APPENDIX — Financial Support
The 1982-83 academic year was the fifty-eighth in the history of the School of Law of Southern Methodist University, and my third as its Dean. After reviewing the events of the year, I am pleased to report to you that the School is growing in strength and quality and that we continue to advance toward our goal of making the SMU Law School one of this country’s preeminent institutions of legal education and research.

The progress of an institution is, of course, not a mere matter of isolated, individual events in any given year, but rather of constant movement over a long period of time. Nonetheless, looking back on the year 1982-83, we take pride in the following achievements:

- The entry of the first-year class with the highest LSAT scores in the School’s history.
- The increase in first-year admissions applications to an all-time high in a year when some law schools experienced declining applicant pools.
- An employment rate of 93 percent for our graduates within six months after graduation, with numerous notable appointments including the designation of Ms. Rebecca Hurley ’82 as clerk to Chief Justice Warren Burger of the U.S Supreme Court.
- The publication by the faculty of fifteen new books, in addition to numerous articles, and the giving of speeches and lectures throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.
- The completion of the most successful annual campaign in the School’s history on behalf of the Law School Fund and the Law Library Fund, resulting in increases of more than 40 percent from the previous year’s totals.
- The inauguration of SMU’s First Annual Institute on International Finance and the holding of a major international conference to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the European Economic Community.
- Continued service to the legal profession through other symposia, including those in taxation, estate planning, antitrust, air law, and product liabilities, all of which attracted national audiences, as well as the holding of the Southern Regional Program of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy.

The following pages will describe in detail the activities of the 1982-83 academic year. I should emphasize that our achievements were not only due to the work and talents of our faculty, staff and students, but also to the extraordinary spirit of cooperation that pervades the School and to the strong support received from alumni, the legal profession, and friends of the Law School.
Our School's principal asset is its faculty, a highly dynamic group of scholars and teachers. During the academic year 1982-83, full-time faculty members numbered thirty. In addition, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs C. Paul Rogers, Associate Dean for Clinical Education Walter W. Steele, Jr., and I each taught the equivalent of one-half the teaching load of a full-time professor. As a result of new appointments to the faculty, the School had a faculty/student ratio of 1/2.5, an improvement over the ratio of 1/29 which existed in 1981-82, and the ratio of 1/3.5 that prevailed in 1980-81. The reduced faculty/student ratio has enabled us to enrich our educational programs, and we continue to strive toward the goal set by our Five-Year Plan of reducing the faculty/student ratio to 1/2.4 by 1986.

New appointments to the faculty in 1982-83 included Assistant Professor Richard A. Booth (A.B., University of Michigan, J.D., Yale University); Visiting Professor William C. Powers, Jr., (B.A., University of California-Berkeley, J.D., Harvard Law School) on leave from University of Texas School of Law; and Visiting Professor Bernard Grossfeld (J.D., University of Muenster, LL.M., Yale University) on leave from the University of Muenster, West Germany.

Several faculty members were on leave to engage in important professional activities. Professor Roark M. Reed received a Fulbright Lectureship to Japan, where he taught criminal procedure at the University of Tokyo. Professor Beverly Carl was on leave to write a book on transnational economic development law under a grant from the Dana Foundation. Professor Vincent S. Waikowik took sabbatical leave with the Houston firm of Fulbright & Jaworski, where he practiced in the area of litigation. Professor Ellen K. Solender obtained a sabbatical to undertake a research project on the law of libel. Professor Charles J. Morris was on sabbatical leave during the spring semester 1983 to complete the second edition of The Developing Labor Law.

The permanent faculty also experienced change during the year. The School was shocked and saddened by the death of A. J. Thomas, Jr., William Hawley Atwell Professor of Constitutional Law, who had served the University extraordinarily well since 1949. Professor Charles O. Galvin, formerly Dean of the School of Law for fifteen years and a member of the faculty since 1952, resigned in December 1982 to accept the Centennial Chair in Law at Vanderbilt University. Professor J. Scott Morris, who had been on leave with an Austin firm, resigned at the end of the academic year to enter private practice.

The faculty continued to attain high levels of productivity in teaching, research, and public service during 1982-83. A brief glance at the summary of their selected activities, contained in the appendix to this report, gives cause for pride in the faculty's achievements and hope for continued progress in the future. I shall highlight only a few of their accomplishments during this year.

Of particular importance is the fact that ten members of the faculty published a total of fifteen new volumes during the year. They include:

Charles J. Morris, Developing Labor Law (Editor-in-Chief, 2d ed., 2 vols.)
Joseph W. McKnight, Texas Matrimonial Property Law (coauthored with William A. Reppy, Jr.)
Joseph J. Norton, Regulation of Business Enterprise in the U.S.A. (two volumes)
Joseph J. Norton, Banking Law Manual (coauthored with Sherry Whitley)
William V. Dorsaneo III, Texas Procedure: Pre-Trial Litigation (second edition)
Jeswald W. Bakewell, International Business Planning: Law and Taxation (3 volumes, coauthored with William P. Streng)
A. J. Thomas, Jr., The War Making Powers of the President: Constitutional and International Law Aspects (coauthored with Ann Van Wynen Thomas)

Howard J. Taubenheim, Sex Based Discrimination: International Law and Organization (editor, Vol. 4)
Vincent S. Waikowik, The Trial of a Product Liability Case (editor, 1982)

It is truly an exceptional record of productivity for any faculty when over one-third of its members are authors or coauthors of books published in a single year. The stature of our faculty has been recognized in various other ways. All of us took pride in the announcement last April that the University Trustees had designated Professor Alan R. Bromberg as one of seven University Distinguished Professors at SMU. In addition, other institutions, both within the United States and abroad, have invited our faculty to present lectures. Professor Daniel Shuman delivered a paper at the 6th World Congress on Medical Law in Belgium in August 1982. In the spring of 1983, the U.S. State Department selected Professor Beverly May Carl for a two-month lecture tour throughout Latin America, and in the summer, Professor Joseph J. Norton lectured in Taiwan and China. Professor Matthew W. Finkin was invited by the University of Alabama and the University of Maryland to present distinguished guest lectures on two separate occasions. In addition, numerous faculty members participated in continuing legal education programs and academic conferences.

In the area of public service, particularly with respect to law reform, the School also made a substantial contribution. Professor Alan R. Bromberg prepared a revision of the Texas Securities Act which was narrowly defeated at the last session of the Texas Legislature, although parts of it were enacted. Professor William V. Dorsaneo served as Reporter for the Committee on the Administration of Justice and the Texas Supreme Court Advisory Committee on a project for revision of the Texas Discovery Rules. He was publicly honored for his work at the promulgation of the new rules. Professor Joseph W. McKnight drafted a Texas constitutional amendment to redefine the urban homestead, as well as a Congressional bill for the protection of historic shipwrecks.

Despite the faculty's commitment to research and public service, its first priority remains excellence in teaching. Each course taught at the School is subject to a careful evaluation, and I am pleased to report that the evaluations for 1982-83 show that our faculty members are a group of outstanding teachers. In recognition of our commitment to teaching, the School annually awards the Dr. Don M. Smart Teaching Award. For the 1982-83 academic year, it was awarded to Professor John E. Kennedy. The Award, which consists of a cash prize of $3,000, is given each year to the best classroom teacher, based on a poll of students in the School as well as alumni who have recently graduated. Recognizing that important educational benefits are derived from our directed research program, the School also awards the Dr. Don M. Smart Prize for Directed Research to the best directed research paper prepared during the year. For 1982-83, it was awarded to Professor Joseph J. Norton and graduating student Cynthia A. Stephens for a paper on the Articles of the International Monetary Fund.

The Faculty Forum Program, initiated in 1981 and administered by Professor Earl C. Borgeon, held thirteen sessions during the year on topics ranging from law and ethics to the regulation of water quality. Designed to allow faculty to discuss their work in progress and to provide a forum for distinguished visitors, the Faculty Forum is normally held over lunch in the Faculty Dining Room and has become a significant part of the intellectual life of the School.

In addition to the full-time faculty, the educational program of the School was deeply indebted to the experienced practitioners who taught seminars and courses on a part-time basis during 1982-83. A group of lawyers with high academic and professional achievements, they forged an indispensable link between theory and practice at the SMU Law School. Their names and the courses they taught are listed in the appendix to this report.
THE STUDENT BODY

The School of Law enrolled a total of 669 students during 1982-83. They were distributed among the various years and programs as follows:

Women students numbered 330 and accounted for 38 percent of the student body. Foreign students numbered 36, and minorities (Blacks, Mexican-Americans, and native Americans) 45. As stated in our Five-Year Plan, one of the goals of the School is to diversify the student body, and we continued to make progress toward this end in 1982-83, as compared to 1980-81 and 1981-82 when 31 and 34 minority students, respectively, were enrolled at the School.

The improvement in minority enrollment has resulted from various efforts, including the work of an ad hoc faculty Committee on Diverse Student Recruitment, active recruitment of minority students through publications, solicitations and personal contacts, and increased financial aid. The creation in 1981 by the Dallas Bar Association, with the funding from the Dallas Bar Foundation, of the Sarah T. Hughes Diversity Fellowship for SMU law students has also given significant impetus to this effort. Due to increased funding from the Foundation, as well as the addition of Law School support, three Hughes Fellowships, which cover tuition, room, board, and books, will be made available for the 1983-84 academic year. Recipients of these scholarships for the coming year are: Mr. Juan Boada, IL, Ms. Diana Crocco, 2L, and Mr. Henry Gilmore, 3L.

SMU's own minority students have actively participated in student recruitment. Of particular note in this regard was the minority student recruitment conference organized in the spring of 1983 at the Law School by the Black American Law Students Association and the Hispanic American Law Students Association.

The J.D. class entering in the fall of 1982 had a mean uniform grade-point average of 3.38 (on a scale of 4), and a mean Law School Admissions Test Score of 640 (83 percentile), the highest in the history of the School of Law. These students came to the School from 35 states, and they completed their undergraduate studies at 105 different colleges and universities. 18 in Texas and 87 in other states.

The Master of Laws (L.L.M.) program enrolled a total of 31 full-time and 68 part-time students, most of whom specialized in taxation. The Master of Comparative Law (M.C.L.) program included 28 foreign lawyers from 19 countries.

Applications for admission to the Law School continued to increase during the year. In 1982-83, the School received 1,702 applications for admission for August 1983, the highest in its history. The following chart summarizes the application process during the year as compared with the six previous years.

As noted, one of the principal goals of the School's Five-Year Plan is to improve both the quality and the diversity of its student body. A Law School of national stature must seek to attract the very best students in the country from a broad spectrum of social and geographic backgrounds; consequently, the School of Law has increased its recruitment efforts in recent years. I believe that the increase in the median LSAT score of the entering class and the growth in the number of minority students indicate that our recruitment program is beginning to bear fruit, despite the fact that nationally the twenty-two-year-old population from which law schools primarily draw students, began to decline in 1983.

Our recruitment program during the year included visits by staff, faculty, and students to colleges and universities around the country, and the development of new publications and video presentations to explain the School to future law students. In addition, we held our second Conference of Pre-Law Advisors from leading colleges and universities, April 14-15, 1983, on the campus of the Law School. Attended by advisors from Brown University, Columbia University, Morehouse College, Princeton University, Stanford University, University of Wisconsin, Vanderbilt University, Washington University, University of California at Berkeley, George Washington University, and Wake Forest University, the Conference sought to introduce the participants to the School's programs, faculty, students and facilities. Since the response to the Pre-Law Conference in 1983, as in 1982, was exceptionally positive, it will become a permanent part of our recruitment program for the foreseeable future.

On the other hand, we must acknowledge that the School's tuition and fees of $6,950 in 1982-83 is a matter of concern in recruiting the type of student body we seek. While tuition increases in recent years have been accompanied by programmatic improvements, a high tuition may preclude many talented persons from attending SMU unless they receive financial assistance. We have therefore devoted increased resources, thanks to increased giving, to our scholarship program.

*The LSAT adopted a new scoring scale in 1983.
Principal programs of the School of Law are the three-year Juris Doctor (J.D.) program, requiring 90 hours of course work, the Master of Laws (LL.M.) program, requiring 24 hours of course work, and the Master of Comparative Law (M.C.L.) program for foreign lawyers, requiring 24 hours of credit. In addition to those programs and to the research degree of Doctor of the Science of Law (S.J.D.), the School of Law offers two joint-degree programs: the J.D./MBA degree in cooperation with the Edwin L. Cox School of Business, and the J.D./MPA degree in cooperation with the Graduate Program in Public Administration of Dedman College.

In the 1982-83 academic year, the School conferred 229 J.D. degrees, 36 LL.M. degrees, and 25 M.C.L. degrees. The following chart reflects comparative data with respect to degrees conferred during the period 1973-1983.

The curriculum during the regular school year consisted of 216 sections of courses and seminars, and the summer session included seven sections of courses and seminars. During 1982-83 the School added two new courses: Regulation of Securities Markets and Corporate Take-overs and Freeze-Outs, both offered by Professor Richard A. Booth.

Prior to the beginning of the academic year, Professor Henry J. Lischner, Jr., who had served the School well since 1960 as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, resigned to return to full-time teaching. Associate Professor C. Paul Rogers replaced him in that position.

The clinical program under the supervision of Associate Dean Walter W. Steele, Jr., continued to give students an opportunity to work on real cases while providing a service to actual clients. It consisted of four components: the Civil Cases Clinic, the Criminal Justice Clinic, the Federal Taxpayer Clinic, and the Legal Extern Program.

The Civil Cases Clinic, directed by Assistant Professor Maxine T. McConnell-Tobin, dealt with more than 218 clients with problems ranging from consumer issues to family-related cases. Toward the end of the academic year, Ms. Cynthia Hollingworth, who had served as Associate Director of the Civil Clinic since February, 1978, resigned to take a position as attorney with the Texas Court of Appeals in Dallas. Ms. Brenda Garrett, formerly Interim Executive Director of the North Texas Legal Services Corporation, was appointed to replace her effective May 15, 1983.

During 1982-83, the students in the Criminal Justice Clinic handled a total of 772 cases, including 36 jury trials. This clinic continues to deal successfully with misdemeanors in Dallas County, and has established itself as an integral part of the Dallas County criminal justice system. The Clinic has received an important commitment of support from the Meadows Foundation for the 1983-84 academic year.

Thanks to the continuation of generous funding from Shell Oil Company, the Federal Taxpayers Clinic directed by Mr. Bruce B. Hart enabled students to have firsthand experience in providing assistance to citizens subject to audit by the Internal Revenue Service. During 1982-83 it examined a total of 211 cases and accepted the representation of 98 clients. It remains a model, recognized by the I.R.S. and the U.S. Tax Court, for similar clinics in the country.

Through the Legal Extern Program, a total of 20 students gained experience in government and business offices off campus.

At the close of the academic year, Professor Noski M. Reed, who served as Director of the Criminal Justice Clinic, was appointed Associate Dean for Clinical Education to replace Professor Walter W. Steele, Jr., who resigned that position after eight years to return to full-time classroom teaching. Our entire clinical program made great strides under Professor Steele's leadership, and we owe him a great debt of gratitude for his excellent work.

In addition to formal courses, the Law School seeks to enrich the educational experience of its students in a variety of other ways, including opportunities to meet and hear distinguished lawyers, judges, and scholars on the SMU campus.

On November 11, 1982, Judge John R. Brown of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, delivered the Third Annual Alfred P. Murrah Lecture, entitled "Is There an End in Sight in The Captain's Spyglass?: The Request for Finality." During his visit here, he taught a class, judged the Mock Trial Competition, and met with faculty and students.

In the spring, Patrick S. Aliyah, Professor of English Law, Oxford University, England, delivered the Sixth Annual Roy R. Ray Lecture, entitled "Lawyers and Rules: Some Anglo-American Comparisons." In addition, Mr. Walter J. Humann, Chairman of the Transportation Task Force, delivered the Annual Strasburger and Price Lecture, "The Legal and Practical Problems of Mass Transportation in the Dallas Area."

Other distinguished visitors during the year included Sir Zelman Cowen, formerly Governor General of the Commonwealth of Australia and currently Provost of Oriel College, Oxford University; Mr. Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, a prominent criminal lawyer from Houston, Texas, who spoke on trial advocacy; Governor Mark White, who was the guest of honor and speaker at a dinner for the Hatton W. Sumners Foundation Scholars; Professor Wolhart Pannenbarg of Munich University, West Germany, and a Distinguished Scholar in Residence at SMU, who spoke on law and ethics; Professor Saul Touster, Director of Legal Studies at Brandeis University, who conducted a faculty forum on his research on the life of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes; Dean Kenneth Simmonds of Saint Mary's College, University of London, who spoke on English Law; Sir Joseph Gold, former General Counsel to the International Monetary Fund, who met with several classes on international finance; and Dr. Dick Juch, the managing partner of an international law firm in the Netherlands, who lectured on "European Headquarters."

SYMPOSIA AND PUBLICATIONS

In addition to degree programs, the School of Law offered the legal profession and the academic community a broad range of educational opportunities in international and commercial legal fields through courses, seminars, symposia, and publications. During the past academic year, it held symposia on taxation, estate planning, product liability, and antitrust.

The School's Fourth Annual Product Liability Symposium was chaired by Professor Vincent W. Walkowiak and held at the new Westin Hotel — Galleria Dallas. Following the pattern of the three previous symposia on the subject, the proceedings of this program were edited by Professor Walkowiak for publication by Matthew Bender and Company.

Professor Regis W. Campbell directed our highly successful Estate Planning Seminar in January, 1983. One hundred fifty-six registrants from twelve states participated in this program.

In July, the School sponsored its nationally recognized Antitrust Short Course in Colorado Springs. Corporate Counsel and attorneys from twenty-six states studied for a week with a panel of recognized antitrust experts, including its program chairman, Wilson W. Herndon of Dallas, and its vice chairman, Associate Dean C. Paul Rogers.

In a new programmatic departure, the Law School sponsored two major international conferences during the year. Through the efforts of Professor Joseph H. Norton, the first Institute on International Banking and Finance, cosponsored with the Edwin L. Cox School of Business, the SMU Department of Economics, and the Southwestern Graduate School of Banking, was held November 10-11, 1982, and focused on the internationalization of capital markets. In April, 1983, the Law School convened the U.S. European Dialogue on the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the European Economic Community. Both Conferences attracted lawyers, scholars, international bankers, corporate executives, and government officials from throughout the United States and from many foreign countries.

During the summer, the Southern Regional Program of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy, directed by Professor Frederick C. Moss, was held at the School for the third straight year.

The Law School continued to publish its two student-edited law reviews, which serve both as sources of information to the profession and training-grounds in legal scholarship for our students. The Southwestern Law Journal (founded in 1947), which was advised by Professor Charles O. Galvin in the fall semester and by Professor Harvey Wingo in the spring semester, published five issues during the year, including its very popular Annual Survey of Texas Law. It had a circulation of approximately 1,235 subscribers, including law schools, attorneys, and judges in the United States and abroad. The Journal of Air Law and Commerce (founded at Northwestern University and moved to SMU in 1961), advised by Associate Dean C. Paul Rogers, published four issues during the year and had a world-wide circulation of 2,000. On March 3-5, 1983, The Journal of Air Law and Commerce also hosted its 17th Annual SMU Air Law Symposium, attended by more than 450 lawyers, business executives, and government officials. Mr. Howard Putnam, President and Chairman of Braniff Airways, was the keynote speaker.
other student activities, in addition to the law reviews, afford SMU law students important and valuable professional training. The Moot Court Program, advised by Professor Ray Ryden Anderson, is designed to train students in the skills of appellate advocacy. The annual intramural competition, sponsored by the Dallas firm of Jackson, Walker, Winstead, Cantwell & Miller, involved nearly the entire first-year class and was won by the team of Carolyn Huckleberry and Jo Bess Jackson. James W. Walker and James E. Gilson were runners-up. Ms. Jackson was selected as outstanding advocate. John M. Cone and Carolyn V. Kelly received the Russell M. Baker Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to the work of the Moot Court Board. Bonnie G. Cade, John M. Cone, William K. Dippel, Elise M. Dunitz, Sherri L. Turner, and Victor T. Vandergriff were selected to the Order of Barristers, a national trial and appellate advocacy honorary organization.

SMU was also active in interschool competition. In the Region X National Moot Court Competition held in Fayetteville, Arkansas, the School was represented by a team sponsored by the Dallas firm of Hughes & Hill. John M. Cone, William K. Dippel, and Kevin E. Teel composed the team. A school team, sponsored by the Dallas firm of Winstead, McGuire, Sachse & Minick, participated in the 1982 Texas Young Lawyers Association Moot Court Competition. The team consisted of three second-year students, Barbara J. Elias, Cindy J. Jackson, and Sherilyn Lee Williams. The School of Law also participated with distinction in the National Appellate Advocacy Competition. Two teams, composed of John M. Cone, William K. Dippel, and Clyde M. Siebert, and Barbara J. Elias, Kevin E. Teel, and Michael R. Zimmer, represented the School of Law. The team of Cone, Dippel, and Siebert qualified to represent the Texas-Louisiana Region in the National Finals held in Atlanta, Georgia, in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

The Law School also participated in the Southwest Regional of the 1983 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, a two-day event with eleven schools participating, which was held at Baton Rouge, Louisiana. SMU was represented by the Shank, Irwin, Conant, Williamson & Grevelle International Moot Court Team, advised by Professor William J. Bridge, Robert D. Allen, Brian D. Bethune, James E. Kennedy III, Julie M. McCoy, and Thomas C. Pritchard composed the team.

The School's 1982-83 Mock Trial Program consisted of several events. In the fall, the Trial Advocacy Club, which was advised by Professor Frederick C. Moss and funded by the Gaspy Stahl and Spence law firm, held its fifth annual intramural mock trial competition. This competition involved over 100 students from all classes. In the spring, the Trial Advocacy Club sponsored two lectures, and the School sent student mock trial teams to the ABA competition in Houston and to the Association of Trial Lawyers of America Competition in Denver. The two ABA teams were sponsored by the Dallas firm of Strasburger & Price, and the ATLA team was funded by Dallas trial attorney Frank L. Branson ('69).

The Legislative Drafting Center completed its third and most successful year in 1982-83. Advised by Professor Joseph W. McKnight, the Center is a student-run organization designed to provide legislators, municipalities, and public-interest groups with technical assistance in statutory drafting. With the Texas Legislature in session in the spring of 1983, the Center was particularly busy. Its project was to redraft Article XVI, § 51, of the Texas Constitution to redefine the urban homestead in terms of area rather than value. The Legislature passed this amendment, and it will be the subject of a referendum in 1984. The second project was to re draft and revise the State Bar proposal to change the law on testamentary succession to community property. The Center's draft was considered in the House but at the end of the session both the bill drafted by the Center and the bill's text were still unsponsored from legislative committees. A third project was the Center's first congressional bill. Prompted by the spoliation of historical sites along the Texas coast, the Center prepared a bill to remove the recovery of pre-1900 historical shipwrecks from the admiralty law of salvage. The bill has been introduced in both houses of Congress and awaits hearings.

On a lighter note, students at the School, under the leadership of Steven Dryer '83, Deborah R. Cappozzo '84, and Elizabeth H. Weiss '84, revived the Law School Folios in the form of an original production entitled The Headway Show: Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Law, which played to a packed house in Karcher Auditorium on March 5.

It is important to emphasize the positive contributions made to the School by numerous student organizations and student groups. While some law schools face problems of student passivity and indeed hostility, I am pleased to report that our students provide strong support for the School's many activities and facilitate the very open relationship which exists between the faculty and the student body. One important result of this close collaborative spirit in 1982-83 was the adoption of the School's first Code of Professional Responsibility, drafted by a faculty-student committee and approved by the faculty and the student body. The Code sets down the basic rules of ethical student behavior and establishes a mechanism for adjudicating violations.

Placement

The results of the 1982-83 Placement Program indicate the continued growth in the national reputation of the Law School. Our graduates in 1982 were employed in every geographic region of the country and with some of the nation's most prestigious legal employers. Despite the rather difficult economic times, the percentage of students employed within a few months of graduation was 93 percent, again above the national law placement average. One of the most interesting statistics is the fact that about 25 percent of the graduates were employed by major law firms and corporate law departments of more than 50 attorneys. The School takes particular pride in the fact that Ms. Rebecca Hurley '82 was selected to clerk for U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger during the 1982-83 judicial year. In addition, Messrs. Daniel Branche '83 and Mark Minton '83 were appointed to serve as clerks to Texas Supreme Court Justices Jack Pope and Mr. Dan Rosen '82 is to clerk for the Honorable James R. Browning, Chief Judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

As in the past, private law practice in major metropolitan areas continued as the most frequent choice of our graduates, and approximately 70 percent of the class were so employed. Two hundred and fifty firms conducted nearly 5,000 interviews at the School, the highest in our history. Law firms from Los Angeles, Portland, and Minneapolis were added to the already significant number of out-of-state firms interviewing on campus and thereby offering our students expanded career opportunities. The following table summarizes the interview program at the School in 1982-83 and during the previous four years.

Underwood Law Library

At the end of this academic year, the Underwood Law Library continued to show growth in its information resources and in their use.

The collection reached a total of 292,564 volumes and micro-equivalents; 10,972 new items were added to the Library during the year. Material new to the Library required an expenditure of $67,200; renewals of titles already in the collection cost $277,800; maintenance costs for book replacement and binding cost $21,500. In addition, the Library installed a computerized cataloguing system (OCLC) which will enormously facilitate the preparation and management of its bibliographic resources.

Utilization of the collection has increased through efforts of the staff to assist and anticipate the work of students, faculty, and area lawyers. During the year, the Underwood staff responded to more than 30,000 reference queries, 8,000 by phone. Approximately 4,500 photocopy pages were sent in response to requests for assistance by persons not able to come to the Library.

The Library inaugurated its own publication program with the preparation of a bibliography, Doing Business Abroad, by reference librarian Virginia Allen. Over two hundred copies were distributed, and a second bibliography, Doing Business with the People's Republic of China, also compiled by Ms. Allen, was at the press by the close of the year.
The achievements of the School are directly attributable to the substantial support received from graduates and friends. The year 1982-83 witnessed the most successful Law School Fund and Law Library Fund campaigns in the School's history. Total annual gifts to the School amounted to $495,562, an increase of 40 percent over the contributions received in 1981-82.

John P. Falconer, Jr., '65 chaired the 1982-83 Law School Fund, which generated a total of $440,217, including $232,766 in gifts from alumni, all of whom are listed in the appendix. Under Mr. Falconer's direction, following the traditional fund kickoff by Alumni Council President Sam P. Burford, Jr., '67, the Law Alumni Telefund was conducted for ten nights in October by 76 alumni solicitors who telephoned their classmates directly from Lawyers Inn. The 1,974 alumni (nearly 38 percent of the School's total) who contributed to the Fund made an average gift of $117.92.

For the first time, contributors to the Fund were given the option of designating their gifts to areas of special interest, including student scholarships ($293,456), faculty support ($17,156), clinical education ($9,597), and support of the collection and services of Underwood Law Library ($65,245).

The eighth annual Law Library Fund was broadened to include the entire Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan community. As a result, area firms, attorneys, and corporations responded with $57,034, an increase of 62 percent over the previous year. Leading the campaign in support of the Underwood Library were Richard D. Haynes, who chaired the Law Library Fund for Dallas firms and attorneys, and James F. Kelley, chair for Dallas corporate counsel, and alumni Rice M. Tilley, Jr., '61 and Tom L. Lanninore '62 who were chairmen, respectively, for attorneys and for corporations in Fort Worth and Tarrant County.

Support from local law firms, attorneys, friends, organizations, and foundations significantly strengthened the School's Most Court ($16,000) and Trial Advocacy ($9,250) programs, discussed above. Contributions for awards, legal writing, and other areas totaled $36,402. The Shell Companies Foundation committed an additional $45,000 to assist in maintaining the School's Tax Clinic. The School also received several capital gifts, the most important of which was the payment of $50,000 of the $1,000,000 commitment to endow the Rupert and Lilian Radford Chair of Law. A comparative summary of gifts to the School follows.

The Law Alumni Association Council provided significant leadership throughout the year under its President, Sam P. Burford, Jr., '67. At its Annual Meeting near the end of the year, the Council agreed to implement a class reunion, to plan for a possible distinguished alumni awards presentation, and to create additional opportunities for alumni activity and interaction.

Numerous SMU Law School alumni events were held during the year. In June 1983, at the annual convention of the State Bar of Texas, the School was pleased to honor Biaco M. Tartt '59, president-elect of the State Bar of Texas. The previous July, Evelyn H. Biery '73 hosted a luncheon for San Antonio area alumni. In September, I attended a luncheon given by Anthony Schleisenger '66 for alumni in the New York City area. Later that month, Edward R. Smith '57 arranged a luncheon in Lubbock which was followed that evening, in Amarillo, by a reception hosted by the Honorable Charles L. Reynolds '53. A similar format occurred in November with a luncheon given by Robert C. Gist '55 in Oklahoma City and an evening reception in Tulsa hosted by Morris K. Witters '77 and John N. Howe '72. In the spring, our Fort Worth alumni were welcomed at the home of Kathryn Lanford '80 and her husband, Houston alumnus L. Henry Gissell, Jr. '61 and his wife were the hosts at their home for the School's annual reception in that city. Richard Greene '75 organized an alumni luncheon in Wichita, Kansas, during the annual meeting of the Kansas State Bar in May. In April, due to the graciousness of Jackson S. Ryan, a Trustee of Southern Methodist University, I met with Corpus Christi-area alumni and partners from several major firms in that city.

Throughout the year, alumni from appropriate class years held reunion meetings. In October, the class of 1952 met in Dallas as a result of the interest of Jerry N. Jordan '52. In April, Larry V. Smith '73 and Emily A. Parker '73 organized a dinner for the class of 1973. We are now making plans for a regular program of reunion meetings.

We have also sought to strengthen alumni ties with the School by devoting increased resources and efforts to improving the content and format of The Brief, the School's semimonthly alumni magazine.

The School of Law, a product of constant growth since its founding in 1925, remains a dynamic institution. Its administrative staff contributed greatly to its advance during the 1982-83 year. Doris L. Bealle, Assistant to the Dean, Jean Kye Jury, Director of Admissions, John H. Murphy, Director of Placement, N. Fred Taylor, Financial Officer, and James L. Richardson, Jr., Director of Development, made well-recognized and essential contributions to the life of the School. At the beginning of the academic year, Associate Dean for External Affairs Edward O. Coultes '74, who had served capably in that capacity since 1977, resigned to become Executive Director of the State Bar of Texas. Randolph T. Wedd '77 was appointed to succeed him.

The Board of Trustees of Southern Methodist University, at its May 1983 meeting, took an important action affecting the future of the Law School and indeed the entire University. It approved the School's Five-Year Plan as part of a larger University development program. The Plan seeks to give the SMU School of Law a preeminent place among the nation's institutions of legal education. I am convinced that support from alumni friends of the School, combined with the talents and determination of our faculty and staff, will enable us to attain the Plan's objectives in the years ahead.

Respectfully submitted,

Jeswald W. Salacuse
Dean

ROY RYDEN ANDERSON, Professor of Law (B.A., 1966, Texas Christian University; J.D., 1969, Southern Methodist University; LL.M., 1975, Yale University), supervised the School's moot court program, taught Contracts I and II, Commercial Transactions and Damages, prepared a 350-page syllabus and supplementary materials for the course on Commercial Transactions, and was a member of the student/faculty Honor Code Committee charged with the responsibility of drafting the School's honor code.

LACKLAND H. BLOOM, JR., Associate Professor of Law, (B.A., 1970, Southern Methodist University; J.D., 1973, University of Michigan) taught Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Torts, and Civil Rights-Privacy. He prepared the second edition of his Cases and Materials on the Right to Privacy (1982), served as coordinator of the School's Student Judicial Clerkship Program, was a member of the Faculty Senate Handbook Committee, and assumed the time-consuming, but essential, position of Chairman of the Law School Admissions Committee.

RICHARD A. BOOTH, Assistant Professor of Law (A.B., 1973, University of Michigan; J.D. 1976 Yale University) began teaching for the first time in 1982-83 after nearly six years of experience in litigation with the New York firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Irvine. He taught Business Associations I and II, Regulation of Securities Markets and Corporate Take-overs and Freeze-Outs. The latter two courses were new offerings for which he compiled original materials. During the year he completed "Self-Regulation in a Democratic Society," an essay submitted in the ABA's Ross Essay Contest, and "The New Law of Freeze-Out Mergers," an article currently under submission to several journals. He also served as editor of the Corporate Counsel Review, published by the Corporate Counsel Section of the State Bar of Texas.

EARL C. BORGESON, Professor of Law and Director of the Law Library (B.S., 1947, LL.B., 1949, University of Wisconsin; B.S., in Law Librarianship, 1950, University of Washington), was a member of the Law School Executive Committee and University Faculty Senate; chaired the Council of Library Directors; planned Law School Faculty Forum programs; lectured on legal research in Perspectives of American Law and Legal Assistants Programs; directed the Energy Law Program for SMALL, and served on an ABA reappointment team.

WILLIAM J. BRIDGE, Associate Professor of Law (B.S.F.S., 1970, J.D., 1974, Georgetown University) taught Criminal Law, Comparative Law, Evidence, Code of Professional Responsibility, and directed the Legal Writing Program, while serving as advisor to the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition team. His article, "Burdens within Burdens at a Trial within a Trial," was published in 23 Boston College Law Review 927 (1982). Professor Bridge is currently editing a book on the European Common Market, and, with Professor Joseph Norton, is editing its Proceedings. He conducted research on the law of evidence, and was a member of the ABA Committee on Rules of Criminal Procedure and Evidence.

ALAN R. BROMBERG, University Distinguished Professor of Law (B.A. 1949, Harvard; J.D. 1952 Yale) taught Securities Regulation and a Corporate Planning seminar. With Whitaker D. Lowry he wrote the 1983 Supplement to Securities Fraud and Commodities Fraud which included new chapters on measures of damages and secondary liability in securities, and the new express private causes of action in commodities. A member of the American Law Institute and the editorial board of several corporate and securities journals, and a nationally recognized authority on corporate and securities law, he lectured at the University of California (San Diego) and Southwestern Legal Foundation securities institutes. He also chaired the Educational Publications Advisory Board of Matthew Bender & Co., which reviews book proposals for that publisher. He was one of seven faculty members granted the newly created title of University Distinguished Professor. For the State Bar of Texas Committee on Securities he drafted a comprehensive revision and modernization of the Texas Securities Act. The revision encountered opposition from some quarters because it would have largely eliminated the Commissioner's discretionary authority (the "fair, just and equitable" test) to decide what securities may be publicly sold. The proposal was narrowly defeated in the House, although parts of it were enacted.

ROBERT BROUSSEAU, Professor of Law (B.S.F.S., 1969, Georgetown University; J.D., 1972, Duke University; LL.M., 1977, Columbia University) taught Civil Procedure, Workers' Compensation and Conflict of Laws. He is currently writing a treatise on Texas Workers' Compensation Law.

REGIS W. CAMFIELD, Professor of Law (B.A., 1963, Notre Dame University; LL.B., 1966, University of Virginia) taught Trusts, Estate Planning, and Wills. He spoke at the 33rd annual Southern California Tax Institute on "The Role of Joint Tenancies in the New Planning" and will be the incoming editor of Probate Notes, published by the American College of Probate Council. He was also elected to the Executive Council of the International Academy of Estate and Trust Law and chaired the successful Annual SMU Estate Planning Conference held in January, 1983. A member of the American Law Institute, he was served as Chairman of the ABA's Real Property, Probate and Trust Law Committee on Joint Property and as a member of the Estate & Gift Tax Committee and the Transfer and Fiduciary Income Tax Committee of American College of Probate Council. He served as a member of the editorial board of the Supreme Court and coauthored a portion of one volume on the Study of Federal Tax Law: Estate and Gift Taxes (with Pedrick, Kirby & Dickinson). In addition, he chaired the Seventh Annual Notre Dame Estate Planning Institute and edited its proceedings. He is currently writing a wills and trust questions for several bar examinations.

BEVERLY MAY CARL, Professor of Law (B.S.L., 1965, J.D. 1956, University of Southern California; LL.M. 1957, Yale University), on leave last year, received a $20,000 grant from the Dana Foundation for International & Comparative Law to write a book, Transnational Economic Development Law. In the spring of 1983, the U.S. Government sent her on a two-month trip throughout Latin America to deliver more than seventy lectures in Spanish and Portuguese before groups of lawyers, businessmen, officials, and students in twenty-one cities within ten countries. Her topics included international trade, foreign investment, and technology transfer. She teaches Contracts, International Economic Development Law and International Litigation & Arbitration — Private.

NEIL H. COGAN, Associate Professor of Law (Dipl., 1964, Grazt College (Hebrew Studies); B.A., 1968, LL.B., 1989, University of Pennsylvania) taught Constitutional Law, Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Federal Courts, and Supreme Court; continued his research in group actions and constitutional law, and served several University, national, and local social justice organizations.
WILLIAM V. DORSANEO III, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1967, University of Pennsylvania; J.D., 1970, University of Texas), taught Texas Pretrial Procedure, Texas Trial and Appellate Procedure, and Torts. He completed the second edition of Texas Procedure: Pretrial Litigation. He lectured on various aspects of trial and appellate practice in professional programs of the State Bar of Texas and the University of Houston. In addition, he served as the Reporter for the Committee on the Administration of Justice and the Texas Supreme Court Advisory Committee on a project for revision of the Texas discovery rules.

WILLIAM J. FLITTIE, Professor of Law, (B.S.C., 1946, University of Minnesota; LL.B., 1947, Columbia University). An expert in the fields of oil and gas and antitrust law, he completed the 1983 supplement to W. Summers, The Law of Oil and Gas (Perm. Ed.). He also was engaged in extensive research concerned with possible use of Sherman Antitrust Act injunctive processes to curb labor racketeering.

JEFFREY M. GABA, Assistant Professor of Law, (B.A., 1972, University of California, Santa Barbara; J.D., 1976, Columbia University), taught Property, Land Use Planning, and a seminar in Environmental Regulation of Energy Production. He has been a contributor to the Annual Report of the Water Quality Committee of the American Bar Association and has spoken at several environmental conferences. In the summer of 1982, he, together with Professors Howard J. Taubenfeld and Theodore Hadzi-Antich, held a contract with the U.S. A.I.D. for a review of environmental law of Tunisia. He has recently completed a work on federal supervision of state water quality standards which will be published in the fall in the Vanderbilt Law Review.

CHARLES O. GALVIN, Professor of Law, (B.S.C., 1940, Southern Methodist University; M.B.A., 1941, J.D., 1947, Northwestern University; S.J.D., 1961, Harvard University), taught Income Taxation and Estate Planning. Professor Galvin resigned from the School of Law at the end of 1982 to accept the Centennial Chair in Law at Vanderbilt University.

BERNHARD GROSSFELD, Visiting Professor of Law, (J.D., 1960, University of Muenster; LL.M., 1963, Yale University), Professor Grossfeld is a leading European expert in private international law and comparative business law and is working on a new edition of his book Legal Problems of Transnational Enterprises. During the academic year he taught Comparative Law, Private International Law and International Economic Development Law I.

JOHN E. KENNEDY, Professor of Law, (Ph.B., 1956, LL.B., 1959, Notre Dame University; LL.M., 1964, J.S.D., 1970, Yale University) taught Group Actions, Federal Courts, Legislative and Administrative Process, Equitable Remedies, and Procedure I and II. An authority in the field of procedure, Professor Kennedy served as Reporter to the United States Judicial Conference Implementation Committee on Admission of Attorneys to Federal Practice and also continued research for a book on class actions, tentatively entitled Modern Class Remedies.

MAXINE T. MCCONNELL-TOBIN, Assistant Professor of Law and Director of the Civil Clinic (B.A., 1940, LL.B., 1953, Southern Methodist University), taught the Civil Clinic classes, revised the Civil Clinic Practice Manual, and prepared materials and problems on negotiations for use in Civil Clinic.

JOSEPH W. MCKNIGHT, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1947, University of Texas; B.A., 1949, B.C.L., 1950, and M.A. 1954, Oxford University; LL.M., 1959 Columbia University) taught Texas Matrimonial Property Law, American Legal History, Legislation, and Perspectives of American Law. Students and practitioners have long urged professor Mc Knight to write a full length treatment of his principal subject and it has just appeared: Texas Matrimonial Property Law (with William A. Reppy, Jr., of Duke University) (xxx, 346, Michie Co., 1983). He also published his seventeenth annual survey of the Texas law of spouses and their property, 37 Sw.L.J. 65-110 (1983), and edited two non-legal pieces, the diary of a Texas Soldier in the Mexican War, A Journal of Travels Out West, by D. R. Woods, 13 El Campanario 11-19 (1981), and two family memoirs, Girlhoods in Texas in the 1850s and 60s, vi, 10 (1982). Professor Mc Knight also addressed a number of continuing education institutes and contributed two amicus curiae to the Texas Supreme Court. In addition to updating his video tape for the State Bar of Texas on Texas matrimonial property law, he drafted a Texas constitutional amendment to redefine the urban homestead and a Congressional bill for the protection of historic shipwrecks.
CHARLES J. MORRIS, Professor of Law, (A.B., 1944, Temple University; LL.B., 1948, Columbia University) taught Labor Law, Code of Professional Responsibility, and chaired the teaching of Perspectives of American Law during the fall semester. He was on sabbatical leave during the spring semester. Until December, 1982, he served as a member of the Federal Service Impasses Panel. The long-awaited two-volume treatise on the National Labor Relations Act, THE DEVELOPING LABOR LAW, 2nd Edition, sponsored by the Labor and Employment Law Section of the American Bar Association, for which Professor Morris served as Editor-in-Chief, was published in July, 1983. A nationally acclaimed authority on labor law and labor arbitration, he lectured and participated in many labor and management programs and meetings during the past year.

J. SCOTT MORRIS, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1962, Rice University; J.D., 1965, Southern Methodist University; LL.M, 1967 Harvard University) was on leave during the academic year. He resigned from the School of Law at the end of the academic year to enter private practice in Austin.

FREDERICK C. MOSS, Associate Professor of Law (A.B., 1965, Georgetown University; J.D., 1968, Villanova University; LL.M., 1977, Harvard University), taught Criminal Law, Code of Professional Responsibility, Evidence, and Trial Advocacy. He was Director of the 1983 Southern Regional Program of the National Institute for Trial Advocacy, held at SMU in June, and helped administer and teach a week-long trial skills course for Louisiana and Tennessee legal services attorneys in Lafayette, Louisiana, in May. Over the past year, Professor Moss designed, administered, and taught an expanded Trial Advocacy course capable of doubling the size of the previous trial course. He oversaw the Trial Advocacy Club’s intramural mock trial competition, and prepared SMU’s two mock trial teams for intercollegiate competition.

CARLA A. NEELEY, Assistant Professor of Law, (B.A., 1973, Duke University; J.D., 1976, University of Florida), taught Wills, Trusts, Federal Income Tax Problems of Exempt Organizations, and Real Property Problems. She undertook a research project on exempt organizations and served as a member of the Faculty Appointments Committee.

JOSEPH JUDE NORTON, Professor of Law, (A.B., 1966, Providence College; LL.B., 1969, University of Edinburgh, LL.M., 1970, University of Texas; S.J.D., 1973, University of Michigan; Diploma, Hague Academy, 1975), taught Business Associations I and II, Domestic International Banking Law courses, and European Community Law. He is the author of the two-volume Regulation of Business Enterprise on the U.S.A. and is the coauthor of Banking Law Manual (1982) and is co-director of the University’s Institute on International Banking. He is the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Legal Studies and served as a member of the Executive Committee, and as a Law School Representative on the University Senate.

WILLIAM C. POWERS, JR., Visiting Professor of Law, (B.A., 1976, University of California-Berkeley; J.D., 1973, Harvard University), was on leave from the University of Texas School of Law and taught Torts I and II, Products Liability and Jurisprudence.

ROARK M. REED, Professor of Law, (B.S., B.A., 1965, J.D., 1969, Georgetown University), was the recipient of a Fulbright Lectureship to Japan for the 1982-83 academic year. He lectured on constitutional criminal procedure at the University of Tokyo, published a series of articles on American Criminal Procedure in the Japanese legal periodical, Jurist, was elected an honorary member of the Japan Criminal Law Society, and was a guest lecturer at SMU’s Japanese sister university, Kansei Gakuin.

C. PAUL ROGERS III, Associate Professor of Law and Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, (B.A., 1970, J.D., 1973, University of Texas; LL.M., 1977, Columbia University), teaches Contracts I and II, Commercial Transactions, and Antitrust Law. A specialist in antitrust law, he is currently working on an antitrust casebook to be published by Matthew Bender & Co. He will shortly have articles published in the Tulane Law Review and International and Comparative Law Quarterly and frequently speaks on antitrust subjects at CLE conferences. In addition to his position as associate dean, he served as faculty advisor to the Journal of Air Law & Commerce and chaired the Diverse Student Recruitment Committee at the law school.

JESWALD W. SALACUSE, Dean and Professor of Law, (A.B., 1960, Hamilton College, J.D., 1963, Harvard University), taught Business Associations and Legal Problems of International Business. The first three volumes of his projected six-volume Treatise on International Business Planning, Law and Taxation (with W.P. Strong) were published by Matthew Bender Company. He was appointed to a three-year term as a trustee of the Dallas Bar Foundation and continued to serve on the Board of the Council for International Exchange of Scholars.

DANIEL W. SHUMAN, Professor of Law, (B.S., 1969, J.D., 1972 University of Arizona), taught Procedure, Evidence, Law and Psychiatry and Law and Medicine. Chairman of the Financial Aid Committee and a member of the Executive Committee, he also supervised the student tutorial program. He also delivered a paper at the 6th World Congress on Medical Law in Belgium. At its May meeting, the Board of Trustees confirmed his promotion to Professor of Law. His publications included The Privilege of General Psychiatry (with M. Weiner); What Patients Don’t Tell Their Therapists. Integrative Psychiatry (with M. Weiner).

ELLEN K. SOLENDER, Professor of Law (A.B., 1944, Oberlin College, J.D., 1971 Southern Methodist University), was on sabbatical during the 1982-83 year to undertake research in the area of law. She also wrote "Family Law: Parent and Child," Annual Survey of Texas Law, 37 Sw.J., 111-132 (1953).
WALTER W. STEELE, JR., Professor and Associate Dean for Clinical Education, (LLB, 1957, Southern Methodist University; LL.M., 1969, University of Texas), supervised the School's Clinical programs and served as Interim Director of the Criminal Justice Clinic. He also taught Law Office Management and Texas Criminal Procedure. During the year Professor Steele was called upon by the A.B.A. to serve on the inspection team for the University of Dayton Law School, and he also served as a consultant on clinical programs to the University of Houston School of Law.

A. J. THOMAS, JR., William Hawley Atwell Professor of Constitutional Law, (B.S., 1939, A & M College of Texas; LL.B., 1943, University of Texas; LL.M., 1947, and S.J.D., 1951, University of Michigan), taught Constitutional Law I and Conflicts of Law in the fall semester 1982. Professor Thomas died on December 3, 1982, after having served the School of Law faithfully and well as a member of the faculty since 1948. At the time of his death, his book, co-authored with his wife, Professor Ann Van Wynen Thomas, The War-Making Powers of the President: Constitutional and International Law Aspects, was at the press.

VINCENT S. WALKOWIAK, Professor of Law, (B.A., 1968, J.D., 1971, University of Illinois), was on leave for the academic year 1982-83 with the law firm of Fulbright & Jaworski, Houston, Texas. He nevertheless organized the Fourth Annual SMU Products Liability Symposium and edited a book, The Trial of a Product Liability Case (1982). An expert in the field of trial advocacy, he spoke on “Proving Product Defect” to the International Academy of Trial Lawyers, was a member of the faculty of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy Southern Regional, in 1982 and 1983, lectured on cross examination of the Expert Witness for, as well as serving on the Executive Committee of, the Texas College of Trial Advocacy, and participated in the advanced trial advocacy program sponsored by the National Institute of Trial Advocacy held in Boulder, Colorado. He is also serving on the planning committee for the 1984 University of Texas Trial Advocacy Conference.

PETER WINSHIP, Associate Professor of Law, (B.A., 1965, LL.B., 1968, Harvard University; LL.M., 1973, University of London (London School of Economics), taught commercial law and bankruptcy courses. He continued work on a commercial law casebook and a treatise on personal property leasing law. He acted as consultant for the U.S. State Department with respect to the 1980 U. N.
