Conferring of Honorary Degrees

ARTHUR ANDREWS COLLINS, Doctor of Engineering

Arthur A. Collins is a pioneer in electronic communication. His inventions and creative talents have touched the lives and affairs of all men.

At the age of twenty-five he designed and constructed the radio transmitters for the famous Byrd expedition to Antarctica. A few years later he made the walkie-talkie possible. This was followed by other important advances in radio communication, including remote and automatic tuning systems, tropospheric scatter communication methods, and single-side-band transmitters and receivers. We fly safely today largely due to Collins-designed and -produced equipment for navigation, flight control, and communication. Our space program from Echo I through all of the Apollo flights has depended upon Collins equipment.

Arthur Collins is a singular man: he is chief executive officer of a world-wide company that employs over 24,000 people, yet he continues to contribute to technical developments as a practicing engineer. His inventive talents are now directed toward the problems of automated production, of communication between computers, and of teleproduction.

We are recognizing the many contributions, talents, and achievements of Arthur Collins; but, we are also singling out his qualities of inventiveness, individualism, tirelessness, and courage pioneering as outstanding examples for our students to follow. Southern Methodist University is proud to confer upon Arthur A. Collins the degree Doctor of Engineering, honoris causa.

Presented by Professor Thomas Lyle Martin, Jr.

TOM LEA, Doctor of Humane Letters

Novelist, historian and painter, he has used his multiple talents to record in word and in picture the antiquity and the many-sided culture of the American Southwest, in its physical landscape and its aboriginal Indian, Spanish Colonial, Mexican and Anglo-American history. His work celebrates the brown land of the El Paso area where he was born and where he has preferred to live, though his career has carried him to the Far East as wartime artist-correspondent, to South America, to Europe and Africa. This celebration of his region proceeds from a scrupulous and exacting mind, whether he is writing the history of the greatest of ranches, painting the life story in sequential pictures of a Mexican soldier in Pancho Villa's army, or fusing both words and paintings to evoke the civilization along the Rio Grande. In this attachment to his land, he has enriched our consciousness of the past and illuminated our understanding of the present. In recognition of this accomplishment, we are proud to confer upon him this day the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Presented by Professor Lon Tinkle

CHARLES APPLETON MEYER, Doctor of Laws

Distinguished businessman, statesman and civic leader, he has exemplified the ideal of the modern businessman concerned with and dedicated to the public interest to which he is willing to give generously of his time, talents and other resources. As a businessman, he has directed effectively a large enterprise not only in the United States but also in Latin America. As a statesman, he has served in various governmental roles generally involving the relations of the United States with our Latin American neighbors. At the present time, he is serving with distinction as Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs and United States Coordinator for the Alliance for Progress. As a civic leader, he has served in many leadership roles to advance the cultural, educational and economic welfare of his city and region. In recognition of all these contributions, we are pleased to confer upon him this day the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Presented by Professor Sydney Chandler Reagan
