubenfeld is a Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, and Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University. He taught in the areas of property, international law, science, technology and law, and ethics and law, and has continued his work on the legal consequences of weather modification under the auspices of the National Science Foundation. He was on leave for the spring semester 1976 doing research in the area of weather modification and the international political, economic and legal aspects of airborne and oceanborne pollution.

Professor A. J. Thomas, Jr. is a Bachelor of Science from Texas A & M College, a Bachelor of Laws from the University of Texas at Austin, a Master of Laws and Doctor of the Science of Law from the University of Michigan. He taught courses in constitutional law and conflict of laws and a seminar in the law of international organizations. He and Professor Ann Van Wynen Thomas were invited by the SMU alumni in Taiwan to visit them, and they were also invited to Greece to discuss the Cyprus case in a prepared paper which was later published in the Southwestern Law Journal.

Professor Clifford F. Thompson is a Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor from Harvard University and a Master of Arts from Oxford University. He taught property, Uniform Commercial Code, and jurisprudence and prepared a paper for the Dallas Bar on the new Land Transfer Act.
Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Professor Harvey Wingo is a Bachelor of Arts from Birmingham-Southern College, and a Master of Arts and Juris Doctor from Vanderbilt University. He taught constitutional law and published an article in the Essays on the Law of Property honoring Professor Emeritus Clyde Emery.

ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS OF LAW

Professor Beverly Carl is a Bachelor of the Science of Law and Juris Doctor from the University of Southern California and a Master of Laws from Yale University. She taught contracts, economic development law, comparative international law, and the Code of Professional Responsibility. She published an article in the Houston Law Review on judgments of foreign nations in Texas courts and continued her international law activities with the Dallas, Texas, and American Bar Associations. On May 14, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the promotion of Associate Professor Carl to Professor of Law effective for the fall semester 1976.

Professor Matthew W. Finkin is a Bachelor of Arts from Ohio Wesleyan University and a Bachelor of Laws from New York University. He taught administrative law, labor law, and procedure. He published an article on faculty tenure and retirement in the Human Rights Journal and an article on arbitration of faculty disputes in the Southwestern Law Journal. On May 14, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the promotion of Associate Professor Finkin to Professor of Law effective for the fall semester 1976.
Professor William P. Streng is a Bachelor of Arts from Wartburg College and a Juris Doctor from Northwestern University. He taught in the areas of Federal taxation and problems of doing business abroad. He published an article in the Tax Lawyer on the tax treatment of political contributions and an article on foreign expropriation losses for the Prentice Hall publication on Taxation of International Operations. On May 14, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the promotion of Associate Professor Streng to Professor of Law with tenure effective for the Fall Semester 1976.

ASSISTANT PROFESSORS OF LAW

Professor Roy R. Anderson is a Bachelor of Arts from Texas Christian University, a Juris Doctor from Southern Methodist University, and a Master of Laws from Yale University. He taught in the field of contracts, Uniform Commercial Code, and damages, and he supervised the Moot Court program. He also published an article on commercial transactions in the Houston Law Review, and prepared teaching materials for the course in commercial transactions.

Professor Philippe J. Bodin is a Bachelor of Arts from Stanford and Juris Doctor from the University of Virginia. He taught in the areas of contracts, equity, and jurisprudence and served as chairman of the Committee on Admissions of the Law School. He resigned from the School of Law at the end of the Spring Semester, 1976, to enter into the practice of law in Southern France.
Professor Neil H. Cogan is a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws from the University of Pennsylvania. He taught procedure, constitutional law, and civil rights. He published articles on the nolo contendere plea in the Arizona Law Review and on the plea of guilty in Texas in the Southwestern Law Journal. He also acted as editor of the Human Rights Journal. On May 14, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the promotion of Assistant Professor Cogan to Associate Professor of Law with tenure effective for the Fall Semester 1976.

Professor William V. Dorsaneo is a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Pennsylvania and a Juris Doctor from the University of Texas. He taught procedure, creditors rights and commercial transactions. He published an article in the Southwestern Law Journal on employee discrimination litigation and co-authored with Professor McKnight an article on community property for the work on Texas Family Law and Procedure.

Professor Roark M. Reed is a Bachelor of Business Administration and a Juris Doctor from Georgetown University. His primary responsibility during the year was the director of the new criminal justice clinic. He authored a paper describing this operation which appeared in the Texas Bar Journal.
Professor Ellen K. Solender is a Bachelor of Arts from Oberlin College and a Juris Doctor from Southern Methodist University. She has directed for several years the first year course in legal research and writing and during the year taught torts and family law. She published an article on the guardian ad litem in the Texas Tech Law Review, a study of the effect of the unattractive client in the Human Rights Journal, and a set of revised materials for the first year research methods course.

Professor Peter W. Schroth is a Bachelor of Arts from Schimer College, a Juris Doctor and Master of Comparative Law from the University of Chicago. He taught torts, comparative law, and environmental law. He revised his course materials on comparative law and Texas comparative negligence law and also co-edited the Human Rights Journal.

Professor Peter Winship is a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Laws from Harvard University and a Master of Laws from the University of London. He taught in the areas of business associations, trusts, and commercial transactions and published an article on the Uniform Commercial Code in the Southwestern Law Journal.

III. Degree Programs

The School of Law conducted the following major programs during the year 1975-76.

(A) The three-year Juris Doctor program. The requirements are 90 hours of required and elective courses.

(B) The general graduate program for part-time and full-time students leading to the degree of Master of Laws. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A thesis may be submitted for as many as 12 hours of credit.

(C) The graduate program in international and comparative law leading to the degree of Master of Comparative Law. The requirements are 24 hours of seminar and course work prescribed by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies. A Certificate in Comparative Law may in the discretion of the faculty be awarded to those students in the international and comparative law program who fail in some particular respect to meet all the grade and hour requirements for the Master of Comparative Law degree.

(D) The graduate program in research and writing leading to the degree of Doctor of Science of Law. The requirements are prescribed for the candidate by the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies.

(E) The combined Juris Doctor and Master of Business Administration degree. This combined program is offered jointly by the School of Law and the Graduate Division of the School of Business Administration. The program is designed for law practice with a strong business background, and for business careers with a strong legal background. The two degrees may be obtained in four years. Separately, they would require four and a half or five years.

(F) The combined Juris Doctor and Master of Public Administration degree. This program is offered jointly by the School of Law and the Graduate Program in Public Administration of the School of Humanities and Sciences. The program is designed for those persons who desire career opportunities in the public sector. The two degrees may be obtained in four years. Separately, they would require four and a half years.

IV. Curriculum

The curriculum in effect for the summer session 1975 consisted of 11 sections of courses and seminars; during the regular session 166 sections of courses and seminars were offered. Under the program for the Juris Doctor degree, the student had to complete 41 hours of required courses and 49 hours of electives, including at least one course involving international and comparative law or jurisprudence and a seminar in which a substantial paper is required.

During the year new offerings included:

- Advanced Environmental Law Seminar offered by Professor Peter W. Schroth
V. Recruiting and Enrollment

The mean averages for the Law School Admission Test and undergraduate college scores were 602 (77th percentile) and 3.3 (on a 4.0 scale), respectively, for the class entering in the fall of 1975. The means are calculated on the basis of all those admitted including special admissions pursuant to personal interviews and consideration of exceptional circumstances.

During the year, the number of women students numbered 181, students from abroad, 25, and minority students (Black, Chicano, and American Indian), 23. As reflected in the tabulation, the first year students represented 26 states. Their undergraduate work was done in 79 different colleges and universities—17 Texas schools and 62 out-of-state schools.

The tuition during the regular session for all students was a linear fee of $90 per semester hour.

During the year we continued an intensive recruiting program in colleges and universities throughout the country. Some 48 alumni of the School of Law made recruiting trips to 58 undergraduate schools, while senior law students made visits to another 21 schools in the North Texas area. Professors visited 10 schools in 4 states. We initiated a program using minority students to concentrate on recruitment of qualified minority applicants. The total minority registration of 20 for the Fall Semester, 1975, compares with 23 in 1974, 22 in 1973, 18 in 1972, and 11 in 1971.

During 1975 a female applicant of Mexican-American descent applied for and was denied admission on the basis of the policy guidelines established by the Admissions Committee. The applicant requested and was granted a review of the file and again was denied admission. The applicant brought a class action suit against the University and sought a preliminary injunction requiring the University to admit her.

The United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, denied the request for injunction and concluded that the suit should not proceed as a class action. This order was appealed and the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit affirmed.

VI. Underwood Law Library

Visiting Associate Professor Frances H. Hall is a Bachelor of Arts, a Master of Arts, Master of Science in Library Science and Juris Doctor from the University of North Carolina. She serves as the Law Librarian. On May 14, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University approved the recommendation that Associate Professor Hall be awarded tenure.

During the 1975-76 fiscal year 13,631 volumes were added to the collection bringing the total count to 212,397 volumes. Expenditures for library operations amounted to $310,433. The library also received significant gifts of books and prints. New acquisitions were made in all subject areas represented in the law school curriculum. The foreign, international, and comparative law collections were expanded, and the sections of the Latin American collection updated. Funds from the Bromberg Family Endowment were used for the purchase of books on corporation law, securities, and other areas of business law. Endowed funds made possible the continued expansion of the Erin Bain Jones Sea and Space Law Collection. About three-fourths of the book budget was spent in keeping the serial publications up to date.

One change occurred in the professional staff—the promotion of James P. Murphy to Assistant Law Librarian. One new full-time non-professional librarian position was authorized replacing two part-time positions. The full-time staff now consists of five professional and six non-professional librarians. During the year staff members participated in a variety of state and national professional activities.

The library is open to the public 103 1/2 hours a week during the regular term and 89 1/2 hours a week during the summer session. As the major law library in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area, it serves the legal and business community as well as students and faculty from other institutions. Requests for interlibrary loans have increased particularly from Inter-University Council member schools. Four IBM coin-operated copying machines and a Dennison reader-printer for microfilm materials are available. The library conference room continues to serve as a meeting place for students, faculty, and professional organizations.

VII. Alumni Affairs, Law School Fund, Student Aid

On July 2, 1975, alumni met for breakfast at the Dallas Convention Center during the State Bar Convention. Dean Galvin discussed “The Second Half Century; SMU Law School Looks Forward.” The Association also sponsored a reception on July 2 at the Adolphus Hotel.

On October 23, 1975, Washington, D.C. alumni gathered with Dean Galvin for a reception at the Watergate Hotel.

On November 11, 1975, John Eikenburg, Esq. (1964) and Mrs. Eikenburg hosted the Houston area alumni at a reception and dinner at their home.

Dean Galvin met with the San Antonio area alumni for lunch on December 11, 1975.

Marshall J. Doke, Jr., Esq. (1959), was Chairman of the 1975-76
Law School Fund. In addition to solicitation by mail, Mr. Doke headed a telefund at the Law School which ran for eight nights and involved 55 alumni as solicitors. Under his direction, gifts to the Law School reached an all time high of $142,898. He also implemented the first annual Law Library Fund. All law firms and solo practitioners in Dallas were asked to support voluntarily the Law Library on the basis of $20 per lawyer (the approximate cost of one book.) Dallas attorneys responded generously with gifts exceeding $10,000.

VIII. Publications

Two student-edited law reviews are published by the School of Law, the Southwestern Law Journal and the Journal of Air Law and Commerce. The operation and management of these law reviews are vested in their respective Boards of Editors. The Boards are made up of senior students who have exhibited exceptional ability for legal research and writing. Other students are selected to participate on the basis of scholarship and through a writing competition conducted each year. In both publications, the work of students has produced periodicals of permanent value to the legal profession.

The Southwestern Law Journal is published five times each year and reaches law schools, attorneys and judges throughout the United States and abroad. Each issue includes articles by prominent legal scholars and practitioners dealing with significant questions of local, national, and international law. In addition, articles by students analyze recent cases, statutes and developments in the law. Each year one issue of the Journal is devoted to an Annual Survey of Texas Law and contains articles by attorneys, law professors, and judges concerning current developments in the laws of Texas.

The Journal of Air Law and Commerce, a quarterly publication of the School of Law, was founded in 1930, and has been at S.M.U. since 1962. It is circulated throughout the world. Articles by distinguished lawyers, economists, government officials, and scholars deal with domestic and international problems of the airline industry, private aviation and of aerospace problems. Also included are student works on a variety of topical issues, student comments, casenotes on recent decisions, book reviews and editorial comments.

On February 19-21, 1976 the Journal of Air Law and Commerce sponsored its regular annual symposium on Recent Developments in Aviation Litigation.

The Human Rights Journal is published quarterly by the School of Law and the Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities of the American Bar Association. It is edited jointly by members of the faculty and students and includes articles by leading scholars and practitioners and notes and bibliographies by students on legal topics of humanistic concern.

The Advocate is a weekly newspaper published by students about the Law School community.

IX. Legal Clinic

Maxine T. McConnell, Director of Legal Clinic, is a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws from Southern Methodist University.

Professor Walter W. Steele, Jr. was appointed by the Board of trustees to the position of Associate Dean for Clinical Education, thus allowing Professor Steele to devote more of his time to the coordination and expansion of the clinical effort at the law school. Under the supervision of Professor Steele, Maxine T. McConnell, Director of the Civil Cases Clinic, and John A. Dennis, Associate Director, supervised a total of 64 students enrolled in the Civil Cases Clinic. The spectrum of cases handled by clinic students continues to be quite broad, involving family law, social security, consumer abuse, and many other legal matters most often encountered by the average citizen. The classroom component of the Civil Cases Clinic continues to be an important part of the students’ overall clinical experience. In the classroom, the students discuss interviewing and counseling techniques, courtroom decorum, the art of pleading, etc.

In the Legal Extern Program, 58 students were placed in institutional settings in Dallas County such as the offices of the state district attorney, the State Attorney General, and the Federal Trade Commission. Under the sponsorship of the Texas Bar Foundation, Professor Steele has undertaken research to define the component parts of the art of the lawyering process. When completed, his findings will serve as the basis for a seminar which will eventually be added to the Legal Extern Program to ensure that the students have more opportunity for reflective analysis of their experiences in each extern placement.

Professor Roark M. Reed, Director of the new Criminal Justice Clinic, supervised 22 students who handled 350 cases for indigent defendants in both county and district criminal courts. This clinic is sponsored, in part, by the Texas Criminal Justice Council. Although in its first year, the demand for participation in the Criminal Justice Clinic is quite high. At present, this program remains experimental and Professor Reed and Associate Dean Steele are continuing to review and modify its operations.

X. Moot Court

In the Region X competition for the National Moot Court Competition, the school was represented by John Christopher Cimaglia, Janet Marie Hellmich and Gary Edwin Keane. In the regional competition for the Jessup International Moot Court Competition, the school was represented by oralists Henry John Ackels, Gary Edwin Keane and Patricia Ann Stevenson. Jarilyn Catherine Dupont and Michael G. Paulowsky also participated on the Jessup team as researchers and memorial writers. In the Jessup competition, the team won the award for regional runner-up and Gary Edwin Keane was selected outstanding oralist for the competition.

Henry John Ackels served as Chairman of the Moot Court Board for the academic year and Gary Edwin Keane was chosen as Chairman-elect.

A distinguished panel of federal judges composed of Irving L. Goldberg, W. M. Taylor, Jr., and Sarah T. Hughes heard the final arguments in the Russell Baker Moot Court Competition in which Mark Charles Enoch and Kelly Jack Coghan were selected winners and Gayle Ellen Cox and Catherine Anita Akin were selected runners-up. Catherine Anita Akin was selected by the panel as the best oralist.

XI. Placement

Interviews took place during the months of September, 1975, through June, 1976, and representatives of interviewing firms came from every section of the country. There were 1,387 separately scheduled student interviews. A tally as of November 15, 1976 of the seniors graduating reflects the following facts concerning placement:

*Some graduates have been waiting for their Bar Examination results before seeking employment.

We continue to strive for the widest possible circulation of our graduates' resumes to give them the maximum opportunity for placement.

XII. Continuing Legal Education

Sherry Smith is a Bachelor of Arts from California State University at Los Angeles and a Juris Doctor from Northwestern School of Law of Lewis and Clark College.

This year marked the establishment of the Office of Continuing Legal Education, with Ms. Sherry Smith, a member of the Oregon State Bar and the State Bar of Texas, and formerly staff attorney for the Governor's Commission on Judicial Reform in Oregon, as the first full-time Director.

The Law School continued its partnership of several years with the Practising Law Institute of New York by co-sponsoring with PLI programs on Legal Aspects of Union Organizational Campaigns, Commercial Finance and Factoring, Products Liability, Preparation of Fiduciary Income Tax Returns, Enforcement and Compliance Under Banking Laws and Regulations, and Public Regulation of Health Care Providers.

Also continued were the series of highly successful programs in cooperation with the Dallas Bar Association. These clinics, each a day long, were held on the Law School campus: Trial Practice, Appellate Practice, and Bankruptcy. Such programs will continue on a quarterly basis.

Although these joint presentations are of high quality and allow the Law School to offer a wide spectrum of programming to the practicing Bar, the Office of Continuing Legal Education is most enthusiastic about developing programs which call upon the resources available at the Law School and other departments and schools of the University. To that end, the First Annual Symposium on Recent Developments in Texas Law was presented on May 10 in conjunction with the publication of the Annual Survey Issue of the Southwestern Law Journal. The program was well received and is scheduled to become an annual event.

Several programs which were completely or substantially developed are being presented in this academic year, including Learning Disabilities/Juvenile Delinquency, Public Employee Labor Relations, Due Process Problems in State Licensing, and a Law Up-Date for Journalists.

An entirely new venture is the advent of the Advanced Professional Training (APT) program. The Law School presented its first such program on a one-night-per-week basis May 29 through July 17, 1975, on the Pension Reform Act of 1974, under the chairmanship of Dean Charles O. Galvin. Ultimately, there will be at least one short course per semester of 12 or more hours offered in the evenings, on weekends, or in compact groups of days. Two courses under consideration for later presentation include the Liability of Accountants and Lawyers under Federal Securities Laws and Government Contract Administration.

Other projects during the year included the editing of the proceedings of the Human Experimentation Seminar held in March, 1975, now published in book form by the SMU Press. The Director of Continuing Legal Education has also assisted with various projects of the State Bar of Texas CLE Committee, coordinated the Southwestern CLE Calendar, and cooperated with the SMU School of Continuing Education in developing paralegal studies courses.

XIII. Other Events of the Year

On Saturday, March 5, 1976, at the NorthPark Inn the School of Law was host to a Conference of Texas Law Schools which was held for the purpose of engaging in an informal exchange of views and comments about various aspects of legal education and effective preparation of students for the profession. The deans of the other seven Texas law schools, their chairpersons of standing committees and other faculty members, and members of the Texas Board of Law Examiners participated. Professor Millard H. Ruud, Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools, and the Honorable Joe R. Greenhill, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, were featured speakers.

On Friday, March 26, 1976, a combined meeting of the Law School Committee of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Visitors of the School of Law, faculty, student representatives and others was held. The participants met at noon for a luncheon in the Junior Ballroom of the Umphrey Lee Student Center, following which the Trustees and Visitors met with the members of the standing Law School committees during the afternoon. The meeting concluded with a dinner at the home of Dean and Mrs. Charles O. Galvin.

On Saturday, May 15, the School of Law had its fifth formal Ceremony of Hooding the Juris Doctor candidates on the steps of the Underwood Law Library, followed by a reception in Lawyers Inn.

In addition, the Student Bar Association planned and hosted a series of distinguished speakers during the year. The Honorable Walter J. Hickel, former Secretary of the Interior and former Governor of Alaska; Governor Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for President of the United States; Congressman Alan Steelman, Congressman and candidate for United States Senate; and State Representative Jim Mattox, a candidate for United States Congress, were guests of the Student Bar Association during Law Week, 1976.

Governor Jimmy Carter, Democratic candidate for President of the United States, appeared as a guest of the Student Bar Association on May 1, 1976.

Phil Burleson, Criminal Attorney and Chairman of the American Bar Association Committee on Legal Specialization in Texas, and Mr. Richard Gerstein, State Prosecutor for Dade County (Miami) were guests on October 23 and November 7, 1975 respectively, of the SMU Criminal Law Students Association.

Sarah Weddington, Texas State Representative and Mary Ann Krup-sak, Lieutenant Governor of the State of New York, were guests in March and February respectively of the Association of Women Law Students and the Student Bar Association.

XIV. Conclusion

To all those who assisted in the work of the Law School for the year under review I extend my sincere appreciation.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES O'NEILL GALVIN
Dean, School of Law

Invocation by John William Bunch, member of the Class of 1976 and outgoing Vice President of the Student Bar Association:
Let us pray.
Almighty Father, we gather before Thee and ask for Thy blessings on this happy occasion. May Thy spirit guide us in all that transpires today. We ask that Thou wilt specially bless mothers, fathers, wives, and friends who have provided support and encouragement during the course of our educational endeavors. We call upon Thee to further guide and inspire the wise Faculty and Dean of this law school in their endeavors.

We mark this day a significant event for the graduates of Southern Methodist University School of Law, and as graduates we seek Thy inspiration. As we have learned of man made laws, wilt Thou help us understand, O Lord, that those truly worthy to be known as lawyers are those who never forget that the highest laws are Thy laws.

As we now go and immerse ourselves in work as lawyers, let us not forget responsibilities, as well as rights. Wilt Thou aid us that we may become worthy public servants. We seek Thy help in upholding the public trust, especially those of us who may one day serve in elected office. Give us strength, Dear Lord, to know what is right and to do that which is right.

Finally, tonight, may we give thanks to this great free country which under law allows us to do all this.
In the Lord’s name we pray,
AMEN.

Statement of Dean Charles O. Galvin:
Mr. Chancellor Tate, Mr. Provost Brooks, Members of the faculty and staff of the School of Law, candidates for the various degrees in law, parents, spouses, children, relatives, distinguished guests, friends all.
It is a great pleasure for me to welcome all of you here on this happy day, and on behalf of the entire University community, I extend to the degree candidates the warmest good wishes and congratulations from us all.
The first Law School class of Southern Methodist University started in the fall of 1925 and graduated in the Spring of 1928 with a total of 11 members. This 49th class has 239 candidates for the Juris Doctor degree, 15 for the Master of Comparative Law degree, 23 for the Master of Laws degree, and 1 candidate for the Doctor of the Science of Law degree. These numbers include those who completed the requirements for their respective degrees in August, 1975, December, 1975, and May, 1976, all of whose names are listed on the program for this ceremony and on the official University commencement program which will be distributed tomorrow afternoon. In addition, there are participating with us today candidates for degrees in August, 1976. Their names are separately set out on the program.

We honor all the members of this class of 1976, for each one of you has worked diligently for the achievement of this day, but for some there are special honors to which I now call your attention. If you will consult your programs, you will note the names of members of the class who have won special prizes and awards and the names of individuals and organizations who have made these prizes and awards possible. To the winners go our special congratulations and to the donors our gratitude for their support of quality and excellence in academic performance.

Yesterday afternoon the faculty of the School of Law met to approve the degree candidates for presentation to the President of the University. They have designated Barbara Michele Golden Lynn to receive her degree of Juris Doctor Summa Cum Laude, and nine members of the class to receive their degrees of Juris Doctor Cum Laude. Their names are listed on the program and you can identify each of them by the special red and blue talisman which each one wears on his or her right sleeve.

Ms. Barbara Michele Golden Lynn is also designated as the Standard Bearer for the Class of 1976.

Last night the Order of the Coif formally inducted 25 members of the senior class into its society. The new members of Coif are listed on the program, and you can also recognize each of them by the special white linen circular coif which each one wears on his or her mortarboard, or academic cap. The Order of the Coif in this country is the extension of the ancient English order of the Coif which has honored distinguished lawyers since the Norman Conquest in 1066.

You will also note that Michael G. Paulowsky has been elected to the Order of the Barristers, a National Order whose purpose is the encouragement of oral advocacy and brief writing skills through effective Law School Appellate Moot Court Programs.

I call your attention to these special honors but I repeat that we honor and congratulate all the degree candidates of 1976 for each in his or her own way has worked with great dedication for the rewards of this day.

Thanks and appreciation go out from the graduates and from the School of Law today to many, many people. Mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters, uncles, aunts, grandparents and in-laws—all have contributed not only in many cases with their financial resources but also with their encouragement and personal concern. Many come from great distances to be with us. Last year a mother and father came from Tokyo to be with their daughter. This year Senior Adalberto Aspillaga has come from Lima, Peru, to be with his son, Victor Aspillaga, a candidate for the Master of Comparative Law degree. The distance record, however, must surely be held this year by Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Valente who have come from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. We have many students from foreign countries in study here but this is the first time I can recall that parents from abroad have been able to join us at graduation.

Senhor e Senhora deputado federal Ernesto Valente, nós queremos, nesta oportunidade, desejar-lhes boas vindas a Dallas, uma agradável estadia, em nosso país, e sinceros votos de prosperidade para os senhores, Ernesto, e a nação amiga, Brasil. Muitíssimo obrigado.

For those who may wonder what that was, it was Portuguese with a Texas drawl.

Special thanks go to spouses—husbands and wives of law students and children of law students. The law student partners are our ushers today and this contribution of their help is but another example of their continuing service to this School.

Of special note is a husband and wife team graduating today. They are Josephine Marian Jenkins and Joseph Day Mitchell. Both were inducted into Coif last night. Their cumulative law school averages for the three years of work are less than 2 percentage points apart, and male chauvinistic pride keeps me from telling you which has the higher average, so I’ll let you guess.

Law firms, alumni, trustees, representatives of the University central administration and friends of the School have also made their commitments to quality private professional education. All are represented here today to honor this class and to you we extend our thanks.

And to faculty, staff and librarians who have worked with such commitment this year we express a very sincere appreciation.

There is a special member of the class of 1976 here today. Covey Thomas Oliver is a native of Laredo, Texas. He received his Bachelor of Arts and his law degrees summa cum laude from the University of Texas at Austin and his Master of Laws and Doctor of the Science of Law degrees from Columbia University. He has been a long time member of the bar of the State of Texas, and began his teaching career at the Law School of the University of Texas at Austin. During World War II he entered the foreign service and was assigned to the American Embassy in Madrid. Later, he was a member of the United States delegation to the Paris Peace Conference. Following World War II he returned to law school teaching at the University of California at Berkeley and later went to the University of Pennsylvania where he is today the Hubbell Professor of International Law. His law teaching career was again interrupted in 1964 when President Johnson appointed him as Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Colombia, a post he occupied until 1966 when he was made Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs and the United States Coordinator for the Alliance for Progress. In 1969, he became Executive Director of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the International Finance Corporation. Later, he returned to the University of Pennsylvania where his legal scholarship has been devoted primarily to the fields of International Law and Conflict of Laws. Pursuant to action of the Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University, President Zumberge tomorrow afternoon at the University commencement ceremony will confer upon Professor Oliver the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Today we recognize him as a legitimate and proper member of the law school class of 1976.

Professor Oliver, will you please stand and let us greet you.

Commencement is a time of endings and beginnings. Willis McDonald Tate is with us today in his official position as Chancellor of Southern Methodist University. Dr. Tate came to SMU in 1927 as a freshman and did both his Bachelors and Masters degrees here. In 1945, the then President of the University, Dr. Umphrey Lee, offered him a position as Assistant Dean of Students, and he has been continuously involved in the administration of the University ever since. He was later made Dean of Students, then Vice President in charge of Development, and in 1954 the Board elected him President of the University.

He retires this year and by action of the Board of Trustees he is designated as President Emeritus. This event today is one of his last official functions after service to this institution which he began as a student almost 50 years ago. He leaves with us a legacy of unflagging dedication, devotion, and commitment to a great University and takes with him from all of us our profound gratitude and our best wishes for his future.

Mr. Chancellor, will you please stand and let us thank you.

Dr. Tate's successor is Dr. James H. Zumberge who came to SMU from his position as Chancellor of the University of Nebraska. He has a long and distinguished record as a teacher, scholar, scientific researcher, and university administrator. He is unable to be with us today as he is ill.

This is the Fifth Annual Hooding Ceremony of this Law School. It is the close of the 51st Academic Year of the Law School and the 61st Academic Year of the University. It is 131 years since the people of this area through their elected representatives entered into a treaty providing for the annexation of this land to the United States, and it is 140 years since the people of this area declared themselves and this land independent of the Empire of Mexico.

And, of course, as we are reminded so often every day, it is 200 years since the establishment of the Republic of the United States of America.

Anniversaries of political events that mark political progress also mark the progress of legal institutions with their impact on the society.

In 1770 John Adams, a young lawyer from Braintree, Massachusetts, undertook the defense of Captain Preston and seven soldiers of the British regulars who had fired upon and killed five citizens of Boston in a street demonstration before the Customs House. Adams believed that every man was entitled to proper counsel, and even in the heat and frenzy of an incipient revolution this future president wanted to show that the stability of the society could be maintained only if fair trial and due process functioned effectively for everyone. He was successful in obtaining acquittal for the Captain and several of his men and relatively light penalties for the others.

On September 17, 1796, President George Washington delivered his magnificent farewell address in which he made frequent references to the constitutional system and the importance of its preservation if the new fledgling country was to survive.

The two great Virginians, Thomas Jefferson as President and John Marshall as Chief Justice, differed on the authority of the courts. Jefferson thought that each of the three branches of government ought to decide for itself what the Constitution means. Marshall, on the other hand, held that only the courts, and ultimately the Supreme Court, would have the right to make this determination.
President Jefferson complied, and Marshall’s view has prevailed to this hour.

Chief Justice Taney who was appointed by President Andrew Jackson and who served into the Lincoln Administration overruled President Lincoln’s attempt to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in Maryland. The Lincoln administration complied with the order of the court.

In 1937 President Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court to assure constitutional approval of his New Deal economic measures, but even with a substantial majority of his own party in the Congress he could not bring it off. One of the most popular presidents of our country had underestimated the fundamental respect which the people have for the decisions of the highest court and their unwillingness to have the court changed.

When President Harry Truman in 1951 tried to take over the operation of the nation’s steel mills the court overruled him, and the President complied.

In 1974 President Richard Nixon was ordered by the Court to turn over tapes and other documents of the executive office, and the President complied.

In our own community within recent weeks a Federal District Judge has handed down a decision relating to the operation of the Dallas public school system to assure equal educational opportunity for all our people. This has been a highly sensitive and controversial case, and the views of the citizenry vary widely with respect to it; yet no one has taken to the streets, no mob has marched forth throwing rocks and bottles. Rather the voices of calm and reason from every quarter call for patience, cooperation, understanding and compliance.

With respect to this case you will be interested in a quoted excerpt from a petition presented by another group on a similar issue in another day.

"...we are of the humble opinion that we have the right to enjoy the privileges of free men. But that we do not will appear in many instances, and we beg leave to mention one out of many and that is of the education of our children which now receive no benefit from the free schools in the town of Boston, which we think is a great grievance, as by woeful experience we now feel the want of a common education. We, therefore, must fear for our rising offspring to see them in ignorance in a land of gospel light when there is provision made for them as well as others and yet can’t enjoy them, and for not other reason can be given than that they are black..."
We therefore pray your Honors that you would in your wisdom some provision would be made for the free education of our dear children. And in duty bound shall ever pray . . .

This is from a Petition to the State Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Bay in 1787, 189 years ago. So much do our problems seem new and different, so much are they really, the same old human conflicts.

So long as lawyers and judges and the legal system merit respect from the chief magistrate of the republic to the humblest citizen in the land, so long will we have free people in a free society.

If you attend the legal profession which you now enter with the same intelligence, the same commitment, and the same integrity as those who have preceded you for 200 years, then you will help to assure that 200 years from now others will be able to celebrate the 400th Anniversary of what Europeans will probably still be referring to as the American experiment, and on that far off future day let us hope that the nation will continue to respect its legal institutions and to have confidence that those institutions can assure peace and justice, and preserve the basic liberties of all our people.

And now the Hooding Ceremony will begin. Professors Joseph Webb McKnight, William Paul Streng, and Joe Scott Morris will hood the candidates for the Juris Doctor degree.

We have here today Alumni who have either a son, daughter, wife, or brother graduating. They are with the stage party and will be called at the appropriate time to participate in the hooding ceremony.

Mr. John William Bickel, II, immediate past President of the Student Bar Association, will present the Juris Doctor candidates. Mr. Bickel, will you please proceed to be hooded first.

Mr. John William Bunch, immediate past Vice President of the Student Bar Association will now proceed to be hooded.

Will the other candidates please come forward and will the audience please hold your applause until all candidates have been presented.

(The Juris Doctor Candidates are presented.)

We have here at the Law School each year lawyers, judges, and prosecutors from the Far East, and Middle East, South America and Europe who are engaged in a program of study leading to the Master of Comparative Law degree.

Professor Aaron Joshua Thomas, Jr., Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies, will present these candidates.

(The candidates for the Master of Comparative Law degree are presented.)
We have here at the Law School each year a number of students in full time study and a number of practicing lawyers in part time study for the Master of Laws degree.

Professor Thomas will present these candidates.

(The candidates for the Master of Laws degree are presented.)

The highest degree in Law is the Doctor of the Science of Law degree. Judge Jih-an Liu of Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China, is a candidate for this degree in August, 1976. Because he will soon return to China, he is presented to you today.

Will all the candidates please stand and turn around to the audience and let us all express our congratulations to you.

This ceremony is concluded. Will you please remain seated until the stage party and the degree candidates have recessed to Lawyers Inn.

We invite everyone to the reception which immediately follows just to the north of Lawyers Inn.

All the buildings in the Law Quadrangle will remain open. Please visit about as you may wish.

The Baccalaureate service in the morning is at 10:00 a.m. at McFarlin Auditorium and the Commencement Exercises are at 2:00 p.m. in Moody Coliseum.

We wish all of you a good evening.
