INTER ALIA

The Leading Articles section of the present issue of the Journal has been devoted to a symposium treatment of labor law in view of the current interest across the nation and the rapidly increasing importance of this area of the law in the Southwest. The Institute this past spring sponsored by the Labor Law Section of the State Bar of Texas and presented by the Southwestern Legal Foundation was of outstanding quality and significance. For these reasons it was felt both timely and worthwhile to present the present symposium based largely on that Institute. Special appreciation is extended to Professor Lennart V. Larson, permanent Secretary of the Labor Law Section, for his able advice and assistance in the preparation of these articles.

The Journal was also fortunate in being able to include in the Symposium on Labor Law an article by Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., based on an address given by him at the Fifth Annual Lawyer's Week Banquet reporting on the activities of the Department of Justice in combating labor racketeering.

The article on the Texas law of water rights begun in Volume 9, No. 1, by Dean A. A. White and Associate Justice Will Wilson will be concluded in the Fall, 1955, issue of the Journal. This will complete an exhaustive and scholarly study of one of the most difficult and current problems confronting the entire Southwest.
