Nothing Takes Its Place

The Shepard's Citations system is based on simplicity, completeness and accuracy. Its purpose is to give you in the most compact form possible all of the information you need concerning an earlier authority.

Shepard's thus provides you with a maximum of protection and offers an economy of operation that greatly increases the usefulness of your library.

Once you have acquired the habit of bringing every case and statute up to date through Shepard's Citations, you will know that—in legal research—nothing can take its place.
