GENERAL INFORMATION

The School of Law is open to both men and women. Its aim is to prepare students for the practice of law in any state, and to encourage scholarship and research. It also offers the advantages of legal training to students of government and public administration, and to those who are planning to enter business careers.

HISTORY

The School of Law was established by resolution of the Board of Trustees February 10, 1925. It was formally opened on the fifteenth of the following September with a faculty of two and a student body of twenty. The first class, consisting of twelve men and one woman, was graduated in June, 1928.

In 1927 the School of Law was placed on the list of law schools approved by the Council on Legal Education of the American Bar Association, and in 1929 it was admitted to membership in the Association of American Law Schools. By 1941, its faculty had increased to seven full-time teachers and ten part-time lecturers, and a student body of more than 200.

THE TWO DIVISIONS

In 1938 the Dallas School of Law, which had been established in 1925 by the Young Men's Christian Association of Dallas and had been sponsored by distinguished members of the Dallas bar, was merged with the School of Law of Southern Methodist University. Since that time the School of Law has operated both a Day Division and an Evening Division.

Prospective students are urged wherever possible to pursue their law studies in the Day Division. Preparation for the law as a profession is a serious business, and, to be well done, requires a large expenditure of time and energy. Day classes should be preferred even if the student has to spend a material part of his time in earning a portion of his expenses and as a result requires a longer time to finish his law course.

LIBRARIES

The classrooms, offices, and library of the School of Law are situated on the first two floors of the east wing of Dallas Hall, the central building on the campus.

The Law Library contains about 25,000 well-selected books, including practically all reported cases of the national government and all the states, from the American Revolution to the present time, and practically all English reported cases from the time of Henry VIII. It subscribes to more than fifty legal periodicals, and has complete files of forty. It also has a good collection of digests, statutes, and textbooks. In addition, the new, air-conditioned Fondren Library, containing 120,000 catalogued books and pamphlets, is near-by and is available at all times to law students.

ADVANTAGES

The classes in the School of Law are small, rarely containing more than forty students. As a result, students have the advantage of individual attention and close personal relations with their teachers. The case method of instruction is used, and all students prepare materials for class presentation and are encouraged to participate in classroom discussions.

The location of Southern Methodist University is another advantage for law students. Dallas, with its State and Federal courts, its great wholesale, banking, and oil interests, and its wealth of interesting litigation, presents a laboratory for the law student and an opportunity for the student to become acquainted with the work of outstanding members of the bench and bar.

The Advisory Committee of the School of Law includes some of the most distinguished lawyers of Texas. The Lecturers, prominent practicing lawyers who offer certain courses in the Day and Evening Divisions, give instruction in the specialized fields in which they have won recognition.

SPEEDING UP THE LAW COURSE

For the duration of the war emergency, the following changes have been made to speed the student to his law degree:

1. Our College of Arts and Sciences has arranged, and most other accredited colleges have arranged, summer sessions of full semester length so that the pre-law student can secure in one long session and two summers the 60 semester-hours of credit required for admission to the School of Law. The result is that a student who graduates from high school in May, 1944, can, by attending college continuously from June 27, be ready to enter the School of Law in October, 1945.

2. The minimum age required for admission to the School of Law has been reduced from 19 to 18.

3. The number of semester-hours required for the LL.B. degree has been reduced from 78 to 72.

4. By continuous attendance upon the law classes, summer and winter, a student can complete the usual three-year course in two calendar years in the Day Division, or the four-year evening course in three calendar years.

From this it will be seen that a period of only three calendar years and one additional summer separates the high-school graduate from his law degree. By hard work and continuous attendance upon college and law school, he may be able to secure his law degree before he is called for military service.

EXPENSES

DAY DIVISION

Tuition.—The tuition for full work in the Day Division of the School of Law is $150 per trimester of 15 weeks. For a course of less than nine semester-hours, the tuition is $18 per semester-hour for the first three hours and $16 per semester-hour for each additional hour.* Tuition for each term of the Summer trimester is $75.

Student Activity Fee.—All regular students in the University, including law students in the Day Division, pay the Student Activity Fee of $11.50 each for the Winter and Spring trimesters, which is assessed by the Students' Association. That fee pays for tickets to all athletic contests on the campus, for the students' annual, the semi-weekly newspaper and other activities in which the students are interested.

Library Deposit.—All students make a library deposit of $5 at the beginning of the school year. It is returned to the student at the end of the year less any deductions for damages or fines.

Payment of Accounts.—Tuition and other fees are payable at the beginning of each trimester, but arrangements may be made with the Business Manager of the University to pay in instalments for a small carrying charge.

EVENING DIVISION

Tuition.—The tuition for full work in the Evening Division is $95 per trimester. For students taking part-time work (less than nine semester-hours), the charge is a reasonable proration of the tuition, according to the number of hours taken. Tuition for each term of the Summer Session is $47.50.

*Part-time students who do not pay the student activity fee are required to pay seventy-five cents per trimester for the student newspaper.

The Student Activity Fee is optional for students in the Evening Division.

The Library Deposit is the same as in the Day Division.

Payment of Accounts.—Tuition in the Evening Division is payable by the month in advance.

ROOM AND BOARD

The University dormitories, which are ordinarily open to law students, have been requisitioned by the Navy, but accommodations in private homes in the University community can be had at reasonable rates.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND OTHER AIDS

The following scholarships are offered to graduates of senior colleges who enter the Day Division of the School of Law:

Two scholarships, each paying $75 per trimester, established by the Board of Trustees.

These are awarded by the Dean of the School of Law on the basis of scholastic record and general effectiveness. Application, on a blank furnished on request, should be made to the Dean before July 1. It should be accompanied by a transcript of the applicant's scholastic record and the names of three references.

In addition, several students of high standing are usually employed for part-time work in the Law Library.

STUDENT SELF-SUPPORT

Dallas offers unusual opportunities for self-support, and many students in the School of Law earn a portion of their expenses by part-time employment. Practically all students in the Evening Division are self-supporting. The University maintains a bureau to assist students in finding places.

MOOT COURT WORK

All students, especially beginning students, are encouraged to participate in the moot court work. This work is not connected with the course in Practice Court offered in the senior year. The student-attorneys submit carefully prepared briefs of the questions of law involved in their case, and later argue it orally before a judge or group of judges selected from the bench or bar. On Lawyers' Day, on April 21, or on the nearest Saturday to that date, the work culminates in the argument of some important question of law before a banc of judges composed of members of the Supreme Court of Texas, or, as in 1942 when a criminal case was argued, before the members of the Court of Criminal Appeals. To the winning team is presented the Arthur A. Everts Award, and to the individual participants book prizes donated by the publishers. A small amount of credit, not to exceed one semester-hour, is allowed for this work. Because of the war emergency it was found necessary to dispense with the Lawyers' Day program in 1943 and 1944. It may be found necessary to omit it in 1945.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS*

Regular Students.—An applicant for admission to the School of Law must be eighteen years of age and must have completed two full years of college work in an approved institution, with credits amounting to 60 semester-hours, and with grade-points at least equal in number to the number of semester-hours of college work undertaken, that is, with a weighted average of C or above in all pre-law courses attempted, whether passed or not.

in actual residence

While no specific college courses are prescribed, the following are recommended as furnishing a satisfactory foundation for law study:

RECOMMENDED PRE-LAW COURSE

First Year	Second Year
English Composition, 6 semester-hours	English Literature, 6 semester-hours
English History, 6 semester-hours	American History, 6 semester-hours
Mathematics, 6 semester-hours	A second science, 6 semester-hours
Economics, 6 semester-hours	Government, 6 semester-hours
A natural science, 6 semester-hours	Accounting, 6 semester-hours

If a foreign language is selected, it should be Latin.

Special Students.—A limited number of persons twenty-three years of age or over who cannot meet the entrance requirements may be admitted for special study by permission of the Dean, but no credit toward a degree can be given, nor is he eligible to take the state bar examination for license to practice law. A special student must satisfy the Dean that he is of good moral character and possesses sufficient capacity, training, experience, and industry to profit by the instruction offered. If his work proves unsatisfactory, he will be dropped from the school. A special student who successfully completes the law course will be given a certificate so stating.

ADMISSION TO ADVANCED STANDING

An applicant who is qualified to enter the School of Law as a candidate for a degree, and who has satisfactorily completed a period of study in a law school that is a member of the Association of

*Each student entering the University is required to present a certificate of physical examination and a record of vaccination.

American Law Schools, or that has been placed on the approved list of the Council of Legal Education of the American Bar Association, may be given equivalent rank in this school upon presenting a properly authenticated certificate of such work. The right is reserved to give credit only on examination and to withdraw credit if the student's work in this school should prove unsatisfactory.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE LAW DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) will be conferred upon a candidate therefor who has credit for 72 semester-hours of law work, distributed over a period of not less than ninety weeks for the Day Division, and one hundred and twenty weeks for the Evening Division, who is of good moral character, and who has complied with the following conditions:

1. He must have completed at least two trimesters of residence work in the Day Division—or three trimesters in the Evening Division—immediately preceding the granting of the degree.
2. The work done during his last year must not have been counted toward a law degree elsewhere.
3. An average grade of at least C (70) must be made on all courses completed within the two trimesters next preceding graduation. In computing this average there will be included each course in which the student shall have taken the final examination, regardless of whether credit for the course is necessary to make up the minimum requirement of semester-hours.
4. The total amount of D-grade work which a student may count toward a law degree in any one year, trimester, or term, shall not exceed one-third of the total hours for which he was registered during the period involved.
5. The law degree will not be conferred upon anyone markedly deficient in English, nor upon anyone who has not completed all the required courses.

HONORS

Candidates for the LL.B. degree having the highest average grade, not to exceed ten per cent of the graduating class, may, by vote of the Law faculty, be awarded the degree cum laude. No one shall be eligible who shall have taken elsewhere more than one-third of the work offered for this degree. The average grade shall be based on work done in this school only; but to receive the degree cum laude a transfer from another college must have at least a B average (80 or above) in law courses in the school previously attended.

At the beginning of the second trimester the faculty elects the highest ten per cent of the senior class to membership in the local scholarship society known as the Order of the Woolsack.

TWO DEGREES IN SIX YEARS

By pursuing one of the schedules of study suggested below a student may by diligent study secure a degree in the College of Arts, or in the School of Business Administration, and a law degree, in a period of six scholastic years, or in four years under our acceleration program, explained on page 6. To do this the student must complete three scholastic years in the College of Arts or in the School of Business Administration, satisfying all the specific course and scholastic requirements set out in the bulletin of the school in which he is registered. He then registers in the School of Law for his fourth year, and upon completion of one year's work he may be awarded the A.B. degree or the B.B.A. degree, provided his credit hours amount to a total of 124 semester-hours (including four hours of physical education), and have been completed with the grade average prescribed by the bulletin of the school concerned; and provided further that not less than 30 semester-hours have been completed in Southern Methodist University or in Dallas College. He may count his law work as his major if he has eighteen or more law credits with no grade below 70. If not, then he must satisfy the major requirement as prescribed in the bulletin of the school from which he seeks to graduate.

After receiving his A.B. or B.B.A. degree, the student may complete the law course in two more years in the School of Law. The result is that the diligent student may by following one of these combined courses, in six scholastic years secure two degrees that, pursued separately, would require seven years. And if the student can carry a full load of work right "around the calendar," it is possible to reduce this six-year period to four calendar years.

Below we suggest one schedule of work for the student in the College of Arts and Sciences, and another for the student in the School of Business Administration, that, combined with three years in the School of Law, will enable him successfully to carry out the plan outlined above.

REGULATIONS

The School of Law has its own rules governing registration, changing courses, classroom attendance, quizzes and examinations, grades and reports, failures and continuance in the school, and graduation. These rules are kept posted on the official bulletin board and the student is charged with notice of them.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

Admission to the bar in Texas is now based exclusively on examinations given by the State Board of Law Examiners in Austin.

To be eligible for these examinations, the student must be a citizen of Texas and of the United States, must have had two years (60 semester-hours) of college work at the time he began the study of law and must have pursued his law studies for a period of not less than 27 months in a full-time law school, or 36 months in a part-time law school. Two examinations are given each year, one beginning on the fourth Monday in February and the other on the second Monday in July. For the course of study prescribed and the rules governing the examinations, address H. P. Steinle, Secretary, Board of Law Examiners, Austin, Texas.

The curriculum of the School of Law substantially covers all the subjects on which the bar examinations are based.

CURRICULA FOR 1944-1945

DAY AND EVENING DIVISIONS

For the duration of the war, the school year is divided into three trimesters. The Summer Trimester begins June 27 and ends October 28, 1944. The Winter Trimester begins October 30 and closes February 27, 1945. The Spring Trimester begins March 3 and ends June 25, 1945.

The Summer Trimester for 1944 is divided into two terms, with a break of two weeks from August 19 to September 4.

The following curricula have been worked out so as to furnish beginning students and also upper classmen a full schedule of work. If, in particular cases, a full quota of work is not available, special reading courses in other subjects will be given, adapted to the individual student's need.
