Corrigendum

THE INTERNATIONAL LAWYER greatly appreciates the contributions of the 108 main authors of the Section's committees and task forces in The International Legal Developments in Review: 1996. We also appreciate the countless other contributors to the Summer 1997 issue. Misspelled names of credited authors will be corrected in the Volume 31 Index. The editors deeply regret these errors. The journal has established procedures to ensure that future authors, and their affiliations, will be accurate in next year's issue, through publication agreements collected with the manuscripts. Additionally, the following oversights oblige us to publish this list:

1. Page 245: The author's correct name is Caryl BenBasat.
2. Page 321: John E. Davis's law firm affiliation is Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts in New York.
3. Page 329: "International Litigation Part III. Forum Selection and Forum Non Conveniens" also was written by David Campos, of Arnold & Porter in Washington, D.C.
4. Page 331: Ricky Diwan is the correct author of "International Litigation Part IV. Extraterritorial Application of U.S. Law."
5. Page 338: Daniel C. Malone's law firm affiliation is Debevoise & Plimpton in New York.
6. Page 352: Prakash Rajamani, a member of the law firm Arnold & Porter in Washington, D.C., is also the coauthor of "International Litigation: Part IX. Act of State."
7. Page 421: Charles R. Baesler, Jr.'s law firm affiliation is Stoll, Keenon & Park, L.L.P., in Lexington, Kentucky.
8. Page 427: The author's correct name is John A. Ordway.
9. Page 433: Eric Salonen is an attorney-advisor in the office of Marcia Miller, Chair, U.S. International Trade Commission. Mr. Salonen's views were solely his own and are not attributable to the U.S. International Trade Commission.
