INTRODUCTION

Dean Jeswald W. Salacuse

To the President, Members of the Board of Trustees, Members of the Board of Visitors, Faculty, Students, Law Alumni, and Friends of the School of Law of Southern Methodist University:

The School of Law completed its fifty-seventh academic year on May 31, 1982. Thanks to the prodigious efforts of faculty, administrative staff, and students, it was a year of achievement in many areas, including the academic program, research, and public service.

Notable events of the year included:

- The establishment of the Rupert and Lillian Radford Chair of Law.

- The increase of first-year admissions applications to an all-time high.

- The advancement in faculty publications and service to the profession with a preparation of 18 books and monographs, 31 articles, 19 volumes of teaching materials, and numerous speeches to groups outside the School.

- The holding of six sessions of the Texas Court of Appeals at the School in an effort to bring increased realism to the educational program.

- The endowment by the Hatton W. Sumners Foundation of the Robert G. Storey Fellowship in International and Comparative Law.

- The creation by the Dallas Bar Association and Dallas Bar Foundation of the Sarah T. Hughes Diversity Law Fellowships for Minority Students at the School.

- The entry of the first-year class with the highest LSAT score in the School's history.

- The organization of the School's first conference for prelaw advisers.

- Continued service to the legal profession through symposia, including those in taxation, air law, and product liability, which attracted national audiences, as well as the holding of the Southern Regional Program of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy.

- The inauguration by the Placement Office of new counseling services and workshops to assist students in career planning.

- The completion of successful annual drives for the Law School Fund and the Law Library Fund.

The successes of the year were not only due to the work and talents of numerous individuals, but also to the extraordinary spirit of cooperation and community that exists among faculty, staff, and students.

The pages that follow will attempt to describe in greater detail the progress and achievements of the 1981-82 academic year. I hope that it will also convey a sense of the excitement and enthusiasm which pervades the School as it strives for ever higher levels of excellence.

FACULTY

During the academic year 1981-82, full-time faculty members numbered 28. In addition, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs Henry J. Lischer, Jr., Associate Dean for Clinical Education Walter W. Steele, Jr., and I each taught the equivalent of one-half the teaching load of a full-time professor. As a result of new appointments to the faculty, the School had a faculty/student ratio of 1/29.1, a considerable improvement over the ratio of 1/31.5 which existed in 1980-81. We continue to strive toward the goal set by our Five-Year Plan of reducing the faculty/student ratio to 1/24 by 1986.

During the academic year, Professor Alan R. Bromberg was on leave to undertake a research project, and Professor J. Scott Morris took a leave of absence to work with an Austin law firm. Professor Peter Winship spent a sabbatical year at Oxford University, and Professor William V. Dorsaneo III was on sabbatical leave in the spring to complete a study on the Texas procedural law. Professor Roy R. Anderson also was on sabbatical leave during the year to undertake a research project.

Like most law schools, SMU faces a major challenge in recruiting and retaining high-quality faculty, particularly in view of the increasing differential between university salaries and compensation levels in private practice. Nonetheless, thanks to support from the University administration, the School has been able to devote considerable additional resources to faculty compensation during the last two years.

New appointments to the faculty included Jeffrey M. Gaba, Assistant Professor of Law (B.A., 1972, University of California at Santa Barbara; J.D., 1976, Columbia University), and Theodore Hadzi-Antich, Assistant Professor of Law (B.A., 1973, University of Connecticut; J.D., 1976, University of Oklahoma). In addition, the School was pleased to have the services of Visiting Professor John J. Mylan (B.S., 1961, Fordham University; J.D., 1964, Stanford School of Law; LL.M. (in taxation) 1965, New York University School of Law), on leave from Willamette University College of Law, who contributed to strengthening our offerings in the field of taxation. At the close of the academic year, Professor Mylan accepted an invitation to become a tenured member of the SMU faculty.

The academic year was also enriched by the presence of two distinguished visiting scholars, Professor Rui Mu, former Dean of the Law School of Peking University, China, and Dr. Dagoberto Cantizano, from Federal University of Rio Grande do sul, Brazil.

In addition to the full-time faculty, the educational program of the School was deeply indebted to the experienced practitioners who taught seminars and courses on a part-time basis during 1981-82. Their names and the courses they taught are listed in this report.

The faculty attained high levels of productivity in teaching, research, and public service during 1981-82. A brief glance at the summary of their selected activities, contained in the appendix to this report, gives cause for pride in the School's achievements during the year and hope for continued progress in the future. Collectively, they produced 18 books and monographs, published 31 articles, prepared 19 volumes of teaching materials for use at the School, and delivered numerous speeches and lectures to groups outside the Law School.

While the School made improvements in its faculty/student ratio, I am concerned that the average teaching load of faculty members may be too heavy to permit the full realization of their individual scholarly potential. By increasing the number of faculty members as contemplated by its Five-Year Plan, the School will gain the flexibility to meet the demands of a new and changing curriculum and at the same time permit faculty to devote significant time and energy to research and public service projects.

Faculty productivity, both in and outside the classroom, requires resources and a continuing concern for faculty development. Toward this end, the School, with the cooperation of the University administration, continued to provide special funds for research assistance and professional travel, and it has expanded the word-processing system installed during the 1980-81 academic year. The Faculty Forum Program, administered by Professor Earl C. Borgeson, completed its second lively year with programs on topics from the psychotherapist-patient privilege to computerization in law schools.

Despite commitment to research, the School's first priority remains excellence in teaching. In recognition of that fact, the School awarded the first annual Dr. Don M. Smart Teaching Award to Professor Harvey Wingo. The award, which consisted of a cash prize of $3,000, is to be given each year to the best classroom teacher, based on a poll of students in the School as well as alumni who have recently graduated.

Recognizing that important educational benefits are derived from our directed student research program, the School also awarded for the first time the Dr. Don M. Smart Prize for Directed Research, which was shared by Professor Alan R. Bromberg and graduating student George C. Morris III for a paper on Investment Banker's Liability in Valuation and Fairness Opinions.

THE STUDENT BODY

During 1981-82, the School of Law enrolled a total of 839 students as follows:

1st year	242
2nd year	228
3rd year	229
Graduate and Auditors	107
Specials	4
JD/MBA	16
Transients	12

Women students numbered 283 and accounted for 34 percent of the student body. Foreign students numbered 26, and minorities (blacks, Mexican-Americans, and native Americans) 34. As stated in the Five-Year Plan, one of the goals of the School is to diversify its student body, and we made some progress toward this end in 1981-82, as compared to 1980-81 when 19 minority students were enrolled at the School.

This improvement results from a variety of efforts, including the work of an ad hoc Committee on Diverse Student Recruitment, active recruitment of minority students through publications and personal contacts, and increased financial aid. The creation in 1981 by the Dallas Bar Association, with funding from the Dallas Bar Foundation, of the Sarah T. Hughes Diversity Fellowship for an SMU law student will also give significant impetus to this effort. Due to increased funding from the Foundation, as well as the addition of Law School funds, two fellowships, which cover tuition, room, board, and books, were awarded for the first time in May 1982 to Ms. Diana Orozco and Mr. Henry Gilmore.

The J. D. class entering in the fall of 1981 had a mean uniform grade-point average of 3.40 (on a scale of 4), a mean Law School Admission Test Score of 630 (81st percentile), the highest in the history of the School of Law. These students came to the School from 31 states, and they had completed their undergraduate studies at 99 different colleges and universities — 15 in Texas and 84 in other states.

The Master of Laws (LL.M.) program enrolled a total of 17 full-time and 66 part-time students, most of whom were seeking a specialization in taxation. The Master of Comparative Law (M.C.L.) program, attracted 24 foreign students from 15 countries.

Applications for admission to the Law School continued to increase during the year. Indeed, in 1981-82, the School received 1,683 applications for admission in August 1982, the highest in its history.

The School is aware of the fact that nationally the 22-year-old population, from which it primarily draws its students, will begin to decline in 1983 and that it must therefore increase its efforts at student recruitment. Toward this end, it held its first Conference of Prelaw Advisers from leading colleges and universities, April 15-17, 1982, on the campus of the Law School. Attended by advisers from Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Georgetown, Howard, University of Illinois, University of Michigan, Northwestern, Rice, UCLA, Washington & Lee, and Yale, the Conference sought to introduce the participants to the School's programs, faculty, and services. As a result of an exceptionally positive response, we plan to hold a second Conference for Prelaw Advisers from other schools in the spring of 1983.

ACADEMIC PROGRAM

The principal programs of the School of Law are the three-year Juris Doctor (J.D.) program, requiring 90 hours of course work, the Master of Laws (LL.M.) program, requiring 24 hours of course work, and the Master of Comparative Law (M.C.L.) program for foreign lawyers, requiring 24 hours of credit. In addition to the research degree of Doctor of the Science of Law (S.J.D.), the School of Law offers two joint-degree programs: the J.D./MBA degree in cooperation with the Edwin L. Cox School of Business, and the J.D./MPA degree in cooperation with the Graduate Program in Public Administration of Dedman College.

In the 1981-82 academic year, the School conferred 217 J.D. degrees, 31 LL.M. degrees, and 22 M.C.L. degrees. The following chart reflects comparative data with respect to degrees conferred during the period 1972-1982. The curriculum during the regular school year consisted of 170 sections of courses and seminars, and the summer session included seven sections of courses and seminars. During 1981-82 the School added four new courses: Environmental Regulation of the Energy Industry, offered by Professor Jeffrey M. Gaba; Estate Planning Problems, offered by Professor Carla A. Neeley; Food and Drug Law, offered by Charles R. McConachie, Esq.; and United States Supreme Court Practice, offered by Bret Ringle, Esq.

The clinical program under the supervision of Associate Dean Walter W. Steele, Jr., gives students an opportunity to work on real cases while providing a service to actual clients. It consists of four components: the Civil Cases Clinic, the Criminal Justice Clinic, the Federal Taxpayers Clinic, and the Legal Extern Program.

The Civil Cases Clinic, directed by Assistant Professor Maxine T. McConnell-Tobin and assisted by Mrs. Cynthia M. Hollingsworth, Associate Director, dealt with over 225 clients with problems ranging from consumer issues to delinquency.

Professor Roark M. Reed, who serves as Director of the Criminal Justice Clinic, began his sabbatical year in April in order to teach in Japan under a Fulbright award. In his absence, Associate Dean Steele assumed the directorship of the Clinic. During 1981-82, the students in the Criminal Justice Clinic handled a total of 523 cases, including 26 jury trials. This clinic continues to deal successfully with misdemeanors in Dallas County, and has established itself as an integral part of the Dallas County criminal justice system.

Thanks to the continuation of generous funding from Shell Oil Company, the Federal Taxpayers Clinic directed by Mr. Bruce B. Hart continued to provide assistance to citizens subject to audit by the Internal Revenue Service. During 1981-82 it examined a total of 207 cases and accepted the representation of 58 clients. It remains a model, recognized by the I.R.S. and the U.S. Tax Court, for similar clinics in the country.

Through the Legal Extern Program, students gained experience in various government and business offices off campus.

In addition to formal courses, the Law School seeks to enrich the educational experience of its students in many other ways. One notable activity in this respect was the presence at the School for six days, in January and March, 1982, of the Court of Appeals of the Fifth Supreme Judicial District of Texas, which heard arguments of 19 actual cases in Karcher Auditorium. Students attended these sessions and thus had an opportunity to observe appellate advocacy in action.

On November 11, Judge Edward J. Devitt, Senior Judge of the United States District Court for the District of Minnesota, delivered the second annual Alfred P. Murrah Lecture on the Administration of Justice. The subject of Judge Devitt's lecture was "Should Jury Trial be Required in Civil Cases?: A Challenge to the Seventh Amendment." During the course of his three-day visit to the campus, Judge Devitt, a nationally-known authority in the field of judicial administration, delivered a colloquium on "How to Try a Law Suit: Ten Commandments from a Trial Judge," addressed a Civil Procedure class on problems of modern discovery, presided over the final trial of the Mock Trial Competition, and met extensively with faculty and students.

In the spring, Justice Shirley B. Abrahamson, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Wisconsin, delivered the fifth annual Roy R. Ray Lecture, entitled "The Reincarnation of State Courts." In addition, Mr. Michael B. Prentiss, Executive Vice President of Cadillac Fairview, Inc., as part of the Strasburger & Price Lecture series, discussed the role of Canadian investors in Dallas real estate development.

Other distinguished visitors during the year included: Professor John T. Noonan, Jr., of the University of California at Berkeley, who spoke at a faculty/student luncheon on November 6, 1981, on current legislative proposals concerning abortion; W.H.B. Dean, former Dean of the Faculty of Law of the University of Capetown, South Africa, who delivered lectures in October on the legal cognizance of race in South Africa and the U.S.; Mr. Mark Dombroff, of the U.S. Department of Justice, who lectured in March on Demonstrative Evidence; Professor Rui Mu, of the University of Peking, who, as a distinguished Scholar in Residence, spoke to numerous faculty and student groups on various aspects of Chinese law; Professor Guillermo Flores Margadant, of the Autonomous University of Mexico, who lectured in March on Mexican law; Professor Borham Atollah of the University of Alexandria, Egypt, who spoke on the Ratification of the Hague Divorce Convention; and Mr. Windle Turley, a Dallas attorney, who lectured on current developments in products liability legislation.

SYMPOSIA AND PUBLICATIONS

In addition to degree programs, the School, through its Center for Advanced Professional Development, offers a broad range of educational opportunities in domestic and international legal and commercial fields through courses, seminars, symposia, and publications. During the past academic year, it held symposia on taxation, estate planning, real estate, family law and community property, product liability, legal problems in higher education, and doing business in Mexico.

The School's Third Annual Product Liability Symposium again attracted a large national audience from 33 states. The proceedings of this program will be edited by Professor Vincent S. Walkowiak and published in cooperation with Matthew Bender and Company. Another of the year's successful programs was the 7th Biennial Family Law and Community Property Symposium, presented for the first time in Houston. More than 175 Texas attorneys attended this program that was ably chaired and organized by Professor Joseph W. McKnight.

In February, 1982, the School presented its second "Doing Business in Mexico Symposium," this time in Acapulco, Mexico. The proceedings from this three-day program are now being edited and will supplement the two-volume treatise Doing Business in Mexico published in 1980 as a result of the first symposium.

In late May, 1981, SMU hosted for the first time the National Institute for Trial Advocacy's Southern Regional Program, under the direction of Associate Professor Frederick C. Moss. Professor Roark M. Reed, Assistant Professor William J. Bridge, and Associate Dean Steele also participated in the successful 10-day program attended by 49 lawyers from nine states. As a result of the success of the 1981 program, the fourth annual NITA Southern Regional Training Session was also held at SMU in the summer of 1982.

The School of Law continued to publish its two student-edited law reviews, Southwestern Law Journal (founded in 1947) and The Journal of Air Law and Commerce (founded at Northwestern University and moved to SMU in 1961). The Southwestern Law Journal, advised by Professor Charles O. Galvin, published five issues during the year and had a circulation of 1,600, reaching law schools, attorneys, and judges in the United States and abroad. Its Annual Survey of Texas Law continued to attract particular attention throughout the state. The Journal of Air Law and Commerce, advised by Professor Vincent S. Walkowiak, attained a worldwide circulation of 2,400. On February 18-20, 1982, the Journal of Air Law and Commerce also organized its 16th Annual SMU Air Law Symposium, attended by over 500 lawyers, business executives, and government officials.

OTHER STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Other student activities, in addition to the law reviews, afford SMU law students important and valuable professional training. They included the Moot Court Program, the Mock Trial Program, and the Legislative Drafting Center.

The Moot Court Program, advised by Professor Roy Ryden Anderson, is designed to train students in the skills of appellate advocacy. The annual intramural competition, sponsored by the Dallas firm of Jackson, Walker, Winstead, Cantwell & Miller, involved nearly the entire first-year class and was won by the team of Betsy L. Booth and Geoffrey C. Graham. Barbara J. Elias was selected as outstanding advocate, and Philip C. Hunsucker and Cindy A. Saunders received the Russell M. Baker Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to the work of the Moot Court Board.

SMU was also active in interschool competition. It hosted the Southwest Regional of the 1982 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, a two-day event involving nine law schools from Florida to California. SMU was represented by the Shank, Irwin, Conant, Williamson & Grevelle International Moot Court team, advised by Professor William J. Bridge, who also administered the competition.

A School team, sponsored by the Dallas firm of Winstead, McGuire, Sechrest & Minick, participated in the 1981 Texas Young Lawyers Association Moot Court Competition. In the Region X National Moot Court Competition held in Austin, the School was represented by a team sponsored by the Dallas firm of Hughes & Hill.

The Mock Trial Program involved approximately 70 students and took place through the Mock Trial Club and through national competitions. Under the sponsorship of Professors Frederick C. Moss and Vincent S. Walkowiak, the Mock Trial Club held its fourth annual intramural competition in the fall. In the spring, the School sent teams to the ABA Mock Trial Competition in San Antonio and to the Association of Trial Lawyers of America Competition in Oklahoma City. The ABA teams were sponsored by the Dallas firm of Strasburger & Price, while the ATLA team was funded by Dallas trial attorney Frank L. Branson ('69).

The Legislative Drafting Center completed its second successful year in 1981-82. Advised by Professor Joseph W. McKnight, the Center is a student-run organization designed to provide legislators, municipalities, and public-interest groups with technical assistance in statutory drafting. In a year when the Texas Legislature was not in session, the Center, the only university-based drafting organization in Texas, completed two substantial projects. The first was a review of procedural law done at the request of the State Bar of Texas under the direction and supervision of Professor William V. Dorsaneo III, and the second was a draft municipal ordinance to facilitate a clean physical environment within the community, as well as a lay person's guide to interpreting such existing legislation, done at the request of Clean Dallas, Inc. In recognition of the Center's activities, Clean Dallas, Inc., honored the project participants at a luncheon in June and presented them with individual awards.

The Student Bar Association, under the presidency of Mr. W. Lowry Barfield, played a constructive role as the umbrella organization for many student activities and projects. It has consistently made a substantial contribution to the existence of a genuine sense of community at the SMU Law School.

Underwood Law Library

The Underwood Law Library remains one of the School's most valuable assets. At the end of the academic year, its total collection numbered 281,757 volumes, ranking it 22nd in total book collection among the 169 law libraries at schools accredited by the ABA. It augmented its collection by 11,392 new volumes during the year and handled approximately 238,741 in-person visits by students, faculty, and attorneys.

Beyond direct assistance to individuals, the staff of Underwood conducted tours for all first-year law students and numerous other guests, created 11 exhibits, provided legal research instruction to first-year students in the legal writing program, and prepared numerous reading lists and short bibliographies.

The Underwood Law Library also continued to provide an important service to the legal and business community of the Dallas/Fort Worth metroplex. During 1981-82, it responded to approximately 11,000 in-person and telephone reference inquiries from persons not directly connected with the University. In addition, it presented "West-81/Art and the Law," a special art exhibit.

Placement

The School's graduates in 1981 continued to experience outstanding success in placement. According to the Class of 1981 Employment Survey by the National Association for Law Placement, SMU graduates in that year had a 99 percent employment rate at the time of the survey, as compared to a national average among all graduating law students of 93 percent. Of those graduating in the SMU class of 1981, approximately 66.8 percent chose employment with private firms. As compared to the previous year, a significant change took place with respect to judicial clerkships. Due to the expansion of the state courts in Texas, to increased activities by the Placement Office and to the efforts of Professor Lackland H. Bloom, Jr., as judicial clerkship coordinator, 9.1 percent of the graduating class entered federal and state clerkship positions as compared to 2 percent in the previous year. Corporate employers attracted approximately 15 percent of the class into both legal and management positions.

One of the factors contributing to the placement success of our graduates is the strength of the on-campus recruiting program. The following chart illustrates its growth during the last four years.

	1978-79	1979-80	1980-81	1981-82
Number of Firms Interviewing	139	144	210	248
Number of Texas Firms	110	112	166	186
Number of Firms Outside Texas	29	32	44	62
Number of States Represented	11	12	15	17
Number of Individual Interviews	2,223	2,327	2,801	4,459

Last year a total of 248 employers from a wide variety of geographic and legal environments visited the School to recruit students. Of particular note is the increase in the number of out-of-state firms coming to SMU to conduct interviews as well as the significant growth in the total number of interviews granted to our students.

In addition to on-campus recruiting, the Placement Office, under the direction of Mr. John H. McMurphy, has inaugurated a multifaceted career counseling program consisting of individual consultations, group discussions, and workshops and seminars to assist students in determining appropriate career opportunities, preparing resumes, undertaking interviews, and evaluating job opportunities. The services of the Placement Office are available to all graduates of the Law School.

ALUMNI AFFAIRS AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT

The School received active support and encouragement from its alumni and friends in 1981-82. The Law Alumni Association Council, chaired by Mr. A. Hardcastle, Jr., provided significant leadership in this respect throughout the year. Mr. Sam P. Burford, Jr., served as Chairman of the 1981-82 Law School Fund, which generated a total of $174,615.13 in contributions from alumni, all of whom are listed in the appendix. Under his direction, the Telefund ran for 10 nights in the fall and involved 85 alumni as solicitors who telephoned their classmates directly from Lawyers Inn. Approximately 1,439 alumni (27 percent of the School's total alumni) participated in the Fund, and the average gift was $121.34. All contributions to the Law School Fund, unless otherwise designated by the donor, were restricted to provide financial assistance to students in the form of tuition grants.

The seventh annual Law Library Fund was spearheaded by two non-alumni, Mr. Mark Martin, who chaired the appeal to law firms and practitioners, and Mr. G. Emmett Smith, who chaired the corporate legal counsel drive. Dallas attorneys and corporations responded with gifts totaling $35,047, an increase of 15 percent over the previous year. A list of contributors is to be found in the appendix to this report.

The School was also the beneficiary of several special gifts. The Rupert Radford Trust in Houston made a commitment of $1 million to the School, payable over the next 18 months, to establish the Rupert and Lillian Radford Chair of Law, primarily devoted to the areas of business and taxation. This new chair, the School's second in two years and the third in its history, will strengthen the faculty significantly in the long run.

In addition, the Hatton W. Sumners Foundation honored the memory of the late Dean Robert Gerald Storey by endowing the Robert Gerald Storey Scholarship, which is to support fully a graduate student in international and comparative law. Robert G. Vial, an alumnus of the School, also established an endowment to assist the trial advocacy program.

The School's Moot Court and Trial Advocacy programs, discussed above, continued to receive significant support from area law firms and individual attorneys. A complete list of contributing firms is included in the appendix. Individual alumni, firms, attorneys, corporations, and foundations also have contributed substantial support, primarily with respect to scholarships. Each gift is important to the School and its students. A list of endowed chairs, scholarships, fellowships, prizes, awards, and other gifts is included as an appendix to this report.

Total financial support to the School in 1981-82 amounted to $776,868.41. This amount was less than that received in the previous year; however, it does not include the commitment of $1 million from the Radford Trust to establish the Rupert and Lillian Radford Chair of Law. A comparative summary of gifts received appears on the opposite page.

During the year, I was pleased to meet many alumni in many places. The annual reception for Houston-area alumni was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zivley at their home in April 1982 and was attended by approximately 70 persons. The School also held a reception for Fort Worth alumni in March 1982 and plans to organize an annual event in that city in the future. In late April, at the invitation of the Taiwan government and the Taiwanese SMU Alumni Association, my wife and I, accompanied by Professor and Mrs. Harvey Wingo, visited Taiwan, where we spent a delightful week meeting our many alumni on the island. On our return to the U.S., we stopped in Japan and also visited with former students.

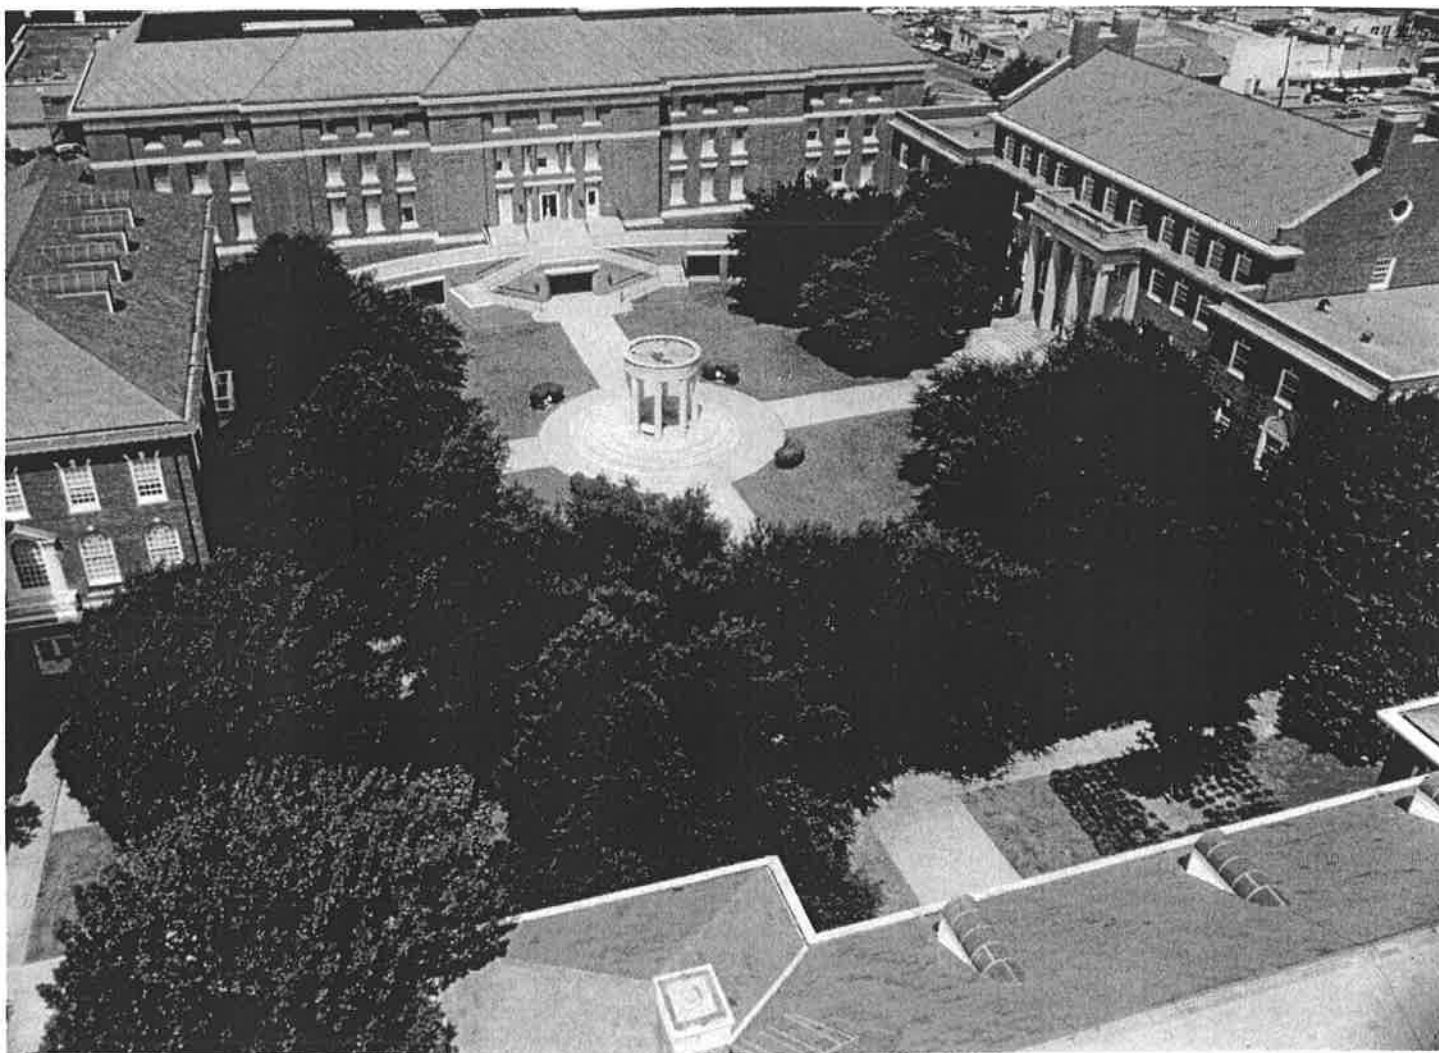

The Southern Methodist University School of Law remains a vibrant, dynamic institution. Its vitality is due in no small measure to a dedicated and highly talented administrative staff. Associate Deans Lischer and Steele have provided invaluable support in the administration of all aspects of our academic program, and Associate Dean for External Affairs Edward O. Coultas energetically carried out heavy responsibilities in student recruitment, development, and continuing legal education. In addition, Doris L. Beale, Assistant to the Dean, Jean Kyle Jury, Director of Admissions, John H. McMurphy, Director of Placement, and N. Fred Taylor, Financial Officer, continued to make their well-recognized, essential contributions to the life of the School throughout the year. Toward the end of the academic year, the School was pleased to welcome Mr. James L. Richardson, Jr., as its new Director of Development.

My second year as Dean of the School of Law of Southern Methodist University has reaffirmed my belief in its fundamental strength as an institution. In 1985, it will celebrate its sixtieth anniversary, an important landmark in a history of constant progression from its origins in a few rooms in Dallas Hall to the magnificent Law Quadrangle which it occupies today. As I look to the years ahead, I am convinced that its progress and growth will only continue.

Respectfully submitted,

Jeswald W. Salacuse
Dean

Faculty Activities and Publications 1981-82

A. J. THOMAS, JR., William Hawley Atwell Professor of Constitutional Law, (B.S., 1939, A&M College of Texas; LL.B., 1943, University of Texas; LL.M., 1947 and S.J.D., 1951, University of Michigan) taught Constitutional Law, Conflict of Laws, and Admiralty. He wrote an article (with his wife, A.V.W. Thomas) "Sal del Rey: Who Owns Mineral Rights in Texas," Journal of American Studies Association of Texas, Fall, 1982.

CHARLES O. GALVIN, Professor of Law, (B.S.C., 1940, Southern Methodist University; M.B.A., 1941, J.D., 1947, Northwestern University; S.J.D., 1961, Harvard University) taught Income Taxation, Property Security, Corporate Taxation, Estate Planning, and Taxation and Fiscal Policy. A member of the American Law Institute and recognized authority on taxation, his publications during the year included Will Manual (Tex. ed. 1981) and "Wills and Trusts" in the Annual Survey of Texas Law, 36 Sw.L.J. 21 (1982); Economic Integration of North America: Tax Reform in the United States and Canada, 44 LAW & CONTEMP. PROBS. 131 (1981); "Federal and State Developments on Abortion Since Roe v. Wade," Conference on Personhood (Commonwealth Fund, N.Y. 1982). He also served as an officer of the American Bar Association Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar. He spoke on selected aspects of taxation at numerous professional programs.

JOSEPH W. McKNIGHT, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1947, University of Texas; B.A., 1949, B.C.L., 1950, and M.A. 1954, Oxford University; LL.M., 1959, Columbia University) taught Texas Matrimonial Property Law, American Legal History, Legislation, and Perspectives of American Law. He published "Family Law: Husband and Wife," in Annual Survey of Texas Law, 36 Sw.L.J. 97-154 (1982); "Dealing with Reimbursement and Federal Retirement Benefits," 16 Trial Lawyers F. 13-17 (Jan.-Mar. 1982); "The Constitutional Redefinition of Texas Matrimonial Property As It Affects Antenuptial and Interspousal Transactions," 13 St. Mary's L.J. 449-476 (1982); and "Real Presidio de San Saba," 12 El Campanario 53-60 (1981). The coordinator of SMU's 7th biennial Specialists' Seminar on Texas Family Law and Community Property in Houston, he also spoke on various topics at family law institutes and other programs and with Professor Kennedy contributed an amicus brief in a Fifth Circuit case concerning historical preservation.

ALAN R. BROMBERG, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1949, Harvard; J.D. 1952, Yale) was on leave. He completed (with Lewis D. Lowenfels) the 1982 Supplement to Securities Fraud & Commodities Fraud which included a 200-page chapter on the rapidly changing law of implied private actions and their relation to express private actions, and a 130-page chapter on violations by broker-dealers. The Supplement extended this well known and widely cited treatise to five volumes. As chief reporter, he began a comprehensive revision of the Texas Securities Act, which is expected to be introduced in the 1983 Legislature. In a rare break from the law, he spent two months in Southeast Asia photographing dance, drama, ritual, architecture, and landscape with his wife, Dr. Anne R. Bromberg, of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Dallas Theater Center.

WILLIAM J. FLITTIE, Professor of Law, (B.Sc.L., 1946, University of Minnesota; LL.B., 1947, Columbia University). An expert in the fields of oil and gas and antitrust law, he completed the 1982 supplement to W. Summers, The Law of Oil and Gas (Perm. Ed.). He also was engaged in extensive research concerned with possible use of Sherman Antitrust Act injunctive processes to curb labor racketeering.

HOWARD J. TAUBENFELD, Professor of Law, (A.B., 1947, LL.B., 1948, and Ph.D., 1958, Columbia University) taught Property I and II, Family Law, International Law, and Science, Technology and Law. An expert in international law, he was a special consultant in international affairs to the Environmental Protection Agency and to the Government of Tunisia, and his publications included the 3rd Volume of his five-volume Sex Based Discrimination: International Law and Organization (1978-1980).

CHARLES J. MORRIS, Professor of Law, (A.B., 1944, Temple University; LL.B., 1948, Columbia University) taught Labor Law, Collective Bargaining and Arbitration, Legislative and Administrative Process, Code of Professional Responsibility, and shared the teaching of Perspectives of American Law. He continued to serve as a member of the Federal Service Impasses Panel and completed his term on the Board of Governors of the National Academy of Arbitrators. As the Editor-in-Chief, he completed the manuscript of the American Bar Association's two-volume treatise on the National Labor Relations Act, The Developing Labor Law, (Second Edition), which is scheduled for publication in January, 1983. A recognized authority on labor law, he lectured and participated in many labor and management programs and meetings.

HARVEY WINGO, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1958, Birmingham Southern College; M.A., 1960, LL.B., 1962, Vanderbilt University) taught Constitutional Law, Criminal Law, and Constitutional Criminal Procedure and was the recipient of the first annual Dr. Don M. Smart Teaching Award. He served as Chairman of the Law School Admissions Committee, and his article "Decisions Within the Family: A Clash of Constitutional Rights" was published in 67 Iowa Law Review 401 (1982) (with S. Freytag).

WALTER W. STEELE, JR., Professor and Associate Dean for Clinical Education, (LL.B., 1957, Southern Methodist University; LL.M., 1969, University of Texas) supervised the School's Clinical programs and also taught Law Office Management, Code of Professional Responsibility, and Texas Criminal Procedure. He revised his teaching materials in Texas Criminal Procedure (1982) and served as chairman of the Dallas Bar's Professional Services Committee. In the Spring 1982 term, Associate Dean Steele assumed responsibility as Director of the Criminal Justice Clinic in the absence of Professor Roark Reed, who is on sabbatical leave.

ROY RYDEN ANDERSON, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1966, Texas Christian University; J.D., 1969, Southern Methodist University; LL.M., 1975, Yale University) was on sabbatical leave during the academic year to undertake a research project.

BEVERLY M. CARL, Professor of Law, (B.S.L., 1955, J.D., 1956, University of Southern California; LL.M., 1957, Yale University) taught Contracts, International Economic Development Law, and Comparative Private International Law. The editor of Doing Business in Mexico (1981-82), she authored a new chapter on "Suing Private Companies and Individuals from Mexico in American Courts." In the spring of 1982, she chaired a three-day SMU Continuing Legal Education Institute in Acapulco, Mexico, on "Doing Business in Mexico." A presidential appointee on the United States Board of Foreign Scholarships, she also organized for the annual meeting of the American Society of International Law a panel on "Trade and Finance Problems of the Developing Nations During the '80s."

JOHN E. KENNEDY, Professor of Law, (Ph.B., 1956, LL.B., 1959, Notre Dame University; LL.M., 1964, J.S.D., 1970, Yale University) taught Group Actions, Federal Courts, Administrative Law, Equitable Remedies, and Procedure I & II. An authority in the field of Procedure, Professor Kennedy served as Reporter to the United States Judicial Conference Implementation Committee on Admission of Attorneys to Federal Practice and also continued research for a book on class actions, tentatively entitled Modern Class Remedies.

J. SCOTT MORRIS, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1962, Rice University; J.D., 1965, Southern Methodist University; LL.M., 1967, Harvard University) was on leave during the academic year, during which time he was in private practice in Austin.

MAXINE T. McCONNELL-TOBIN, Assistant Professor of Law and Director of the Civil Clinic (B.A., 1940, LL.B., 1958, Southern Methodist University), taught the Civil Clinic classes, revised the Civil Clinic Practice Manual, and prepared materials on pleading and courthouse procedures for use in Civil Clinic.
