Editors' Notes

The Board of Editors of The International Lawyer wishes to draw the attention of the journal's readers to the following:

NAFTA Symposium

The editors express their deepest appreciation to Judith H. Bello for her major efforts in conceiving and organizing the most timely NAFTA Symposium articles contained in this issue of TIL.

The TIL editors also wish to recognize the great efforts that have been expended and are continuing to be expended by our Section's International Trade Committee (M. Jean Anderson, chair) and our special NAFTA Task Force (M. Jean Anderson and Mont P. Hoyt, co-chairs) in monitoring NAFTA developments and in keeping our membership apprised of such developments.

Related NAFTA Book Publication

The articles on the NAFTA contained in this issue of TIL, together with other NAFTA-related articles compiled and edited by Judith H. Bello and Joseph J. Norton (editor-in-chief of TIL), are to be published as a book by the ABA Press and the ABA Section of International Law and Practice. This book is planned to appear within four months after the anticipated passage of the U.S. NAFTA implementing legislation.

TIL Student Editors' January 1994

NAFTA Symposium

TIL's Student Editorial Board, in conjunction with TIL, the ABA Section of International Law and Practice, and the SMU School of Law, will present a two-day symposium on the NAFTA, in Dallas, Texas, on January 27-28, 1994. The symposium will focus on post federal implementing legislation and any related "side agreements," and will be approved for MCLE credit hours. For further information, call the SMU School of Law Office of Continuing Legal Education at 214/768-2644.
