TRIBUTE TO JUDGE SANDERS

Portia Robert

I was blessed to be there when Judge Sanders learned how to use the computer—in his 70s! It began with a request for a Temporary Restraining Order in a risqué case. Playboy Enterprises sought to enjoin another company from displaying photos with the Playboy logo on its website. In preparing for the hearing, Judge would come to my office to learn about uploading, downloading, and navigating the Internet, starting with the parties' websites. He quickly grasped the concepts and then ordered his own computer so he could keep up with the latest news. Judge was so eager to learn more about the computer that I gave him a Computers for Dummies book, which excited—rather than offended—this brilliant, humble, kind man.
